HOUSE TRUCE IS IMPOSSIBLE, AVERS GARNER

Leader Says No Yielding to Political Expediency Is to Be Expected.

HOOVER PROPOSALS WILL BE WEIGHED

G. O. P. Contest for Speaker-Ship Nomination Hearing Is Scheduled.

(Associated Press.)

No political truce and no yielding to political expediency were the guide posts set for the Democrats in the next House yesterday by Representative Garner.

The Democratic speakership choice said President Hoover's proposals to the coming Congress would be considered on their merits. They will be neither automatically condemned nor automactically sanctified because they come from the White House, he said.

"For my part, if we organize the House, politics will be a secondary consideration and I think every member of my party feels the same way," he added.

Makes Statement.

The statement, his first since returning to Washington, came through the Democratic national committee. Earlier in the day the New York Democratic delegation leader, Representative Cullen, informed him that his lineup of 23 would give him solid support in his speakership candidacy. This virtually assures the Texan of election provided all the 217 Democratic votes can be amassed when Congress convenes December 7. Election of a Speaker determines which party will organize the House.

In the meantime Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican leader in the last House, expressed hope to President Hoover that administration-supported legislation would be passed. Tilson conferred with the Democratic leader yesterday, but said he had heard no talk of a coalition between the parties.

On the same subject, Garner had this to say:

"Since my return to Washington I have been asked repeatedly if the Democrats of the House of Representatives would enter into an agreement with the administration to declare a 'political truce.'

"What was meant was whether the Democrats would engage to support every proposal submitted by the President to Congress; their assumption being that this would avoid confusion and be conducive to the recovery of the country from its present industrial and financial ills.

"My questioners seem oblivious to the rather insulting character of such an inquiry, for it amounts to the implication that our representatives in Congress are capable of sacrificing the welfare of the country to political expediency.

"Neither I nor any other person can commit the Democratic members of Congress, or prescribe how they should vote. However, it is taking no chance to prophesy that they will go along with the President so far as the prosperity and good faith of the country warrants.

"In other words, I do not anticipate that any Democrat will oppose a measure plainly necessary for the industrial health of our people or one that will relieve us of some of the embarrassments for which we believe

Defense Rests in Fraud Trial of Charles Bob

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The defense rested late today in the trial of Charles V. Bob, mining promoter and aviation enthusiast, and Frederick C. Russell, an associate, accused of using the mails to defraud.

Bob, one of the financial backers of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's dash to the South Pole, had called the explorer as a character witness earlier in the week. The case probably will reach the jury in Federal Judge John C. Knox's court next Tuesday.

Coast Guard Nabs 10 Rumrunners

Two Ships Are Taken in Chases on Different Areas of Coast.

Woods Hole, Mass., Nov. 12 (A.P.). An alleged Providence, R. I., rumrunner valued, with its cargo, at $125,000, was captured with its crew of seven last night by a Coast Guard speedboat after the Government craft had opened fire during a hot chase.

The 76-foot motor boat Je T'Aime and the seven men, all of whom, the captors said, wore bullet-proof vests, were captured shortly before 10 p. m., according to the commander of the Woods Hole Coast Guard base. The capture was made by the Government speedboat 813, in charge of Chief Boatswain's Mate C. J. McLeod, off Sakonnett Point.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A remodeled rumrunner, valued at about $20,000, with three men and a cargo of whisky valued at $20,000, was captured in Sheepshead Bay Inlet today after a running chase in which two blank shots were fired by a Coast Guard picket boat in charge of Boatswain's Mate Arthur Carlsen.

11 Saved After 3 Days Drifting in Lifeboat

Minesweeper Finds Crew Sighted by Flier; Five Had Perished; Lost Vessel Was Formerly Rotorship; Heroism and Hardship Recounted.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Balboa, Canal Zone, Nov. 12 (A.P.). Bearing a tale of disaster and heroism, the master and ten men of the Costa Rican schooner Baden Baden were snatched from the waters of the Caribbean today and were bound back toward Cristobal tonight aboard the U. S. S. minesweeper Swan.

The captain of the Swan wirelessed here that the seamen had been rescued from an open lifeboat off the coast of Colombia and would be landed at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. Five of the complement had been lost, he reported, and Capt. Hewitt Walters, of Mobile, Ala., was suffering from contusions to his back and possible internal injuries.

The vessel foundered Monday afternoon in heavy seas and the crew took to lifeboats and liferafts with the exception of the two owners, Hans J. Lau, of Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, and Adolph Schoner, of Hamburg, Germany, who refused to leave the sinking ship and went to a watery grave. How the others met their deaths was not revealed.

During a storm which raged along the isthmus and the north coast of Colombia on Monday the cargo shifted and the pumps went out of order, causing the vessel to sink within 20 minutes. Without food and with only rain for water, the crew drifted for three days until they were picked up by the Swan. They were sighted 20 minutes after the vessel went down by a Pan-American pilot, but he could not take them aboard because of the roughness of the sea.

When the Swan came alongside, Capt. Walters was carried aboard on a stretcher and all gave thanks for their delivery. They were bathed and given soup, cigarettes and clothes by the crew. It was explained the master was injured when a timber fell on his back as he was abandoning ship.

The three other victims were two Peruvians and a Costa Rican. Among

PITTS TRIAL NEARING END; RECORD IS READ

Burkinshaw to Sum Up Government's Case in Court Today.

The trial of G. Bryan Pitts on a citation charging him with criminal contempt of court reached a final stage yesterday when the Government read into the record a greater portion of the testimony of Pitts at his first trial.

The completion of the reading of the record will take about two hours today, Neil Burkinshaw and Nugent Dodds, Government prosecutors, estimated last night, and there is a possibility that some of the earlier witnesses may be recalled to give some additional testimony or to clear up disputed points.

The entire structure of the Government's case against Pitts and others will be summed up by Mr. Burkinshaw. He was not willing yesterday to say whether or not he would ask for the citation of any one other than Miss Helen L. Schneider, personal secretary to Pitts, as to whom the Government has already served notice that at the proper time she will be cited in accordance with the terms of the Government's prayer in the citation.

No witnesses were placed on the stand yesterday. Mr. Dodds, Assistant Attorney General; Burkinshaw, a special assistant, and William A. Gallagher, assistant United States attorney, who represents the office of Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, spent the entire session reading the testimony of Pitts. They took turns reading the several hundred pages of testimony.

The only variance to this procedure was that the allegedly false authorizations that form the basis of the current trial were shown to Justice F. D. Letts, trial justice, as the record of the case showed them to be introduced.

The same precautions that were taken Wednesday were apparent yesterday on the part of the Government to prevent Pitts' rumored escape. Numerous agents were seated throughout the courtroom, and special officers followed the van in which Pitts was carried back to the jail.

Former South Carolina House Member Killed

Orangeburg, S. C., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Edward Cope Mann, former representative from the Seventh Carolina District, was killed instantly when he was accidentally shot at Rowesville last night while returning from a fishing trip. He was 51 years old.

Mann served in Congress in 1919-20 filling out the unexpired term of A. Frank Lever, of Lexington County.

SAM BEARD INDICTED AS U. S. TAX EVADER

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Nov. 12.—Samuel Beard, well known in Washington sports circles, today was indicted by the Federal grand jury here on five counts of evading payment of his income tax and failing to file returns.

The indictment alleges that he evaded tax payments in 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1930 on an income aggregating $252,366.54 during those years, and that he failed to make any tax return for the year 1928.

The amount of tax which the Government maintains he should have paid is given as $33,951.17, whereas he actually paid the sum of $2,251.55 during the years in question.

Otto R. Freed and Frederick C. Pond, agents of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, have been working on the case for several months, it was said.

Charges of failing to make returns for 1926 and 1927 were not included in the indictment, according to Simon E. Sobeloff, United States attorney, because the statute of limitations made their inclusion impossible. The tax on Beard's 1929 income, it was explained, had been paid.

Ecuador Towns Seized by Rebels

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Nov. 12 (A.P.). The towns of Santa Rosa and Passje Zaruma, in the Province of El Loro, are in the hands of revolutionists headed by Clotario Paz, it was officially announced today. Troops are being sent there.

Because former President Larrea Alba is a native of El Loro, it was said in some quarters that the movement was in his behalf. Neither of the towns taken has a garrison.

The minister of war sent a communication to Congress saying that Col. Larrea Alba had attempted to proclaim himself dictator, Alfonso Larrea Alba, brother of the former president, has been detained by the authorities.

Hoover's Grid Stars of '94 Bend Before Old Man Time

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Leland Stanford's football squad of '94 lined up bravely on the south grounds of the White House yesterday afternoon for another try at the famous old flying wedge, but the heroic formation crumpled under the slashing interference of Anno Domini.

Just as the motion picture cameras began to synchronize, old man Avoirdupois made a brilliant flying tackle from the top of Washington Monument, and in about five minutes the boys were looking at Business Manager Hoover with pleading eyes.

The President said what those fellows needed was a touch of daily medicine ball, but since he was not himself in the line he did not press the point. He let them play themselves out with gyratory drop-kicks and wobbly forward passes, and then invited them to return to the state dining room at 8 o'clock for a spread which no right-minded trainer could have approved.

Around the dinner table and through a haze of cigar smoke in the President's coffee room upstairs, the pleasantries ranged from the memorable 40-to-0 victory over the San Francisco Olympic Club on November 8, 1894, to the tactical and financial problems of a pioneer football team which tried to live up to Walter Camp's ideas on a cinder playing field.

There were no seats for spectators in those days and the problem of a sustaining "gate" was a postgraduate course in deficits.

As the story comes out after 37 years, Business Manager Hoover, a 21-year-old senior, found the Stanford squad without nose guards enough to go around and with shin protectors and wobbly forward passes, and then invited them to return to the state dining room at 8 o'clock for a spread

HOOVER PLACES SAVING IN NAVY AT $59,000,000

Promises Fleet Will Not Suffer Loss of Man or Vessel.

ALL PRESENT YARDS WILL BE MAINTAINED

Supply Bill Will Call for $343,000,000; Less Than Department Asked.

(Associated Press.)

With assurances that the American fleet would not suffer loss of ship or man, President Hoover announced yesterday that the Navy budget would call for only $343,000,000—all of $59,000,000 less than the service originally requested.

This represents, if left alone by Congress, a reduction of about $15,000,000 from the total of the supply bill passed last year. An additional $30,000,000 was appropriated for battleship modernization.

The budget cut will not involve abandonment of a single navy yard, nor will it cause a single combatant vessel to be decommissioned, Mr. Hoover said. The ilisted personnel of the Navy will not be decreased.

Rotation Plan Continued.

How the economy is to be effected, the Chief Executive did not say, preserving to this extent the customary secrecy which surrounds budgets up to the time they reach Congress.

In connection with maintenance of the fighting ships, Mr. Hoover observed that the "rotation plan will be continued."

The Navy Department had nothing official to say in explanation of this point but one officer suggested it might refer to the retirement of hard-used destroyers by ships which have been laid up a long time. A large group was so exchanged a year ago.

Only yesterday, however, the Navy announced that six destroyers now in the Asiatic squadron, would be placed in reserve commission and no ships will replace them. This move, together with other decommissioning ordered yesterday, would displace about 1,100 men from the Asiatic and Caribbean squadrons. No plan for using them elsewhere has been announced.

New Construction Funds.

The President stressed heavily his assurance that all of the building program now under way would be continued.

"For the expansion of combatant ships the program is set up in such fashion that $57,000,000 will be expended either through appropriations or from carry-overs in the fiscal year, beginning the first of next July," Mr. Hoover said. "This is an increase from $53,000,000 estimated expenditure the present fiscal year."

Mr. Hoover pointed out the amount spent on new construction had risen steadily from the $25,000,000 used in 1926 to 1930's total of $49,872,209.

"The budget provides for the continued construction of every one of the treaty ships authorized by Congress except six destroyers," he continued. "The deferment of these six destroyers, out of eleven authorized has not only been a measure of economy but a policy of maintaining balanced construction in destroyer programs and maintenance of evenness of employment in the yards.

Personnel Increase Seen.

"The program proposed under this budget will not decrease but will slightly increase the total direct and

Capone's Guard Begins Six Month Term in Jail

Chicago, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Philip d'Andrea, companion and bodyguard of "Scarface Al" Capone, surrendered to the United States marshal today and was taken immediately to the Cook County Jail to begin serving a six months' sentence for contempt of Federal court.

D'Andrea was sentenced two weeks ago by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson after he had thrown himself on the mercy of the court and admitted carrying a loaded pistol into the courtroom during Capone's income tax evasion trial.

Alfonso Accused Of High Treason

Commission Urges That He Be Jailed for Life if He Reenters Spain.

Madrid, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Former King Alfonso was accused of high treason against the Spanish people during the whole of his reign in charges read to the National Assembly today.

The responsibilities commission proposed as a penalty that he be shorn of all titles, rights and properties for himself and his offspring, and demanded that he be sentenced to life imprisonment if he reenters Spain and be sentenced to death if he attempts to regain the throne by force of arms.

The former monarch broke the pact between himself and the people in recognizing joint sovereignty of the crown and the nation, it was charged, and he headed a military rebellion when he established Gen. Primo de Rivera as dictator in 1923.

GOV. PINCHOT ASKS MELLON FOR MILLION

His Plan Fundamentally Opposed to That of Administration.

REQUEST IS REFUSED WITHOUT ANY REASON

Treasury Chief Opposed to Borrowing $35,000,000 for Unemployed.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Having laid his unemployment relief program before the State Legislature, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, came to Washington yesterday to ask a member of the Hoover administration to help him carry it out.

Gov. Pinchot asked Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, to make a $1,000,000 "loan-contribution" toward a $35,000,000 fund for the relief of Pennsylvania's 900,000 unemployed.

"Mr. Mellon did not accept my suggestion, but said he would consider the matter further," Gov. Pinchot stated at the Capitol afterward.

Secretary Mellon is the wealthiest man in Pennsylvania, and one of the wealthiest in the world. Gov. Pinchot also is reputed to be wealthy.

Secretary Mellon himself had nothing to say about the unusual conference between himself and the erstwhile "Bull Mooser," but persons close to him said that he not only had contributed large sums for the relief of the unemployed in his State, but had taken an active part in the drive to get others to contribute.

He was reported to be opposed to Gov. Pinchot's plan for "borrowing" $35,000,000 for unemployment relief.

This $35,000,000 would be used for "direct" relief; that is, it would be used to provide food, clothing and shelter for the victims of unemployment.

The money would be paid back to the lenders with 4 per cent interest provided that Pennsylvania in 1933 should vote for an amendment to the State constitution authorizing the floating of "prosperity bonds." What would happen if the voters voted down the amendment is a question which Gov. Pinchot is not yet ready to answer.

Opposed to Plan.

The Pinchot plan is fundamentally opposed to the relief plan of the Hoover administration. The President is convinced that the victims of unemployment should be taken care of through voluntary contributions.

Recently when Gov. Pinchot demanded that Congress convene in special session to enact legislation for unemployment relief, Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, took him to task and reminded him that the Keystone State could take care of its own.

He had been escorted to the gallery by three reporters who encountered him on his way to visit Senator

Police Car Carrying Prisoners Is Burned

A Washington police car was badly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon while returning from Bolling Green, Va., with two prisoners. The machine suddenly burst into flames about 3 miles from Quantico on the Richmond-Washington pike.

Detectives Joe Sincavitz and H. C. Robey, attached to Police Headquarters here, went to the Virginia town early yesterday to bring back two young boys wanted on charges of larceny. As they neared Quantico on the return trip the car caught fire, apparently from a short circuit, and was partially destroyed before volunteer fire companies arrived. Another machine was dispatched for the prisoners.

Governor to Name Arkansas Senator

Caraway's Widow Believed Choice as Temporary Successor.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A temporary successor to the late Senator T. H. Caraway will be appointed by Gov. Parnell to serve pending a special election to fill the unexpired term, the governor announced late today after being advised by Attorney General Hal. L. Norwood that he had authority. Gov. Parnell announced at the same time he would call the special election for January 12.

After conferences between the governor and political leaders today indications were that Mrs. Hattie Caraway, widow of the late senator, would be given the temporary appointment.

It was considered probable by political observers that she also would be selected by the State Democratic central committee as the nominee for the unexpired term, which would be equivalent to election.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE OPEN TSITSIHAR FIGHT; U. S. FOR 9-POWER PACT

American Participation in Session to Be Largely Consultative.

DAWES PREPARING FOR CONFERENCES

State Department Will Not Take Initiative Steps; Compromise Looms.

American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who will go to Paris for the meeting of the League Council to bring peace to China and Japan in Manchuria, will confine his activities to "consultation" rather than any direct role in the discussions.

Other developments in the Manchurian controversy were:

The Nine Power Treaty may be invoked to settle the conflict rather than either the League Council or the Kellogg-Briand pact.

Neither the United States nor Great Britain will consider the adoption of any form of "sanctions" against Japan as a warning to force her evacuation of Manchuria.

Gen. Hanzo Kanaya, chief of the Japanese general staff, is directing the military operations in Manchuria with full approval of Emperor Hirohito.

The Japanese delegation to the League Council meeting will comprise three ambassadors, Matsudaira from London, Yoshida from Rome, and Yoshizawa from Paris.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

American participation in the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations in Paris next Monday to avert open warfare between Japan and China in Manchuria will be largely consultative, it became known here last night. Before convoking the other members of the council, Foreign Minister Aristide Briand will have several conversations with American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes. Ambassador Dawes has been appointed by the State Department with plenipotentiary rank to confer with M. Briand, Sir John Simon and Lord Cecil, the British delegates, and the three Japanese Ambassadors Matsudaira, from London, Yoshida, from Rome, and Yoshizawa, from Paris, as well as the Chinese representatives, before the opening of the council sessions.

While the league has under consideration the adoption of a compromise program for proceeding in Manchuria, it is believed very possible that the entire proceedings may ultimately revolve around the famous Nine-Power Treaty. This is the treaty which was signed at the conclusion of the Washington Arms Conference and guarantees Chinese territorial and administrative integrity.

Will Not Take Initiative.

The State Department, however, will not take the initiative in directing the sessions in Paris. As M. Briand has in the past directed the various phases of the league's peace-making machinery, he will naturally be assured the concurrent action of American Ambassador Dawes in evolv-

Colorado Citizens Ask Dry Chief's Removal

Boulder, Colo., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The immediate removal of John F. Vivian, Federal prohibition administrator for this district, was asked in a letter forwarded to Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition director, by a group of Boulder citizens today.

The letter of protest also requests the removal of Henry Dierks, Federal dry agent, charged with murder in connection with the death of Milford G. Smith, 20-year-old Englewood, colored youth. Smith died from injuries received when Dierks scuffled with him in an Englewood hamburger stand over three ounces of wine.

REPARATIONS PACT IS DENIED BY LAVAL

Asserts He Told President Young Plan Moratorium Would Be Better.

Paris, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval, conferring with the foreign and finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies, said tonight he had not bound himself on reparations in his talks with President Hoover, but had left the final decision to the French Parliament.

He told the American President, he said, that the Hoover moratorium was not so beneficial as would be a moratorium under the Young plan. France has no new credits to offer Germany at this time, he added, and France would rather wait until experts have passed on Germany's ability to pay before the matter is reconsidered.

On the other hand, he said he was particularly happy that he and Mr Hoover were enabled to discuss debts and reparations with full frankness and cordiality, and he was quoted as saying "that an arrangement for debts is capable of being envisaged as a realizable hypothesis when circumstances should lend themselves to it."

His only reference to his interview with Senator Borah in Washington was a statement that he was delighted to be able to create personal ties, not only with President Hoover but with other American notables."

At the request of the government, Premier Laval postponed until next

Great Britain to Act To Prevent Dumping

London, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—It was confidently asserted tonight by observers of all political leanings that the government is to move immediately to assume drastic powers against dumping of goods in Great Britain in anticipation of a tariff.

Prime Minister MacDonald is expected to make a statement on this matter in the House of Commons on Monday, and it is expected the government will introduce a bill giving it emergency power to act by "orders in council," thus eliminating the delay which would be caused by the passage of legislation through the House.

Reds, Accused by Canadian "Mountie," Found Guilty

Testimony of Sergt. John Leopold Enables Government to Convict Tim Buck and Seven Others of Seditious Conspiracy; Sentences Set Today.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A Royal Canadian "Mountie" who turned Communist and trailed comrades of that organization for seven years "got his men" in traditional fashion tonight when a jury convicted Tim Buck and seven others of seditious conspiracy.

The testimony of Sergt. John Leopold, of the Mounted Police, formed the most damaging evidence the government produced. At the end of the trial, which started on November 2, the crown counsel announced it would ask for confiscation of all property owned by Communists in Canada and for deportation of all members who can be forced out of the Dominion.

Sentence will be imposed tomorrow morning, Justice Wright announced.

The eight Communists were found guilty of being members of an unlawful association, of acting as members of such a group and as parties to a seditious conspiracy.

The trial established a precedent in the Western World. Only Japan previously had taken such a drastic step against the Communist party.

In Canada it was the culmination of ten years of effort on the part of federal, provincial and municipal officials to determine the status of the order and the legality of its operations in the Dominion.

The convicted men, besides Buck, are Tom Ewen, John Baychuk, Amos T. Hill, Malcolm L. Bruce, Samuel Cohen, Mathew Popovitch and Thomas Cacic. A ninth defendant, Mike Golinski, was discharged Tuesday for lack of evidence linking him with the party.

To obtain evidence Leopold spent seven years as secretary of the Re-

Japan Is Preparing for Early Offensive on Large Scale.

DEMAND THAT MAH LEAVE IS REJECTED

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Peiping, Friday, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Severe fighting between Japanese forces and troops of Gen. Mah Chan-Shan in the Nonni River region, in which a Japanese officer and one soldier were killed yesterday, was reported in a communique issued at Manchurian headquarters here today.

A Japanese ultimatum demanding that Gen. Mah resign as chief of the province of Hei Lung-Kiang, and that his army evacuate Tsitsihar, was rejected on instructions from Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, who ordered Gen. Mah to defend his territory to the last.

The ultimatum expired at midnight.

Gen. Mah, acting governor of Hei Lung-Kiang province, informed Chang Hsueh-Liang by telegraph from Tsitsihar, the provincial capital, of the ultimatum, the communique said.

He reported that Gen. Honjo, commanding the Japanese forces in Manchuria, had sent a major of the Japanese army with a verbal demand that Gen. Mah resign, that the Hei Lung-Kiang army evacuate Tsitsihar and that in order to guarantee the safety of the Taonan-Anganchi railroad part of the Japanese army be allowed to march toward Anganchi station.

Vigorous Offensive.

Gen. Mah added that at the same time the Japanese began a vigorous general offensive, attacking with cavalry and artillery.

Chang Hsueh-Liang immediately instructed Gen. Mah to refuse the Japanese demands and to defend the territory to the last.

The Manchurian governor's order, the communique said, was based on the following reasons:

1. It was not clear whether the ultimatum represented the personal opinion of Gen. Honjo or whether it emanated from the Tokyo government.

2. Gen. Honjo's representative lacked adequate credentials.

3. Before the time limit had expired, Japanese attacked Chinese lines.

Fierce fighting lasted until late yesterday afternoon and was still proceeding, further telegrams from Tsitsihar reported.

The morale of the Chinese troops was excellent, Gen. Mah declared. There had been no contact as yet between infantry forces on both sides, he added.

Manchuli, Manchuria, Friday, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—An exodus of Japanese women and children from Manchuli and surrounding territory was under way today, with throngs of colonists seeking transportation back to Japan in fear of critical developments in Manchuria.

Throughout the day the Chinese Eastern Railway station was thronged with families demanding tickets and accommodations on any outbound trains.

Heavy Artillery Arrives.

London, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A Harbin dispatch to the London Daily Mail tonight reported that fighting between Japanese and Chinese began today in the Tsitsihar zone in Manchuria.

The dispatch reported the arrival of two Japanese regiments and heavy artillery at Tahsin in preparation for a new offensive on a large scale and said Chinese expected Soviet interference shortly.

Munitions from Soviet Russia were unloaded at Tsitsihar last Saturday through the agency of the Chinese Eastern Railway, which was mainly operated by disguised Soviet officers and men, it was added.

CHINA BEGS LEAGUE TO CHECK JAPANESE

Sze Warns of Major Battle and Says Troops Have Seized Coal Mine.

Geneva, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate to the League of Nations, made an urgent appeal to the league council tonight to prevent the Japanese from marching upon Tsitsihar and thereby precipitating a major military conflict.

The league secretariat immediately got in touch by telephone with Aristide Briand, council chairman, with the view of obtaining immediate action on the Chinese request.

In a note to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the league, Dr. Sze declared that the Japanese had ordered Gen. Mah Chan-Shan to evacuate Tsitsihar, but he remained in his positions. Dr. Sze also declared that a Japanese detachment of 50 soldiers, armed with machine guns, had seized the Fuchowan coal mine operated by the Northeast Mining Corporation near Dairen.

Mah Asked to Resign.

"I beg of you to be good enough to request the president of the council to intervene without delay with the Japanese government in view of the very serious developments threatened by the following information just received from Tsitsihar," Dr. Sze said in his note.

"At noon today, November 12, the Heilungkiang provincial government received an ultimatum from Gen. Honjo requesting Gen. Mah, chairman of the provincial government, to resign and evacuate Tsitsihar immediately.

"Japanese troops will take Tsitsihar, along the Taonan-Anganchi Railway. The Chinese troops have retreated to San Chien Fang Sze, which is 17 miles from the Tahsin Station.

"The latter is now in the hands of the Japanese. If the Japanese carry out their announced intention, which is in flagrant violation of the promises just made by the Japanese government to the council, it is probable that there will be serious fighting at any moment."

Japanese Memorandum.

The Japanese submitted to the council tonight a lengthy memorandum devoted to an historical study of "banditism as the scourge of Manchuria."

Chinese authorities have been unable to curb the activities of gangs which, in 1929, contained a total of 50,000 bandits, the memorandum said. Railways in both the Chinese and Japanese populations, as well as soldiers, have suffered heavily from banditry, Japan declared.

Nanking, China, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The Nanking government reacted favorably today to reports that the League of Nations might form an international patrol force to occupy parts of Manchuria and assist in the evacuation of Japanese troops.

Such a patrol, officials declared, would meet Japan's demand that the lives and property of Japanese be made secure.

way Corps were reported to be acting as guards along the railway.

A second contingent of 2,000 Koreans and Chinese trained in Russia and employed in the 1929 conflict between Russia and China arrived from the Soviet frontier Tuesday, fully equipped with arms and artillery, it was reported.

Tientsin, China, Nov. 12.—All Americans at the Methodist Mission hospital and school were asked to seek places of safety in the foreign areas of Tientsin today after they had spent a night dodging bullets.

A. B. Coole, a mission official, brought in three women this morning—Dr. Ida Belle Lewis, Mrs. Frances Milness and Mrs. Shocke. He said numerous bullets fell in the mission area during the night, many of them penetrating the hospital. Work of evacuating patients from the hospital will be difficult, he declared.

Efforts to arrange cooperation between Chinese and Japanese in running down Chinese rebels blamed for the outbursts of rioting during the last few days were frustrated at the last moment, and more trouble was expected.

Patrol Stops Police.

The Japanese had agreed to allow Chinese police to search the neutral zone bordering the Japanese concession, but when a body of 100 police appeared to make the search the Japanese patrol stopped them.

The police, Japanese officials said, were attempting to extend their operations. The result of this controversy was that each side accused the other of breaking faith, and what had been expected to prove a beneficial arrangement only increased hard feelings.

The haphazard character of the gunfire during the last 24 hours led officials to believe that rioters were shooting without any particular purpose except to keep the uproar going.

United States troops were on patrol during the day and night.

Japanese officials declared the firing was heavy in the direction of the Nankai Girls' School, which was evacuated yesterday. Bullets also fell in the British area.

Another Japanese destroyer, bound for duty here, arrived today at Tangku.

Tokyo, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The war office today received reports that fifteen carloads of Russian arms and ammunition and 2,000 members of an "international Communist army" have arrived in the Nonni River district in Manchuria, where Japan expects fighting to be renewed momentarily.

Japanese officials declared on the basis of reports from the field that simultaneous drives by the Chinese were looked for at Mukden, which is occupied by Japanese troops, and on the Nonni, where Japanese pioneers are making bridge repairs behind a curtain of infantry trenches. The two fronts are 400 miles apart.

The war office mobilized fresh troops to ship to Manchuria. The number of reinforcements was not made public, but it was understood to be about 10,000, which would put the total strength of Japan in Manchuria around 16,000. The new contingent will leave Hirosaki Saturday.

50 Chinese Killed.

Information of a new battle arrived today. Newspaper dispatches said 50 Chinese were killed and 300 wounded in a three-hour engagement last night near Kungchulin, to the north of Mukden. One of the casualties was a Chinese woman in uniform.

War office information, described as being based on "fairly reliable evidence," was that the supposed Russian arms went to Gen. Mah Chan-shan, Chinese commander in the Nonni area. The fifteen carloads, the military intelligence, reported, were transported by the Chinese Eastern Railway, jointly owned by China and Russia.

Harbin, Manchuria, Nov. 12 (A.P.). Chinese authorities said today that the Japanese are making what appears to be an encircling movement against Tsitsihar. They expected Japanese offensive operations to start immediately.

A squadron of Japanese cavalry crossed the railway 20 miles west of Anganchi, the Chinese reported, and several units of Japanese troops were on the march northwest of Tsitsihar.

Seven hundred Japanese troops advanced 60 miles west of Anganchi Tuesday evening and encountered 100 Chinese gendarmes, and some fighting ensued.

The Chinese retreated to the Chinese Eastern Railway with two dead. Subsequently the Chinese cavalry was bombed by two Japanese planes.

Shanghai, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Anti-Japanese feeling in the areas about Chungking, Chengtu and Chengchow has become so bitter that all Japanese nationals should be evacuated, Mamoru Shigenitsu, Japanese minister to China, was informed today.

The Japanese consuls from the three cities joined in the recommendation. They were summoned here by the minister to report on conditions in their areas.

Advices from Yunnan Province, from which the Japanese consul fled a month ago as a result of bitter demonstrations, were that the animosity is as great as ever and has resulted in a general boycott of Japanese goods.

Martial law was declared yesterday in Shanghai. The China Press, Chinese owned English language newspaper, said today the move was necessary because of a plot of Japanese Nationalists to create a "reign of terror" by means of subsidized Chinese radicals.

COMPARATIVE ARMS IN EAST ESTIMATED

Japan, Soviet, China Ratio of War Might Held to Be 10-5-1.

(Associated Press.)

The tenseness of the Manchurian situation has led to a measurement here of the fighting strength of Japan, China and the Soviet.

One unofficial opinion places the comparative strength of Japan, the Soviet and China at a ratio of 10-5-1, respectively. There is a concert of opinion in all informed quarters, however, that the Soviet would go to every possible end to avert its involvement.

This opinion is based on the thin thread of the Transsiberian Railway—Russia's only means of communication between the east and the west.

Japan's superior balance was attributed to several reasons. Principal among these is a force actually superior in training and equipment. Another is a greater popular morale in Japan which would reflect in the army. In numbers of combatants, Japan stands last on the list of the three, with 2,130,000. These are made up by an active army of 230,000 and reserves of 1,900,000.

The Soviet's potential army would consist of more than 5,000,000 men. Of these about 650,000 are active, while the remainder are reserves. They are well trained and well armed, but 6,000 miles of territory with a single railway separates them from the scene of activities.

The best available estimates place China's active army at about 2,500,000 men. Their fighting effectiveness has been a matter of conjecture in every capital since the World War.

Japan possesses the third most powerful naval force in the world. It is exceeded only by those of Great Britain and the United States. The comparative naval strength shows in summary:

	Japan	Soviet	China
Battleships and battle cruisers	10	4	None
Cruisers	37	4	6
Destroyers and torpedoboats	101	25	12
Submarines	67	13	None
Miscellaneous craft	17	12	40

Statistics give the Soviet a slight edge over Japan in air forces, with China again taking third place. The Soviet is reputed to have about 1,800 available planes.

Japan is credited with a military aviation force of 500 planes, a similar naval aviation force and 200 civil planes. In addition to these, the Japanese have some 50 planes seized from the Chinese in Manchuria during the present troubles. The Nanking government claims an air force of 120 airplanes in good condition. Many of these were purchased in the United States and are of the most modern types.

Chinese Launch Drive For Recruits in America

(Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press.)

New York, Nov. 12.—Ten thousand young Chinese, who must promise to serve in any part of the globe to which they are sent, are being recruited in the United States for a Chinese-American aviation force.

While seething crowds of Orientals in New York's Chinatown gathered today around huge billboards covered with "war bulletins," the plan for four aeronautics schools scattered across the country was disclosed in detail.

King Tung Chen, editor of the Chinese Nationalist Daily, official newspaper of the Nationalist government in China, said the campaign was being staged in four cities, New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Portland, Oreg.

CHINA'S WAR THREAT RECALLS 1895 ROUT

Nation, Torn by Civil Strife, Ill-Prepared to Fight Organized Japan.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—China's threat to arm and fight for her rights in Manchuria—made at Geneva—if the League of Nations fails to protect her against aggression, recalls the gusto with which she plunged into the war against Japan in 1894 with such disastrous results.

Students who are parading the streets of Chinese cities and clamoring for war against Japan are of a generation which has little knowledge of the embarrassing treaty forced upon China by the Japanese in 1895 after they had wiped out the Chinese army, reduced the forts of Port Arthur and Wei Hai-Wei and sunk the Chinese navy.

Korea Was War Cause.

Korea was the cause of that war. For three centuries Japan had questioned the suzerainty of China over Korea. In 1894 Korea had a serious revolution and asked China to send troops. Japan also sent troops, and differences of opinion arose between Japanese and Chinese commanders as to what steps should be taken to assist Korea in restoring order.

War was declared on August 1, but for many days before that time the rival armies had been fighting. Chinese troops were soon driven out of Korea and the fight for the right to direct Korea's affairs was transferred to Manchuria, where the Chinese had concentrated large forces on the Yalu.

By March of the following year China's armies in Manchuria were completely demoralized and Japan was preparing to move on Peking with little chance that any considerable opposition would be offered. But China made overtures for peace and the treaty of Shimonoseki was negotiated, which gave Korea into Japanese control and would have put South Manchuria in Japanese hands had not Russia, supported by Germany and France, blocked Japan. The treaty also gave Formosa to Japan.

Russia Rewarded by China.

China rewarded Russia by granting her a lease on the Port Arthur Peninsula and the right to build a railway across northern Manchuria, with a connecting line to Port Arthur. These railways and Russia's assumption of the ascendant position in Manchuria caused the Russo-Japanese war in 1904-05.

China, with rival governments at Canton and Nanking and 2,000,000 or more undiciplined soldiers commanded by generals embroiled in political controversies, is probably less capable of making effective war against a power with a well-equipped navy and army than it was under the old empress dowager and Li Hung-Chang, who were forced to make the humiliating peace with Japan at Shimonoseki.

4 BANKS ARE ROBBED IN AS MANY STATES

Kansas Bandits Take Employes 150 Miles in Auto After Holdup.

Parsons, Kans., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Three bank employes and a customer were freed unharmed late today in rugged country near Quapaw, Okla., after being kidnaped and taken for a wild 150-mile ride over slippery roads and a devious route by two men who robbed the State Bank of Parsons of less than $2,000.

"Here's hoping we never see you any more," said the bandits in parting, as their captives, Miss Lila Travis, bookkeeper; Joe Flynn, assistant cashier; Andrew Wheat, teller, and Dr. P. J. Donnelly, a dentist, were permitted to alight from a big sedan in which they were abducted.

Only one shot was fired in the swift looting of the bank and the escape.

One of the robbers fired, presumably to signal confederates, as they dashed by a filling station at the outskirts of Parsons. The four captives were the only persons in the bank when the holdup men entered.

Madison, Ind., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—State police and sheriffs of southeastern Indiana were on the lookout for eight bandits who committed a double bank robbery here today and escaped with money, bonds and silverware estimated at approximately $35,000.

The National Branch Bank and the Madison Safe Deposit & Trust Co., which occupy adjoining rooms, were the institutions looted. John P. Tevis is president of both banks.

The bandits drove up in a seven-passenger Buick sedan bearing Ohio license 898-237. Two men entered the trust company, and the others went into the national branch bank. A door connected the two banks, and twelve employes, along with four customers, were ordered to enter the office of the president, which is in a room of the national branch bank, where they were guarded by two of the gang while the other six proceeded to loot both banks.

The cash drawers and vault of the branch bank yielded approximately $20,000 in currency. From the Trust Bank $2,500 was obtained from the cash drawers and approximately $10,000 worth of gravel road bonds were taken from the vault. Silver deposited in the vault by customers was taken from the Trust Bank.

H. L. Lyon, secretary of the trust company, estimated the robbers were in the banks about ten minutes. The robbers, after completing their work, left town by State road 29. Their car later was reported near Versailles.

The robbers were described as ranging in ages from 25 to 30.

St. Louis, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Struck three times by bullets, but doggedly returning their fire, Gregory Dowling, vice president and cashier of the Midland State Bank, on the northwest outskirts of St. Louis, today shot and killed one robber and seriously wounded another when they tried to hold up the bank. They did not get any money.

Dowling, about 32, gave battle to the robbers from his cashier's cage, returning their pistol fire. He was struck in the hand and right leg, which was fractured by the bullet. A third bullet, which might have proved fatal, struck a vest button and was deflected.

Police said the robber killed was Bennie Bethel and the one wounded, shot through a lung, was Jimmy Woods.

Pantages Defense Hit In Trial for Assault

Los Angeles, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A direct assault on Alexander Pantages' claim of "frame-up" in charges that he criminally attacked a young girl dancer here in 1929 was delivered by the prosecution today at the theater magnate's second trial.

Midway in defense attempts to show that the district attorney's office brought undue influence to bear on witnesses, the prosecution placed two of Pantages' former employes on the stand. They testified that Pantages sought to induce them to "cover up" evidence after Eunice Pringle, the dancer, had fled screaming from the offices of his downtown theater building.

U. S. TO PLAY CONSULTATIVE ROLE AT SESSIONS IN PARIS

ing any program for the settlement of the Manchurian impasse. The United States, even under these conditions, will still reserve its right to independent action in Manchuria.

The conversations which Ambassador Dawes holds in London with Sir John Simon may eventually lead to the substitution of the nine-power treaty for the tenuous provisos of the Kellogg-Briand pact or the ineffectual invocation of sanctions by the council. On the question of sanctions, the United States and Great Britain already are in complete accord. Sir John Simon, who is the new British foreign secretary, declared in London recently:

"Great Britain could not participate in anything like an economic blockade of Japan." The point of view of the United States is exactly similar. No punitive action of any kind is envisioned by the United States against either Japan or China or both in the clashes between them in Asia.

Support of Dawes.

The suggestion that the nine-power pact be brought into discussion at Paris would be sure to receive the whole-hearted support of Ambassador Dawes. With his plenipotentiary rank he would be available for any decisions taken under terms of the pact to which the United States, England, France, Belgium, Italy, Holland, Portugal, Japan and China are parties. By a striking coincidence, the present Japanese minister of foreign affairs, Baron Shidehara, was one of the signatories of the treaty for Japan.

The nine-power treaty has been called the Magna Charta of China. By its provisions the fullest opportunity for development of China in every way is affirmed. Furthermore, by an express provision, consultation whenever necessary between the various powers signatory to the treaty is provided. The present conflict between China and Japan over the conflicting claims to sovereignty in Manchuria will be a natural opportunity for citing the seventh article of the nine-power agreement.

It is:

"The contracting powers agree that whenever a situation arises which in the opinion of any one of them involves the application of the stipulations of the present treaty, and renders desirable discussions of such application, there shall be frank and full communication between the contracting powers concerned."

Provisions of Agreement.

The meeting of the council of the league in Paris affords an opportunity of holding a convocation of most of the nine powers participating in the Chinese treaty. At that time they would be faced with the express provisions of the nine-power agreement and their violation or observance of its provisions.

Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., declared yesterday that the basis for the optimism radiated by Secretary of State Stimson recently was the understanding that some sort of compromise move would be initiated in Paris between the delegates. Further than that the State Department had no information. The situation generally in Manchuria was declared to be stationary, although as many as 50 telegrams were received at the office of the chief of the Far Eastern division, Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, in the last 24 hours.

The United States will reserve further action in the crisis now current between China and Japan until the sessions of the league council begin next Monday. Monday, November 16, is the date fixed by the legaue for evacuation of Japanese troops from Manchuria, although it is already a foregone conclusion that the league's ultimatum has no chance whatsoever of fulfillment.

Neutral Commission.

It is believed that when the delegates meet to discuss the situation caused by the presence of large bodies of Japanese troops outside the treaty zone to which they are limited, the proposals for sending a neutral commission may be brought forward. In this connection, it is believed the terms of the nine-power pact will then be made public as to the obligations of every signatory to the respect of the written agreement in the treaty. Japan will then be put to the test of submitting to the provision for consultation or "communication" between the signatories.

The necessity for avoiding further complications in the Manchurian dispute is vital, since the very existence of the league itself is at stake. To the various representations which M. Briand, as chairman of the council's commission for peace in Manchuria, has forwarded to both Japan and China, the two countries involved have replied courteously and promptly, but, nevertheless, Japanese advances have continued. The Japanese contention has continuously been that China should agree to direct negotiation and that Japanese evacuation would follow Chinese promises to protect fully Japanese lives and property that would be left in the wake of the evacuating troops. Up to the present time these mutual promises have not been agreeable to either the Chinese or the Japanese, and the Japanese troops have taken advantage of the impasse by consolidating their positions on the Nonni River and in the vicinity of Tsitsihara.

Japan has also been quietly increasing her prestige in Manchuria by setting up a series of puppet governors in the district, all depending on Japan, and who will follow the suggestions of the Japanese foreign office, in Tokyo, under the guise of an autonomous government.

Wisconsin Legislature Called.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The State Legislature will be convened in special session Tuesday, November 24, under a call issued by Gov. Philip La-Follette today. Banking and employment legislation are the two main topics to be considered.

REPARATIONS PACT IS DENIED BY LAVAL

Tuesday his report to the Chamber of Deputies on the Washington trip.

The Chamber of Deputies, in opening its autumn session today, gave Premier Laval a vote of confidence and heard proposals to advance $6,000,000 in credits for supplementary construction on the 1933 program.

The premier put as a question of confidence a proposal by the radical wing to begin discussion of railway deficits tonight and the deputies backed him up by voting, 311 to 272, against the motion, giving him a margin of 39 votes. This is smaller than usual, but illustrated the local character of the railway problem.

Finance Minister Flandin and Minister of the Budget Pietri, in advocating the additional credits, said they could not avoid appropriation without compromising the renewal of the fleet and causing considerable unemployment by the suspension of work already begun.

The chambers' naval committee will meet next Wednesday to consider proposals to build a 26,000-ton battle cruiser which would surpass Germany's Deutschland, and the remainder of the program. The government proposes to place on the stocks between April 1, 1932, and March 31, 1933, four cruisers of the second class, one torpedo boat, one destroyer, one hydrograph boat and one river gunboat, costing 1,031,956,990 francs (about $41,278,279).

The chamber adjourned until tomorrow afternoon to begin debate on the unemployment situation which Premier Laval touched on in his first speech today. He refuted statements by Socialist Leader Blum and said a decree would be promulgated continuing subsidies to those who have been unemployed for more than 180 days. Up to now the jobless have been supported only for six months.

Marquis Obtains License to Wed

Under California Law He and Miss Bennett May Marry Monday.

Los Angeles, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—The Marquis Henri de la Falaise and Constance Bennett, film star, went to the marriage license bureau today and filed their application for a license to wed. The marquis is the former husband of Gloria Swanson. Under the State law he and Miss Bennett must wait until Monday before they can be married.

Miss Swanson and the marquis were divorced a year ago, but the final decree was not granted until last Monday. Miss Swanson stole a big march on her former spouse by marrying Michael Farmer, wealthy Irish sportsman, in Elmsford, N. Y., last August 16; but because the ceremony was not considered legal in California, she denied it had occurred and was remarried to Farmer last Monday.

The marquis, meanwhile, had been "keeping company" with Miss Bennett, and their friends in the movie colony whispered rumors about a marriage as soon as the marquis was entirely freed from Miss Swanson. No definite action was seen, however, until today.

Ewald Witness Testifies to Deals

Sessions of Directorate of Cotter-Butte Mines Described in Court.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Stormy sessions of the directorate of Cotter-Butte Mines, Inc., were described today in Federal Court by Emmerich J. Boczor, a Government witness, in the trial of former Magistrate George F. Ewald and three others for mail fraud.

Boczor, one-time confidential secretary to Ewald, said his employer had characterized Harry C. Cotter, a codefendant, as "a terrible crook" when shown records setting forth that Cotter had caused issuance of 100,000 shares of stock to himself for a transfer of claims.

DEMOCRAT WILL WIN IN '32, RITCHIE SAYS

Maryland Governor Visits New York; Will See Raskob and Smith.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A conviction the Republicans will not win the 1932 election, "as they hope," because of interparty strife among the Democrats was expressed today by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, considered by many a leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Any man should be glad to be honored by the nomination and should be glad to be elected," he said, when asked about a report his hat would be tossed formally into the ring in January. He termed his trip to New York a "courtesy call" and denied it had any political purposes.

He said he probably would talk with former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, before he leaves the city tomorrow night. He does not expect to see Gov. Roosevelt, simply because the governor at present is in Albany. "If he were in the city I would call on him," the Marylander said.

Sitting in his hotel suite, he spoke openly with reporters on a number of subjects, and gave the following opinions:

The Hoover moratorium probably will have to be extended.

Gov. Roosevelt and Newton D. Baker are both fine men.

There is some excellent material in the Democratic party.

War debts should not be canceled, unless it is in the best interests of the Nation to do so.

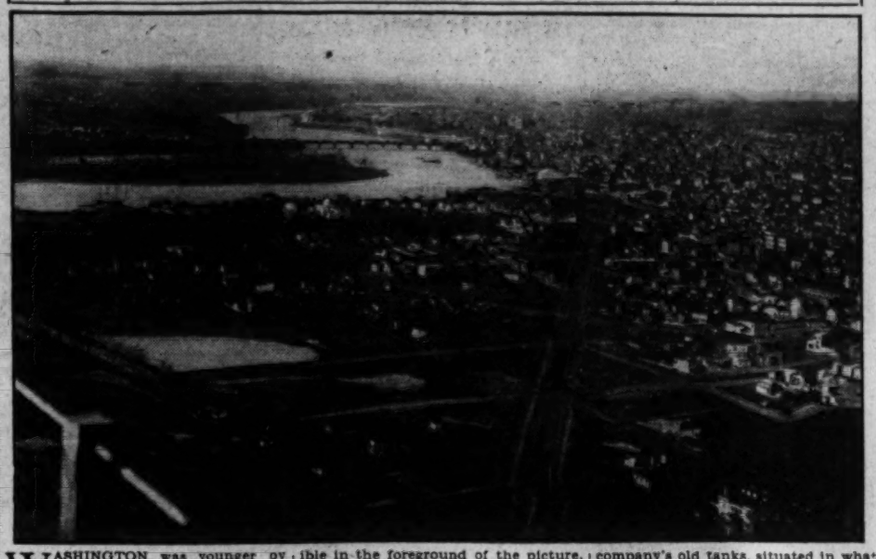
Prohibition and unemployment will be the big issues in 1932. About prohibition, he was the most loquacious.

"I think the party must take a definite and determined stand on that question," he said. "Just what that stand will be I don't know. My personal preference would be to take the eighteenth amendment out of the Constitution, return the control of liquor to the States, and give the Federal Government supervision over interstate shipments."

Business conditions in Maryland, he said, were getting better.

His most firm conviction was that the Democrats will win next year's election.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 104



WASHINGTON was younger by 46 years when this picture was taken of the broad, then undeveloped, area lying between the Potomac and Pennsylvania avenue, Georgetown and the Washington Monument.

TEXAS SUES TO OUST BIG OIL COMPANIES

State Charges Nation-Wide Plot to Throttle Little Independents.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A Nation-wide conspiracy to control gasoline and oil prices and to throttle the little independent dealer was charged in an antitrust suit filed here today, naming the major companies doing business, or having subsidiaries in Texas.

James V. Allred, 33-year-old Texas attorney general, asked ouster from the State of fifteen oil companies, the American Petroleum Institute and the Texas Petroleum Marketers Association, and the imposition of maximum fines of $17,850,000.

Oil executives scoffed at the suit and contended that the code of ethics under which the companies operate has been approved by the Federal Trade Commission. One suggestion was made that Allred had his eye on the governorship in filing the suit.

Department of Justice officials at Washington said the action was purely a State matter.

Names of Defendants.

The suit, filed in Travis County Court, named Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, Standard Oil Co. of New York, Standard Oil Co. of California, Shell Union Oil Corporation, Humble Oil & Refining Co., Texas Co., Gulf Refining Co., Pastoex Petroleum Co., Continental Oil Co., Sinclair Refining Co., Magnolia Petroleum Co., Simms Oil Co., Shell Petroleum Corporation, Cities Service Oil Co., the Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Co., the American Petroleum Institute and the Texas Petroleum Marketers Association.

Amos L. Beatty, newly elected president of the American Petroleum Institute, declared at Chicago the suit did not "amount to a hill of beans," expressing belief "it will soon die out."

The companies are charged with having been engaged in a systematic program of acquiring all independent filling stations in Texas; with fixing the price of gasoline and petroleum products; with fixing the price of filling station equipment; lessening and eliminating competition among themselves and "generally dominating the marketing branch of the oil industry."

Federal Sanction Claimed.

The petition asserted that the marketing code for the petroleum industry approved by the Federal Trade Commission in July, 1929, at the behest of the American Petroleum Institute, was "nothing more than an agreement and conspiracy in restraint of trade" and its approval by the commission was unlawful.

E. B. Reeser, of Tulsa, retiring president of the association, answered at Chicago that if any action was brought it should be against the Federal commission.

"We have been not only baptised but confirmed by the commission," he said.

The attorney general's action was filed as the result of a long investigation conducted by his department at the direction of the Texas Legislature. He was given an appropriation of $30,000 and told to "go to the bottom of the whole thing."

The date of the trial will be set at the January term of court. Each of the defendants, if convicted, would be liable to a minimum fine of $35,000 and a maximum fine of $1,050,000.

DREISER RETURNS; DEFIES KENTUCKY

Author Says He Was Warned of Frame-Up; Scores Mining Conditions.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Theodore Dreiser came back to New York today and announced that Kentucky can't scare him.

Dreiser and Samuel Orintz, a member of his mine investigating committee, said apparently efforts had been made to warn them that he was to be "framed." Dreiser said a lawyer, whose name he withheld, tried to see him the night before he left about something "which he said would be serious for me," and Orintz added:

"An old fellow who looked like a Kentucky colonel came up to me, said he was a former prosecuting attorney, and said, 'You boys had better be careful; they are going to frame you.'"

The novelist returned from his investigation in the Kentucky coal region in a somewhat truculent mood. He was considerably irritated with the manner in which, on the whole, newspapers and press associations had reported the situation and the hearings conducted by himself and the writers' committee and charged the press with being "traitors to every person who really works."

Dreiser discussed conditions he said he found in the mining districts of Harlan and Pineville.

"I've seen labor conditions all my life," he said, "but I have yet to see conditions equal to those I saw there. The miners and their families are dying of starvation. They haven't got enough work, and they are not paid enough for what they do. They get as little as 80 cents a day, some of them. They are living on pinto beans and potatoes—many of them—and there's nothing for the babies."

He charged the miners could not get help from the Red Cross if they belonged to their unions and said coal operators and authorities apparently "have decided three things with regard to the miners:

"(1) The men shall not become members of the miners' union; (2) they shall not meet to speak their minds; (3) they shall not read any communist literature."

Veteran Reporter Wins Dismissal in Kidnaping

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A charge of kidnaping against Arthur O'Sullivan, veteran Daily News reporter, was dismissed today by Judge Bonynge, who asserted that had O'Sullivan solved the mystery of the death of Benjamin P. Collings he would have been proclaimed a hero. O'Sullivan was arrested two weeks ago with Robert and Edward McKinley, of Oyster Bay, both of whom still are held in bail pending a hearing of their cases.

With the McKinleys, O'Sullivan was charged with posing as an official and taking Walter Dickerson, of Bayville, to Flushing to question him regarding the slaying of Collins aboard his yacht Penguin September 9.

Trade Graft Lands Man in Jail.

Dayton, Ohio, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Harry Bolanger, former official of a manufacturing plant here and now connected with an automobile manufacturing concern, in Pontiac, Mich., charged with having failed to make income tax returns for the years 1926 and 1927 on $100,000, "received from commercial graft," was sentenced to 15 months in the Reformatory at Chillicothe, by Judge Robert R. Nevin, in Federal court here today.

BERLIN AND PARIS NEAR AGREEMENT

Germany May Request the World Bank to Call Advisory Council Meeting.

Berlin, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Representatives of American banking groups, learning today that an agreemnt between Germany and France seems imminent on concurrent handling of reparations and private credits, said any discussion of precedence is theoretical because foreign creditors and German debtors are getting together every day.

They are discussing what shall be done after the credits expire on the twenty-ninth of next February, and, according to one Berlin representative of a large New Yor bank, "no matter how much the French may insist that reparations shall come first, the world bank can not but take cognizance of arrangements made with regard to private debts."

These debts, he said, are being adjusted in daily conferences right now. After the British pound dropped, all the German debtors who could do so tried to get rid of their British obligations while the exchange was favorable. Likewise, arrangements are being completed even now between American creditors and German debtors as to what is to be done after February 29.

"Thus," said the bankers, "the World Bank committee which can be created under the Young plan to look into these questions will be faced with accomplished facts which they can not ignore."

Reports circulated in well-informed circles that France and Germany had reached an agreement for handling reparations payments with the Young plan as a starting point and with an assurance for Germany that she need agree to nothing until it is determined what will happen when her 24,000,000,000 marks in short-term private debts expire.

Andre Francois-Poncet, the French Ambassador, came back from Paris today and it was assumed that he had brought a concrete plan, but Chancellor Bruening could not arrange his domestic business to work in an appointment with him. They will meet before long.

World Throws Efficiency On Backyard Junkpile

By JOHN J. DALY

MORE than a thousand Civil Service workers gathered to undergo an examination for efficiency rating—a meeting called by an efficiency expert who arrived on the scene one hour late, inefficient to the last.

"I thought the meeting was called for 3:30," he explained.

"You called it yourself, for 2:30," he was told by another efficiency expert who computed that the loss of time had resulted in a governmental expenditure of a thousand dollars or more, paid to the unemployed; not working while waiting for the efficiency expert.

The inefficiency of efficiency experts is in keeping with everything else that is wrong with a topsy-turvy world—a world that the psychiatrists describe as a large-sized lunatic asylum.

* * * *

ARTISTS are interested only in practical results, commercialism; "Get what you can while the getting is good." The result is that asceticism no longer exists and portrait painters are nothing more nor less than glorified photographers.

People, trying to enjoy themselves, seek an outlet in amusement, which is the hardest work of the age. Jazz band leaders flay themselves into exhaustion. Saxophone players blow their brains out, dancers are worn to a state of collapse, "blues singers" turned into terrorists, and hideous grins—masks of madness—stamp the faces of the supposedly happy. Efficiency becomes sufficiency, its exponents gone mad. Musicians, followers of Orpheus, turn their allegiance from Eurydice to the goddess of Boop-boop-a-doop, and have moved, bagpipe and baggage, to Tin Pan Alley.

AMERICA is not the only country gone cuckoo. The nations of the world have all joined in the mad frenzy of destroying civilization, or what is left of it. Power is the goal and ambition of statesmen, who are not statesmen at all, but paltry politicians without the slightest concept of the state, or its functions.

When efficiency experts come to look over the books of the world, and to set matters aright, they find that nothing can be done, since everything and everybody is out to wreck the universe. So, in despair, the efficiency experts throw efficiency to the four winds and become inefficient; merely to keep in step with the rest of the crowd—all bent on dissolution.

Efficiency, the god of America in years gone past, is now thrown on the dump heap of the world — the great back yard of civilization cluttered up with empty booze bottles, cigarette butts, lipsticks, battered high hats, walking canes and vanity cases.

Virginia in Good Shape, Says Byrd

Former Governor Visits His Daughter in Capital School.

(Associated Press.)

Former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia sees the Old Dominion as one of the States least affected by the depression.

Visiting Washington yesterday, Byrd pointed to the healthy condition of Virginia's three major industries, tobacco manufacturing, shipbuilding and rayon manufacturing, and the full storehouses of farmers.

With the exception of the dark tobacco belt, Byrd said, conditions this year in Virginia are much better than in 1930, the year of the prolonged drought. The dark tobacco farmers, however, have been badly hit by extremely low prices.

Byrd, who is considered a presidential possibility, held long conferences with Senators Swanson and Glass, paid a call at Democratic headquarters and then visited his daughter, who is attending school here.

Two Loudoun Estates Bought by Turfman

Leesburg, Va., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Raspberry Plain and Ivon, famous estates near here, have been sold to W. H. Lipscomb, widely known turfman, it was announced here today. Bates Warren, Washington attorney, from whom the properties were purchased, declined to disclose the price. Both estates are situated in the heart of the Loudoun horse country.

It was reported that Mr. Lipscomb plans to establish a thoroughbred nursery and racing establishment at Raspberry Plain, bringing a number of stallions and matrons owned by him from Kentucky.

Ironton Combine Wins Commission's Approval

(Associated Press.)

Consolidation of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, the Detroit & Ironton and the Toledo-Detroit railroads was authorized yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Detroit, Toledo & Ironton will take over the tracks and all assets of both of the other companies, whose corporate existence will cease.

Federal Action to Force Oil Output Cut Is Fought

(Associated Press.)

Opposition was voiced yesterday by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, to any Federal action to force greater limitation of the oil output.

"No other industry in the history of the world has so disciplined itself or voluntarily assumed such sweeping cuts in production as has been the case with the Independent Oil Industry of this Nation," he said.

Asserting that the administration was contemplating steps to force more drastic oil limitation, Thomas said that "the purpose of the plan is to smash the independent oil industry for the benefit of the big importing firms is quite evident despite the pretext that this is a conservation measure."

Rowbottom Freed Upon His Parole

Former Indiana Representative Serves 8 Months of Year's Sentence.

Leavenworth, Kans., Nov. 12 (A.P.) Harry E. Rowbottom, former representative in Congress from the Fist Indiana District, was released shortly after noon today from the Federal Penitentiary here, where he has served approximately eight months of a sentence imposed for the acceptance of bribes from persons who sought postoffice appointments.

Authority for Rowbottom's release arrived this morning from Washington.

The former representative was convicted in Federal Court at Evansville, Ind., April 15 on four counts of an indictment growing out of his patronage practices. Fined $2,000 and sentenced to a year and a day in prison, Rowbottom was received here April 21. Good conduct allowances reduced his term of imprisonment.

70 Congress Members To Study Canada Taxes

(Associated Press.)

Approximately 70 members of Congress are reported to have accepted the offer of William Randolph Hearst, publisher, to be his guests on a trip to Canada, beginning Saturday, to study taxation systems there.

An especial subject for study will be the Canadian sales tax, that phase being of particular interest because of suggestions for a United States sales tax to overcome the more than $661,000,000 Treasury deficit that has accumulated in this fiscal year. The party will leave Washington Saturday night at 6:30 p. m., arriving in Montreal at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Admiral Is Rescued From Grounded Boat

Montreal, Quebec, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Rescue of Sir W. A. N. Kelly, admiral in command of the British squadron in Chinese waters, from the minesweeper Petersfield, which went ashore 450 miles north of Hongkong, was reported today by Capt. A. V. R. Lovegrove, of the liner Empress of Asia to the Canadian Pacific Steamship Lines.

The Empress was en route from Shanghai to Hongkong at the time of the admiral's rescue. Capt. Lovegrove cabled the Petersfield was being used as the admiral's yacht at the time she went ashore.

FRIEND OF POWERS SLAIN, IS VERDICT

Finding Reported in Death of Sfikas as Bluebeard Awaits Arraignment.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict that Stamatos Sfikas, 40, shoe shine parlor owner and acquaintance of Harry F. Powers, was killed by "a party or parties unknown."

Powers, held for the killing of two women and three children here, was questioned several weeks ago concerning the disappearance of Sfikas, but denied he had any knowledge of the man's whereabouts.

Sfikas' decomposed body was found near here Tuesday. A rusty revolver was found near it, and for that reason authorities were uncertain whether he had shot himself or was killed by another person.

The coroner's jury decided that Sfikas "some time in June, 1931, did come to his death by external violence to the head and a revolver wound in the head at the hands of a party or parties unknown."

Powers was arrested late in July for the killing of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children, of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, Worcester, Mass.

Under heavy guard, he was brought here from the State Penitentiary in Moundsville early today to enter his plea.

The 42-year-old matrimonial agent, who is to face trial here late this month or early in December, greeted jail attaches with a broad grin.

Powers was rushed panic-stricken to the penitentiary when a midnight mob threatened his life in the Harrison County Jail in September.

Powers was calm as he waited in his cell for arraignment on the charges. Sheriff Wilford B. Grimm said the prisoner maintained an attitude of stolid indifference as he surveyed the surroundings familiar to him before he was taken to the State prison. The time of the arraignment was not disclosed. It was expected that the prisoner would be taken into court in the next few days.

11 SURVIVORS SAVED FROM SHIP LIFEBOAT

those saved was Guillermo Castilla, an employe of the Colombian government, who apparently was a passenger. The details were radioed here by Lieut. George B. Evans, commanding the Swan.

The Baden Baden left Rio Hacha, Colombia, November 5. She carried no radio, and it had been feared she came to grief in heavy weather along the Central American coast.

The Baden Baden is the converted rotorship which Anton Flettner, German inventor, sailed across the Atlantic to New York in 1926 with two 45-foot towers rotating in the wind, serving the same purpose as the square sails of the old clipper ship. Regulated from the bridge, the rotors developed 120 revolutions a minute and drove the vessel along over 70 per cent of the distance.

The rotorship was not regarded as a commercial success, however, and two years later the towers were dismantled and a new motor was put in the hull of the Baden Baden. She was built at Kiel and is now described by Lloyd's as a steel auxiliary schooner of 497 gross tons.

British Aviator Weds Lady Mary

Bride Is Given Away by Gov. Sampson of Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Lady Mary Heath and George Anthony Reginald Williams, both aviators by profession, who came to attend the Prince of Wales Steeplechase, were married here today.

They explained they had been engaged a year but only decided to wed now after arrival yesterday. Lady Mary, who has been married twice before, said she was glad she was marrying a man about her own age, and added:

"I was 34 the day before yesterday and he is 33, just a year younger. My first husband would be way past 80 if he were living now. He was Elliott Lynn. My second husband, Sir James Heath, was 56 when we were married."

Gov. Flem D. Sampson of Kentucky gave the bride away and the ceremony was attended by a throng of sportsmen and their wives here for the national fox hunt.

I. C. C. Fully Informed Of Rail Deal, Is Claim

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—E. N. Brown, chairman of the board of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad, said today the Interstate Commerce Commission had been fully informed of the purchase of stock of the road by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and of Gulf, Mobile & Northern stock by the Frisco.

Commenting on the commission's order issued today for an investigation into the purchases, Mr. Brown expressed the opinion the order might have been the result of a misapprehension concerning their amount. The original order stated the amount of each block to be 250,000 shares, whereas, Mr. Brown said, it was only 25,000. The commission today issued a corrected announcement.

Two Accused of Murder.

Wewoka, Okla., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Charges of murder were filed today against W. L. Scott and Ernest Tidwell in connection with the death of Scott's wife, whose battered body was found in an automobile abandoned on a railroad crossing near Sasakwa.

Senator to Defend Lawrence Picket

Wheeler Wires Offer of Aid and Bid to Tell Senate of Strike.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, volunteered to defend David K. Niles, who was arrested as a picket in the Lawrence, Mass., strike of textile workers. In a telegram to Niles, who is director of Ford Hall Forum at Boston, Senator Wheeler also invited him to appear before the Senate manufactures committee to tell of conditions at Lawrence.

"Just learned from newspapers," Mr. Wheeler wired to Niles, "you had been arrested as a picket in Lawrence. Will gladly volunteer my services to defend you in this outrageous proceeding. Think you should appear before manufacturing committee of the Senate to tell of conditions in that city."

Wheeler, a former prosecuting attorney, also wired to the clerk of the district court at Lawrence entering his appearance as attorney for Niles.

Boy Seriously Scalded While Playing in Home

A 3-year-old colored boy was seriously scalded when he accidentally overturned a pan of boiling water on the upper part of his body while playing in the kitchen at 301 V street northwest yesterday afternoon.

The Fire Rescue Squad responded and gave first aid to the child, Joseph Taylor, and then took him to Freedmen's Hospital, where it was said his condition was undetermined early last night.

Dr. Fitch to Speak At Y.M.C.A. on Dole

Member of Faculty of New York School of Social Work to Come Here.

Dr. John A. Fitch, noted economist, educator and author, will deliver an address on "The Dole" at a public meeting in the assembly hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, 1736 G street, tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Leonard W. DeGast, general secretary of the Washington Y. M. C. A., arranged for the appearance here of the New Yorker. Dr. Fitch is a member of the faculty of the New York School of Social Work and the author of several works on economics, including "Causes of Industrial Unrest." He is a member of the American Economics Association, the American Association of Labor Legislation, the Academy of Political Science and the National Conference of Social Work.

The meeting will be open to women as well as men. There will be no admission charge.

CAMELS are FRESH in nature's own mild way!

EVERYONE knows now that Camels are the fresh cigarette.

If inquiry went deeper, it would reveal that Camels are the natural moisture cigarette.

That's important, because in handling fine tobaccos, when you process out natural moisture, you sacrifice freshness and flavor too.

Camel smokers needn't worry about that, because Camels are blended of fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos that are never subjected to violent processing. They need no parching or toasting to make them smooth, palatable, cool.

That's why the Camel Humidor Pack is such a boon to Camel smokers—it preserves the freshness, flavor, natural moisture, fragrance that are in this fine cigarette to start with.

Camels are fresh in nature's own mild way, and if you want to see what that means in unalloyed smoke-enjoyment, switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can!

$20,000 FARM BOARD SALARY IS ATTACKED

Schafer Protests Payment to General Counsel Greater Than to Cabinet.

(Associated Press.)

A protest against paying a $20,000 salary to the general counsel of the Federal Farm Board was made in a letter to Representative Wood, chairman of the last House appropriations committee, by Representative Schafer yesterday.

The Wisconsin Republican inclosed a letter from Chairman Stone of the board stating that Stanley Reed, formerly of Maysville, Ky., was appointed counsel in November, 1929, at a salary of $10,000 which has since been doubled.

Schafer said this salary was greater than that of a Cabinet officer and suggested abolishment of the board was preferable to reducing salaries of low-paid Federal employes "who are now barely receiving enough compensation for their service to keep the body and soul of themselves and their families together."

The board has been assailed for its secrecy and mystery. Efforts to pry into its financial condition and wheat holdings have failed. Now, at last, as required by law, Congress—and the public, too—will learn among other things:

How much wheat was bought in stabilization purchases, how much it now owns, what price was paid, what actual losses total thus far, loans made to cooperatives and loans outstanding, and the condition of the board's treasury.

This information will be transmitted to Congress soon after it convenes December 7.

Other departments — State, War, Navy, Agriculture and the rest—receive annual appropriations for specific purposes. Their financial transactions rarely gain close attention in the annual reports covering the fiscal year ended the previous June 30.

GOV. PINCHOT ASKS MELLON FOR MILLION

George Norris, of Nebraska. This was after his call on Secretary Mellon.

At the outset of the press conference Gov. Pinchot said that he would make one statement for quotation and then talk freely with the understanding that his additional remarks should not be quoted.

In the course of the talk about the request that had been made on Secretary Mellon for $1,000,000, a reporter broke in with this question:

"How much are you going to contribute, governor?"

The governor made an evasive reply, but under the rules governing the interview this was not quotable.

Later on, as he walked into Senator Norris' office, Gov. Pinchot said:

Authorized Statement.

His authorized statement follows:

"I came to Washington to see Secretary Mellon on unemployment relief. I explained to him the gravity of the situation in Pennsylvania, the urgent need for help and the difficulty which the State faces because of constitutional limitations.

"Specifically I asked Mr. Mellon to help by contributing $1,000,000 to the State Commission on Unemployment Relief, all of which, with 4 per cent interest, would be returned to him when a constitutional amendment now proposed is adopted in 1933.

"I asked Mr. Mellon for this loan-contribution for two reasons: First, because money for direct relief is imperatively needed; second, because a contribution from him would make it immeasureably easier to raise the rest of the $35,000,000 which I estimate the State commission will need.

"Mr. Mellon did not accept my suggestion, but said he would consider the matter further."

In his message to the Pennsylvania Legislature the other day, Gov. Pinchot outlined a two-fold plan for aiding the victims of unemployment.

First, he suggested the raising of the $35,000,000, this to be paid back through a bond issue in 1933.

To Raise Money.

Second, he proposed that money be raised for starting public works and thus creating additional jobs. He would raise this money by placing an additional tax of 2 cents on gasoline; 1 cent tax on each 10 cigarettes, and a tax on billboards.

Gov. Pinchot started back for Harrisburg late yesterday in his sport roadster.

HOOVER'S GRID SQUAD GATHERS HERE

Underwood & Underwood.

President Hoover had as his guests yesterday members of the Stanford University Football Team of 1894. The President was business manager of the team that year. Shown with him are, left to right, front row: Will Irwin, W. M. Harrelson, M. H. Kennedy and W. M. Orcutt. Back row: J. Y. Fields, W. C. Hazzard, Mr. Hoover, P. M. Downing, captain of the team; Herbert Hicks and Dr. J. B. Frankenheimer.

ALLEN GIRL SENDS ROSES TO FUNERAL

Father of Slain Philadelphia Youth Issues Statement on Tragedy.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—A spray of roses bearing the card of Rose Allen was beside the casket containing the body of Francis A. Donaldson 3d, as funeral services were held today in the exclusive Ardmore social colony for the 25-year-old youth who was shot to death Monday night by Miss Allen's brother.

The 18-year-old brunette debutante did not attend the services.

While last rites for the slain youth were being held in the home of his socially prominent parents, plans were being laid to move the scene of the society tragedy to the county seat at Norristown, where Edward H. B. Allen, 23, sportsman and brother of Rose, will be taken before a coroner's jury for the first public hearing of the case.

Allen Accused of Murder.

Allen is accused of murdering Donaldson during an argument said to have arisen over Donaldson's betrayal of Rose. The coroner's jury will simply fix the cause of death and young Allen will be kept in jail until the January grand jury meets. It is improbable that he will be tried before February.

Francis A. Donaldson, father of the dead youth, provided today's sensational turn when he issued a statement attacking an account of the affair given out yesterday by Horace Allen, retired manufacturer and father of Edward and Rose.

The elder Allen had charged that young Donaldson betrayed Rose in a Scranton hotel and persisted in his attentions to the girl in spite of family objection.

Donaldson, in his statement today, said:

"The attempt to poison public opinion prior to the trial by having Mr. Allen, sr.'s, statement broadcast through the press is not original nor new, nor will it accomplish its purpose.

"A brutal, premeditated murder cannot be exculpated by the futile attempts of a badly advised and distracted father to save his son behind the skirts of his daughter, whose character the father himself destroyed.

No Accusations Made.

"The truth of this terrible tragedy will come from the lips of disinterested witnesses at the proper time. Until then no accusations are made by me. I confidently await the results of the action of the proper legal authorities moving through the channels provided by law."

Earlier Mrs. Wharton L. Donaldson, the dead youth's aunt, said that "any attempt to besmirch the character of this dead boy will reflect only on those who make it. But if anyone wishes to libel his daughter or his sister, it is no concern of ours. Nothing they can say about Francis will hurt his good character."

Warning Given on Drug License.

The Board of Pharmacy of the District of Columbia has issued a warning that all licenses to practice pharmacy in the District that expired on November 1, unless renewed, will be suspended after November 30.

HOOVER'S FOOTBALL SQUAD OF '94 HIS DINNER GUESTS

of the fellows, as Capt. Paul M. Downing recalls, were in a rebellious mood over the shoe situation. The urgent problem at the moment was one of credits, for the celebrated Amos Alonzo Stagg already was booked to bring his fully uniformed and swaggering Maroons to the Coast for a two-game series with Stanford on Christmas and New Year's.

The credits arranged through a student committee, Stanford ran out on the field at San Francisio in new pants.

The team won the Pacific Coast championship that year, and then, in the first intersection series, registered successive victories over Chicago. The triumphs of the Stanford flying wedge wiped out the deficit and the team closed the season with a balanced budget for the first time in the brief history of the university.

Capt. Downing, who ran through the entire playing season that year without yielding his place to a substitute, still packs a 200-pound tackle in his six feet two, but since 1901 he has been pushing the Pacific Gas & Electric system down the business field. The plant he took over that year represented an investment of $5,000,000. Today it is a $600,000,000 enterprise, according to the dinner-table Who's Who. Downing played half back, center and tackle.

Harrelson Bank President.

William H. Harrelson, vice president of the Bank of America, tips the scale today at only 157 pounds, which is but 10 pounds more than he put into the quarter back defense in 1894. A native son, Harrelson, after graduating in engineering in Stanford, mapped the floor of Yosemite Valley, built the tunnels and roads in Golden Gate Park and then devoted himself for 25 years to rearing some $20,000,000 worth of dams, bridges, spillways and irrigation ditches up and down California.

En route to Washington, he was walking the station platform at Ogden, Utah. The familiar face approaching the train was that of William C. Hazzard, of Buhl, Idaho, the sensational Stanford center of '94. The two men had not met since graduation. Hazzard has been school teacher and publisher in Washington State, Wisconsin and Illinois. He developed hydroelectric sites in Idaho for 15 years prior to 1924 and has since been a banker.

Charles M. Fickert, cowboy in the San Joaquin Valley before he captained the Stanford squad in '96, was also a famous track performer. He was district attorney in San Francisco in 1916, and since has been practicing in Los Angeles.

Will Irwin Was Sub.

Jackson E. Reynolds, famous for his 40-yard run through Stagg's men at Los Angeles, is president of the First National Bank of New York, a director in fourteen corporations, including the New York Central and Southern Pacific, and was chairman of the organization committee which established the Bank of International Settlements.

Dr. Guy Coehran, tackle, flew from Los Angeles for the President's reunion. He is a famous physician.

Martin H. Kennedy, full back, followed Downing to the captaincy. Later he became a celebrated attorney in Colorado.

Will Irwin, journalist and author, ranked as a substitute in 1894, broke his leg in practice and then became cheer leader.

Dr. Jewell B. Frankenheimer, a prominent physician of San Francisco, played end on the squad. Joel Y. Field, a large-scale farmer, near Dallas, Tex., and William V. Orcutt, a world authority on petroleum geology, were guards. State Senator Herbert Hicks, of Rockford, Ill., was student manager of the championship squad which young Bert Hoover pulled out of the financial doldrums.

Representative Arthur M. Free, who speaks for the Stanford District in Congress, was invited to the White House dinner, but missed the creaky maneuvers on the South Grounds in the afternoon.

The dinner was "for men only."

Junior Mechanics Seat New Officers

36th Annual Convention Considers Part in Bicentennial Fete.

New officers of the District of Columbia Council of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics were installed at the closing session of their thirty-sixth annual convention, held in the Junior Order Hall, 808 I street northwest, it was announced yesterday.

Those installed were Thomas F. Jones, State councilor; Charles H. Hild, State vice counselor; E. M. Garrett, State conductor; Edwin B. Pitts, State warden; Benjamin F. Payton, State inside sentinel; W. J. Harman, State outside sentinel; George L. Myers, State chaplain; John Prender, State secretary, and R. W. Hawkins, State treasurer. The new officers were installed by Fred W. Ebhardt, National Council deputy.

Plans for participation in the George Washington Bicentennial were discussed, following which the organization voted to establish an employment bureau for jubless members.

French Corsican Forces Capture Notorious Thug

Ajaccio, Corsica, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Enrico Pinelli, an outstanding bandit chieftain of Northern Corsica, was one of the important captures made today by French forces in their war on mountain banditry.

Pinelli was one of 80 desperadoes rounded up during the day on the four fighting fronts of Corsica. In a career of crime that has made him the terror of the countryside for years, Pinelli is directly accused of slaying three persons, and of other crimes running from kidnapping to robbery.

ILLINOIS FACTORIES HIT IDLE INSURANCE

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to every form of public or compulsory unemployment insurance was registered before a Senate committee yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the association, told the Senate unemployment insurance committee that any compulsory system would "undermine the fabric of our economic and social life by destroying initiative, discouraging thrift and stifling individual responsibility."

Donnelly contended that under a public system the Government's contribution would be "largely influenced by political instead of economic consideration."

"The contributions of the various economic groups would be determined by their legislative strength, rather than on the basis of their ability to pay," he added.

The witness also contended that there was no dependable statistical background for this type of insurance; that it would increase unemployment by crippling the agencies that provide jobs, and would place a premium on idleness.

Unemployment insurance of a compulsory nature, he said, would result in "further intrusion of the Government into the domain of private enterprise; would increase taxation and would be paternalistic."

Donnelly said industry was seeking greater regularization of employment, and was studying voluntary unemployment insurance.

SHAW BARRAGED IN WALSH REPLY

Cleric of Georgetown University Makes Second Reply Over Radio.

George Bernard Shaw, who a month ago lauded the Soviet system in an internationally broadcast radio address, yesterday was bitterly attacked for his "brilliant falsifications about Russia" by the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, in a second reply to Shaw.

Dr. Walsh, one of the foremost authorities on Russia in the United States, within a week after the English author's celebrated "American Boob Talk," answered it in a counter address over the same broadcasting system.

His talk yesterday, made in answer to the flood of inquiries that followed his initial reply, reviewed the international dispute, denied that Shaw "had his tongue in his cheek" when he was praising Russia, and charged that before the English author was flattered by the Soviet on a recent 10-day visit, he "scoffed at the impudence of their international pretensions."

"It is high time," he said, "to have done with his silly contradictions, his wearisome self-advertising, his pathetic preening and posturing before movietone cameras, and his unmanly Narcissus complex, which makes its victim, like Rostand's Chanticleer, imagine that the sun rises to hear him crow."

Dr. Walsh charged that the Soviet state has formulated a concrete foreign policy designed to "disturb and eventually to overthrow every other form of government in the world."

DEMOCRATS IN HOUSE SPURN ANY OFFER OF POLITICAL TRUCE

the present administration responsible.

"At the same time, I feel that I am safe in stating my belief that the Democrats will insist that they shall be the judge of the wisdom and expediency of the enactments upon which they will be called to vote.

Assumes Infallibility.

"We have no reason to assume the infallibility of the administration. Indeed, the experience of the past two years pretty clearly demonstrates that no such assumption is possible.

"It is not inconceivable that when the President offers a recommendation to accomplish a given result, such as the encouragement of business, the Democrats may have their own and what they consider a better process for bringing this about, in which case obviously our party congressmen will do everything in their power to substitute their own process for the one suggested."

Garner said conferences with his colleagues reveal the general Democratic feeling "that they have in mind no policy of mere obstruction." He added:

"If there be political advantage in demonstrating our ability to exhibit to the country the President's impotence, we are willing to forego that advantage.

"We will not take the position, for which, incidentally, we have adequate Republican precedent, that because a proposal emanates from the White House it is thereby automatically damned. Nor will we accept the hypothesis that because of such origin it is automatically sanctified."

Presupposes Accusations.

Being on the eve of a presidential campaign, he explained, every time the Democrats oppose "the White House incumbent and candidate for reelection" accusations of "playing politics" will follow.

"If we are interested in bringing about the election of a Democratic successor to Mr. Hoover, he and his party are no less interested in accomplishing Mr. Hoover's reelection," he said. "There is no more justification for the contention that Democratic votes against administration measures are dictated by partisanship than that the President's own recommendations are actuated by an equally selfish motive."

Mr. Garner concluded his statement by saying that with the closely divided House and Senate the congressional situation "calls for the best efforts of every man of either party."

Representative Cullen, leader of the New York delegation, said the 23 members in his group had voted to support the Texan.

After Cullen conferred with Garner on organization and policy questions, he expressed confidence that the division of chairmanships of important committees between Northern and Southern Democrats would be settled satisfactorily. The New York delegation, he said, had not decided whom they would support for the Democratic leadership.

The Republican contest for a Speakership nomination took a new turn yesterday when Representative McFadden, of Pennsylvania, called the big delegation of 33 from his State to decide November 27 on whom it will support. Representative Snell, of New York, has some support in the group, while at least one member is pledged to Tilson.

Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the last House appropriations committee, predicted the Democrats would organize and that Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking Democrat, would succeed him as chairman.

Senate Seems Safe.

Over in the Senate all indications point to the Republicans keeping control, despite some threats and counter-threats.

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, is the center of Republican dissension because of his attitude toward Western Independents, to whom he referred as "the sons of the wild jackass." There are some signs of a movement to unseat him as president pro tem. Senator Moses has intimated he will retaliate against any committee chairmen who might go after his scalp.

The Senate Democrats apparently have no desire to seek control unless they have an actual voting majority.

Have you what is commonly called that Tired Feeling?

"Mother, I do wish you were well and strong"

"I just can't go on"—how often you hear this.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living . . . pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count . . . the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease.

Sometimes it is a lagging appetite that leads to underweight and ill health in various manifestations.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

You should know that S.S.S. has the distinct advantage of being composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form . . . it is Mother Nature's formula.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

It is a great protection to health and physical well-being to keep the red-blood-cell count up to normal. These cells build and sustain—they also remove impurities.

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

DAWES IN PARIS.

The presence of Charles G. Dawes in conferences pertaining to the Manchurian question is an assurance that the rights and duties of the United States will be capably defined and its interests fully safeguarded.

Many nations are concerned in this controversy. Some of them are involved by reason of the covenant of the League of Nations. These nations and others, including the United States, are concerned because of the Kellogg pact. Nine powers, including the United States, are concerned because of their treaty which binds them to respect the integrity and independence of China and to observe the principle of the open door.

Not being a member of the League of Nations, the United States is not concerned with its dealings with Japan and China. The covenant has no force or effect, so far as the United States is concerned. If the League of Nations should resort to sanctions in attempting to bring the quarreling nations to terms the United States could have no part in the proceedings.

As parties to the Kellogg treaty, China and Japan are bound in honor to employ only pacific means of settling their dispute. The treaty does not impose any obligation upon other powers to enter into the dispute.

As a party to the nine-power treaty the United States is vitally interested. Violation of that treaty by Japan would be so flagrant an attack upon the rights of all parties to the treaty, as well as upon the rights of China, as to require them to take counsel together in order to call Japan to account. That treaty, made in Washington to insure peace in the Far East, can not be violated without inviting war.

The assurances given by Japan are such as to make it certain that the Japanese government is fully aware of its responsibility to the United States and other parties to the treaty.

Nevertheless, repeated collisions in Manchuria and China threaten to precipitate war. If war should come the nine-power treaty would become intolerable to Japan, because its strict observance would prevent Japan from waging successful war. Therefore, the treaty would be violated.

It is necessary that the powers affected by threatened war should consult one another in order to protect their rights and perform their obligations. They are holding their consultations in Paris. Ambassador Dawes goes there because it is the most convenient place of meeting. If Geneva should be more convenient, Mr. Dawes should go there. The place of meeting is unimportant. The urgency of meeting is immediate and imperative.

Unhampered by any ties created by the ill-conceived covenant of the League of Nations, and acting with entire independence solely in its own interest, the United States confers with other parties interested in maintaining peace in the Far East. The representative of the United States is the peer of any foreign statesman. He speaks with force and clear-sightedness in his own right. He acts under general instructions from the President, who now has in Paris a representative upon whose discretion he can safely rely.

It may be safely assumed that no nation signatory to the nine-power treaty guaranteeing the independence of China will be left unaware of the supreme importance which the United States attaches to that pact.

NO FARM BOARD FUNERAL.

Representative Beck's funeral oration over the Farm Board has drawn lusty applause from some quarters. Needless to say, the Chicago Board of Trade was delighted. The grain traders have always resented attempts of farm organizations to assume control over the marketing of their own produce. Another group that joined these premature obsequies is composed of politicians who wish to discredit the Farm Board as part of their attack on President Hoover's administration. Still others are disappointed that the board has been unable to perform miracles. Finally, some insurgents would like to sweep the board out of existence or modify its powers to prepare the way for either the export debenture or the equalization fee.

Senator King, of Utah, announces that he will introduce a bill to wind up the board's affairs. Perhaps Mr. Beck will take the same initiative in the House. At any rate, it is certain that the board will be attacked during the coming session of Congress. The board will have stanch defenders, however, and Representative Beck probably will find that he has wasted his funeral baked meats.

No one can deny that the Farm Board has made some serious blunders. Its purchases of wheat and cotton in the face of world-wide overproduction and falling prices were grave mistakes. The board had before it so many examples of the failure of price stabilization schemes of this kind that it should not have yielded to the pressure of farm organizations and politicians. Yet it is a question as to how much of the blame for this performance should be placed upon the board itself.

Congress passed the agricultural marketing act without having a clear idea of how it wished the Farm Board to function. Consequently, the board was given $500,000,000 and broad powers to do almost anything that seemed necessary to relieve agriculture. It was recognized everywhere that this means of helping the farmer to get back upon his feet was an experiment. Hence, the board experimented in several different directions. Its attempts at stabilization through price-pegging failed at a considerable cost to taxpayers. On the other hand, its organization program, which aims at the development of marketing machinery under control of the farmers themselves, has met with a fair measure of success.

Since the board has abandoned all price-stabilization plans, Congress can do no more than lock the door after the horse has been stolen. Congress might provide against future gambling with the taxpayers' money by withdrawing the board's authority to buy up and store surplus crops. Such an amendment would not detract from the board's usefulness. But there is no occasion for abolishing this agency before its work is complete merely because one of the experiments it launched with the sanction of Congress was a failure.

The work of the board has already demonstrated that the farmer has much to gain from the establishment of marketing facilities of his own. Only the middleman, who has been reaping profits at the expense of both the farmer and the consumer, can object to the systematic development of co-operative marketing. To aid the farmer in this field was the primary purpose of the act which created the Farm Board. That act should not be repealed until the board has accomplished its purpose.

One important aspect of the question that the funereal orators seem to have overlooked is the vast holdings of wheat and cotton now in the hands of the board. What would become of these stores if the board were abolished?

THE OIL DILEMMA.

Oil's most important national organization, the American Petroleum Institute, in annual session in Chicago, received some specific recommendations from Secretary of Commerce Lamont, accompanied by even more pointed warning. The Secretary told the oil men that if they wished to avoid Federal regulation "such sprees as we have seen in east Texas" must be avoided. His remedy is coordination of State production by interstate compact.

The manifold difficulties encountered by the petroleum industry in its attempts to regulate itself are well known. Meetings called in Washington were no sooner in session than warnings from the Attorney General dissolved them. Varying State laws and the conflicting interests of new and old fields, even in adjoining States, raise conflicting interests that are difficult to reconcile. The demoralizing overproduction of midcontinental fields could not be curbed until military force was called out to close the wells.

The extreme measures resorted to in Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas resulted in an informal understanding among the regulatory commissions of those three States. Along this same line Secretary Lamont believes that proper control of production can be secured by interstate compacts, approved by Congress, to put on a permanent basis the periodical forecasting of demand, to fix State production quotas and to enforce such quotas.

Opposed to the interstate pact idea there is an important body of opinion which believes means should be found to exempt the industry from the antitrust laws when overproduction leads to conditions inimical to the public interest. In that event some Federal authority would have to be set up to regulate the industry during its period of adjustment and to decide when competition could be resumed without jeopardizing the public interest.

Secretary Lamont's plan is broader than the present unconventional agreement, in that he would not only have a permanent interstate commission appointed, but also have Federal representatives connected with it. This, in a measure, meets the objection that an interstate compact would allow the producing States to control the petroleum industry in their own interest. Oil and gasoline have become such a vital part of the economic life of the Nation that they almost reach the public utility classification. Proper regulatory measures must be found, not only to relieve oil producers, but to conserve one of the great natural and irreplaceable assets of the Nation. The importance of such action is clearly indicated by the fact that 281 of our 291 sea-going ships are oil-burners and Americans have an investment of $18,000,000,000 in gasoline-driven automobiles.

Regulation of the great oil industry is too broad a question to be left either to the decision of a few States, or to the uncontrolled management of commercial interests. If output can be curtailed only through State control there must be Federal cooperation; if any easement of antitrust restrictions are considered it can only be through Federal regulation so that public interest can be constantly safeguarded.

Having observed the fate of the country under the two-party system, the I. C. C. will study most carefully the details before approving the railroads' four-system plan.

On Armistice Day all the great powers called attention to the "contributions" which America made to the victory. It's a permanent compliment.

Senator Norris says he has no illusions about the Presidency. Well, that ends him, as voters always cast their ballots under illusions.

Strick Gillilan says the greatest region of unemployment is north of the ears. Who has done any exploring in that region?

When there is a roll call in Congress they always ring a series of bells. They have to do something to wake up the members.

What America is trying to accomplish is to get Japan out of the trenches and on the dotted line.

The year 1931 may go down as a "hot year," but the unemployed don't think it was so hot.

Mexico is about to go Uncle Sam one better. It proposes to abolish a navy that never existed.

Japan is rushing fresh troops to Manchuria to make sure that peace will prevail.

Bank robbers have formed a combine. But what they lack is the combination.

WHEAT PROSPECTS

By CHARLES BENEDICT, in the Magazine of Wall Street.

On October 5 wheat sold at the lowest price in the history of this country. Less than a month later it had gained 25 cents a bushel, an increase of more than 50 per cent. As this is written 70-cent wheat prevails and the American farmer with 390,000,000 bushels, or 44 per cent of this year's crop, still in his possession has been at least potentially enriched by many millions of dollars. This gain in value is further increased and distributed by the rise in price of other staples, such as corn, oats and rye, in the wake of wheat.

For the moment the country is treated to a brief vision of the prospect of a rising price trend with all that it signifies. For although wheat may still be somewhat below the average cost of production at even current levels the potentialities of higher purchasing power and its accompanying industrial stimulation, the possibility of liquidation of indebtedness, thawing of frozen assets and release from the weight of accumulated farm surpluses, can not be denied.

But to achieve any of these much-desired effects the firm trend of wheat must be sustained—and sustained not for a week but for many months. Can it be? That depends on how genuine is the base from which it rose.

What inspired the gain in price from the 45-cent level? Fundamentally, no doubt, an oversold market the world over—a market that had given too much attention to bushels harvested and too little to quality. World-wide fear had steadily depressed values until at last technical recovery was inevitable.

Then came the realization that a good portion of Europe would be forced to buy wheat. Russia's operations, real and fanciful, did the rest and the rise was under way, helped by speculators everywhere.

In the first ten months of 1930, 50,000,000 bushels of wheat were cleared from Russian ports. This year in the same period Russia has exported just under 83,000,000 bushels. In the first five days of November she shipped out 1,306,000 bushels additional. On the basis of these extensive exports and in view of the fact that her crop is apparently only 47,000,000 bushels larger this year than last, it might be assumed not a great deal more was forthcoming, but it must be remembered that she withheld shipments from the 1929 crop until the 1930 crop was assured in its abundance. Her shipments this year, therefore, are not only from the recent harvest but also include grain from the 1930 production. And it is reasonable to assume that considerably more than the 14,000,000 bushels theoretically remaining as the export portion of the 1930 output can still be sold; but whatever balance is to come is more likely to be marketed slowly than it is to be dumped. Russia needs funds, and this need will be more acute in a few months from now. She will therefore most likely refrain from doing anything that would undermine the present rising trend because of her desire for better prices and larger profits. In addition, uncertainty as to war and next year's crop would dictate conservative disposal of the last portions of her surplus. No unreasonable strain on the wheat market is therefore immediately likely to arise from Russian sources.

It is obvious that wheat prices will be free from the weight of excessive production in the near future. On the other hand, while much of the rise may have been seen, prices should be buoyed by the necessity of fulfillment of European requirements. Such a combination is a fair basis for a sounder price level which should offer resistance even to Russian onslaughts.

POST HASTE.

It does discount enjoyment of this nice summery fall if you are trying to sell coal or overcoats.

The latest Manchurian battle reports show: Killed, Chinese, 300; Japanese, 3. That Chinese handicap of 20 to 1 will have to be quintupled.

If the oil interests think the Government is fooling in its warning that they put their house in order, they might watch the radio "trust" and see what happens when suggestions are not heeded.

China, with seven times Japan's population, is helpless before Japanese preparedness. Russian strength is thousands of miles away over a single-track railway. Japan will do what she likes in Manchuria.

"We have shown the world that the dollar is sound," says Bernard Baruch, "we shall show the world that Government securities are good beyond peradventure; the spirit of defeatism which seemed to have gripped this Nation has been broken; we have disrupted the continuity of pessimism; American business men will finish the job." Good for Barney Baruch!

The new model cars threaten us with so many improvements that they will just be irresistible.

The sales tax has one unique advantage—it is comparatively painless, since you pay it without knowing when.

The addition of a division to Japanese forces in Manchuria multiplies complications while further subtracting from league prestige.

A number of Navy folks seem to think the first arm of defense would be crippled if it lost its fingers.

If you didn't attend the Armistice jubilee at the Auditorium the space you didn't occupy was appreciated by many others.

As Franklin Roosevelt announces that he is too busy for politics the "perpetual governor" of Maryland makes speeches galore. A big Democrat sees the finger of fate pointing at Ritchie as destined to move from a State to a neighboring District.

Reed Smoot says that if the country had not been so sound financially the stock market crash of 1929 would have left nothing but a grease spot. But on whose vest, senator?

It seems quite doubtful that Ambassador Dawes can remain as eloquently silent at a league council meeting as Consul Gilbert. "L'enfer et Marianne!" may yet startle Paris.

The Japanese war game is being gradually transferred from Kumamoto to Manchuria. The targets at the maneuvers are not satisfactory.

Three thousand students, out of the 400,000,000 Chinese, parade in Nanking, demanding a declaration of war against Japan. But then, it was raining. PAUL HUDSON.

SUCCESS.

One rose is not enough to make
The plant worth string and garden stake.
Unless its blossom, fragrant sweet
The bush is able to repeat,
The gardener, beyond a doubt,
Will very shortly rout it out.

Cut off its loveliest bloom, and then
The rose will start to bud again.
Content will nature never stay
With triumphs of some yesterday,
But to the last she'll struggle on
To better what has come and gone.

One touch of triumph dearly won
But marks the deed a man has done,
And if content with that he stays
To settle back, puffed big with praise,
The Gardener Life will cut him down
As one not worthy his renown.

Each high achievement merely leads
The true man out to greater deeds.
Who sits content with yesterday
Tomorrow will be "ure's prey."
For he who would hold triumph fast,
Must live life bravely to the last.

Men Can Use an Elephant Only So Long As It Is Willing to Obey.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is no power on earth greater than that of dogged inertia.

Practical men in all lands scoffed and ridiculed when Tolstoy began to advocate his Christ-like doctrine of passive resistance, but the experience of this generation has demonstrated that neither governments nor armies can coerce or conquer those who wage war by doing nothing at all.

India's millions might be conquered without great effort if they took up arms, but all the might of England can not bring them to terms while they resist passively and refuse all cooperation.

The peasants of Russia were easily subdued when they depended on force to resist the rule of city soviets, but they triumphed without a struggle when they recognized the futility of active resistance and stubbornly refused to grow crops except for their own consumption.

Passive resistance is nothing more or less than a strike. It is mass inertia. The strikers use no force or violence, nor do they return blow for blow. They merely go about their affairs in peaceful independence, saying to those in authority: "We shall not obey or help or cooperate with you in any way, and what can you do about it?"

Authority can do nothing. Police and militia can subdue rioters who fight back, but they can't coerce quiet millions who pay no attention to commands.

The millions are easy to control because the arrest or execution of a few frightens the many into abject and servile obedience; but if ever a taste of power purges the humble of their cowardice, kings and captains crack their whips in vain.

Mothers now plead in vain for peace. They can have it when they refuse to bear sons.

Workers cry in vain for regular jobs and higher pay. They can have both when they refuse to father more children.

Farmers make vain complaint because their labor is unrewarded. They can name their own price for an ear of corn when they refuse to grow more than they can consume at home.

Men can tame a wild horse, but all of their superior power and cunning are worthless when the horse balks.

PRO AND CON

The "Al Smith Type."

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago has thrown down the gauntlet to Eastern Democratic leaders with the statement that their party must find for 1932 a presidential candidate of the "Al Smith type." Cermak's dictum is interesting because he strikes at a vitally important question in party politics, and a point often neglected—the personality of a candidate which will "take" with the voting public. But Cermak's suggestion has a vagueness which makes it next to useless.

Just what is the "Al Smith type?" Smith often speaks the East Side dialect of the King's English, but surely the qualities for presidential timber do not depend on his diction and grammar. Smith is a "dripping wet." This perhaps helps clarify the problem, but there are so many "dripping wets" that we are still in the dark. Smith is an extraordinarily capable executive, but that quality scarcely increases the vote-pulling power of a candidate.

Basis of Debt Revision.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It is taken for granted in many quarters that permanent downward revision of reparations and war-debt payments is an immediate and imperative necessity. That is too much to take for granted. An abnormal period such as the present is no time to lay down permanent schedules for future payments. The delegates who drew up the Young plan, including the German representatives, were certain that Germany would be able to meet its terms without undue difficulty. The only excuse for permanent revision on the basis of today's abnormal conditions would be the assumption that the abnormal conditions are permanent—a manifest absurdity.

Some Cooperation, After All.

New York Times.

Such cooperation between the two major parties in the House as can be obtained in a session preceding a presidential campaign was undoubtedly advanced by a conference which President Hoover arranged. Mr. Garner, of Texas, who will probably be Speaker; Mr. Tilson, of Connecticut, who would like to be, and Mr. Newton, the presidential secretary in charge of "Congressional contacts" (pompous phrase!), talked things over amicably. Everything possible will be done to speed ratification of the President's war-debt measure. Preferred position on the calendar will be given to the economic relief bills on which the party leaders agreed. After these the deluge.

Not such a deluge, it begins to appear, as might well happen in another country, or even here under different business conditions. Both Mr. Garner and Mr. Tilson have said publicly, and so has Mr. Snell, of New York, that once the House has an organization, it should not be disturbed at this session even if death shifts the majority. Should the Progressive band, therefore, in resentment over some concession denied, try to unseat the Democratic Speaker, the regular Republicans would decline to take advantage. Vice versa if, all signs failing, the Republicans organize the House. This course is both prudent and wise.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Volstead Law Will Be Strengthened if Congress Acts on Liquor Question.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In his article of November 3 "Virginia Democrat," who, of course, is a wet, indulges in quite a bit of sarcasm at my expense, which he doubtless enjoyed, and is all right with me.

He neglected, however, to include in his article any argument for the saloon, under whatever name he proposes to restore it. That would have helped his article with thoughtful people. But it is not surprising, for arguments for the liquor business, that are even plausible, are exceedingly scarce. He expresses a surmise that it was his religion that defeated Gov. Smith in 1928. It is just a surmise. Others think that played a very small part. He is convinced that in 1932 "dry Democrats will be found supporting the standard bearer of their party regardless of whether he is dry or wet." That, of course, is just his guess, and is certainly not based on a study of the various elections throughout the country, which show that not only the Democrats but the country at large is dry by a decided majority, notwithstanding the crumbs of comfort that the wets get from sporadic elections in certain wet sections. If the wets think that the drys are not sincere in their opposition to the liquor traffic, and that a wet candidate and a wet platform would not change the complexion of things in the next election, they undoubtedly have another guess coming. That assumption would certainly not be based on past experience.

But why have a wet candidate or a wet platform? There is absolutely no need for the Democrats to take a wet stand. They can more likely win without it; and if past experience teaches us anything, they can more certainly win without it than with it. Why should they take a chance? The only thing they will miss by taking a dry stand is Mr. Raskob's liquor slush fund and the support of those whose insatiable thirst leads them to cry "We want beer!" From many sections and groups comes the assurance that the eighteenth amendment is in the Constitution to stay, and that the only changes that are likely in the Volstead law are such as will strengthen it and its enforcement. Says Government Employes Could Not Get Far Without the Aid of the American Federation of Labor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with much interest the first page articles in your paper—that the Federal Employes Union was called upon to vote on the proposition of withdrawal from the American Federation of Labor. What a grand bluff! I should like to ask the Government employes how far they would get without the aid of the American Federation with any legislation beneficial to the Government employes. How far would the retirement bill, the Saturday half-holiday bill, have gotten without the influence of the trade unions connected with the American Federation of Labor?

What influence is yielded by the Government employes who cast their votes in the States? The employes' union may think that a few members of Congress whom they have dined and honored will champion their cause, but let these same congressmen know that organized labor at home is not in sympathy with the demands of the Government employes and see how far they will get. This suggestion of the Federal Employes Union withdrawing from the American Federation of Labor to my mind is a huge joke. AN OLD-TIMER.

Citizen Asks Pertinent Questions Regarding Practical Organization to Relieve Misery.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We have read much in the recent months about the expert organizers for local and national unemployment relief; but as a business man in the city I am moved to ask if there is really any practical application of the publicity. It is heartbreaking to see the many men (plainly good fellows) who beg for a shirt or a pair of socks to replace their rags, and those who come in for the price of a meal or a bed are almost numberless. The city is rapidly becoming a place of beggars. May I suggest that there seems to be no "relief" in an organized sense. If there is, may I ask:

1. Where in Washington is there a food kitchen, maintained by the so-called charitable and, or, unemployment committees?

2. Is there any place where we may send persons in need for clothing or a bed?

I feel that the organizers need organizing, or if they are organized, that they should use the press a little to tell us of the practical results of their relief efforts.

Smoking Aboard Airplanes Does Not Create Dangers—Most Airlines Provide for Smoking Aboard Their Ships.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Safety First," writing in your issue of November 10, condemns those who smoke in airplanes as creating a fire hazard. In support of his contention he cites the unfortunate crash at Camden, N. J., in which five persons were killed.

Now, no evidence has been adduced to support the theory that this fire started in the air. In fact, all available evidence has been directly to the contrary. Those conversant with flying know from the very nature of the crash that it was not caused by fire, but that fire was a result.

Most airlines provide for smoking aboard their ships. Most pilots smoke as freely when flying as when walking. DANIEL MARSHALL.

ALIEN DRIVE NETS 44 IN 3 MONTHS

(Associated Press.)

Forty-four persons have been rounded up on charges of smuggling aliens since the Labor Department started its drive three months ago to break up this type of racketeering.

Murray W. Garsson, special assistant to Secretary Doak, who has been in charge of the investigations, said yesterday that since leaving New York, where 27 men were arrested in connection with the alien racket, eight persons had been indicted in Detroit, seven in Chicago and two in Philadelphia.

Two hundred persons suspected of entering the country illegally were arrested in Chicago. Of these 53 were found to have served prison terms and deportation orders have been issued.

Evidence also was found, Garsson said, that virtually all the remaining 147 were illegally in the country and deportation orders are being issued.

Letters seized during the investigation came from aliens in many countries, including Italy, Belgium, Hungary, Russia, Austria, Germany and China. One letter was from a Chinese in Germany who wrote unless means were found to get him into the United States soon he would be destitute.

Still-Carrying Auto Confiscated by U. S.

Deputy Prohibition Administrator Robert E. Ford yesterday did a little first-hand enforcing when he passed an automobile near Marlboro and saw a small still in the back of it. He stopped the other machine and pointed out the still to the driver, Miles S. Krusin, of Forestville.

"Just a little kettle," Krusin said.

"I'm a prohibition agent," said Ford.

"This is most unfortunate," Krusin replied, "but let's just take it over to the side of the road and destroy it." Ford, however, objected to this and took Krusin before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran, to be charged with possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor. Krusin's automobile was confiscated.

PITTMAN ATTACKS SILVER SALES PLAN

Western Senator Calls Program of International Chamber Unsound.

(Associated Press.)

A Western senator charged yesterday that international experts who drafted a silver sales plans had silverware more in mind than silver dollars. Senator Pittman, of Nevada, called unsound the program advanced by the International Chamber of Commerce for a sales agreement among countries producing the metal.

The three experts who drafted the program, he said, were "bullion brokers." He said they considered the question from the standpoint of commercial uses of silver, rather than from the monetary standpoint.

Pittman, chairman of the Senate's silver committee, predicted the new British government would call an international silver conference within 30 days unless blocked by President Hoover's objections. Heretofore England has been against such a meeting, he said.

Pittman's attack on the chamber program followed similar criticism by Senators King, of Utah, and Wheeler, of Montana, both Democrats.

Pittman said his committee had been studying the silver problem and that it could not conceive how the exchange value of silver money for international trade can be improved or stabilized except through an international conference.

Government Abandons Stagger Working Plan

Definite abandonment of the plan to stagger the working hours of 800 of the District government's per diem employes so as to retain 400 and hire an additoinal 400 laborers was announced today by the Commissioners. It had been understood since last week, when welfare agencies protested against the plan, that the scheme would be dropped.

Consequently, 400 day workers will be discharged the end of this week in the Engineer Department because of the seasonal reduction in work. Welfare organizations told the Commissioners that it would be easier to care for these 400 than to distribute charity among 1,600 per diem employes who would have been paid little more than $10 a week under the half-time plan.

SOCIETY

President and Mrs. Hoover Hosts to Mary Pickford, George Akerson and Former Stanford Football Players.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER had with them at luncheon yesterday Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, popularly known as Mary Pickford, and Mr. George Akerson, former secretary to the President, who now lives in New York.

The President entertained at dinner last evening, the company being all men, including the members of the Stanford University football team of 37 years ago, of which the President was financial manager.

Vice Admiral Haggard Entertained at Embassy.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay entertained at dinner last evening in honor of Vice Admiral Vernon Harry Stuart Haggard and a number of the officers of the flagship H. M. S. Delhi, which is anchored off the Washington Navy Yard for a week.

The guests included Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics and Mrs. David S. Ingalls, the Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. William V. Pratt, the Commandant of the Marine Corps and Mrs. Ben H. Fuller, the Commandant of the Navy Yard and Mrs. Henry V. Butler, Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Mark L. Bristol; also the Director of Naval Intelligence and Mrs. Hayne Ellis, Lieut. and Mrs. C. B. MacVay 3d, Capt. F. M. Attwood, Paymaster Commander L. A da Costa Ricci, Commander R. E. Lambert, Maj. G. H. Seath, Lieut. Comdr. R. A. Edwards, Paymaster Lieut. Comdr. Pine, Lieut. J. H. Swaine, Mr. F. D. G. Osborne, of the embassy staff; the Military Attache, Col. Maurice Fitzmaurice Day; the Naval Attache, Capt. Patrick Macnamara and Mrs. Macnamara; the first Secretary and Mrs. Terence Shone, and the assistant Naval Attache and Mrs. W. C. Horton.

The Commercial Secretary of the Embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart entertained at dinner in their home on Sixteenth street for a group of the junior officers of the ship, while several other dinners were given last evening for the young British officers.

The coming of H. M. S. Delhi, flagship of the British America West Indies squadron, will contribute in no small measure to the gayeties of the closing days of the week. Many impromptu parties are being arranged for the junior officers, to supplement a more formal round of entertaining for Admiral Haggard and his staff and the gold lace and brass buttons of his majesty's navy will add color to the picture of Washington.

Admiral Haggard is described as genial, handsome, hearty in manner. He wears his cap at the angle made famous by Lord Beatty, late first lord of the British Admiralty. He enjoys football, but prefers cricket.

In Washington, if leisure offers, he will doubtless have opportunity to enjoy both, for soccer and cricket matches are being arranged between teams from the Delhi and teams from the British United Athletic Club. Tonight Admiral Haggard will be entertained at dinner by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of operations, U. S. N., and Mrs. Pratt.

Mexican Ambassador Entertained at Luncheon.

The Mexican Ambassador, Dr. Jose Manuel Puig Casauranc, was the guest in whose honor the International Medical Club entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton Hotel. The company numbered 50. Dr. P. S. Constantinople, secretary of the club, was in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Wilson to Attend Richmond Unveiling.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will go to Richmond today to visit Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hodges Smith at their home, Nordley.

Mrs. Wilson will attend the unveiling of the bust of former President Wilson Tuesday. Her brother, Mr. Rolfe E. Bolling, with Mrs. Bolling, reached Richmond Tuesday to be the guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Julian Bolling and Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Galt will motor to Richmond today to attend the unveiling exercises.

Dr. Annie Lyle, of San Francisco, one of President Hoover's "co-ed" classmates at Stanford University, who has been a guest at the Mayflower the past six weeks, will entertain at dinner this evening at the hotel in compliment to the members of the Stanford football team that dined last evening at the White House with the President.

Dr. Lyle is recognized as one of the foremost women physicians west of the Mississippi. She was the first woman ever made a professor in a European university, having occupied the chair of surgery in the Royal University at Vienna.

Mrs. Marshall Field, who has been in New York for several weeks, has come to Washington to open her house in Sixteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayo to Visit Here Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mayo, of Denver, will come to Washington to spend Thanksgiving with the latter's parents, the Alien Property Custodian and Mrs. Howard Sutherland. Mr. and Mrs. Mayo are now in Lexington, Ky., where Mr. Mayo is delivering a series of lectures on international affairs, in connection with his work at the University of Denver. They will spend about two months this winter in New York, going then to Mexico City in connection with Mr. Mayo's work.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland have with them for a few days the latter's brother, Mr. James W. Harris, of St. Louis. They had as their guests last week-end their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wallis B. Dunckel, of New York.

Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, of Tyrod, N. C., formerly of Washington, who is the guest of the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, will go on Saturday to visit Miss Nellie Sedgley and Miss Isabel Sedgley at their home on Massachusetts avenue.

Mrs. T. J. Wyche, of San Francisco, is the guest of Mrs. M. du Pont Lee at the Powhatan Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Saul entertained at dinner last evening at the Chevy Chase Club in honor of their debutante daughter, Miss Teresa Saul.

They had as their guests Miss Elsie Tuckerman, Miss Christine Ekengren, Miss Jane Thorpe, Miss Louise Harrison Gwynn, Miss Mary Preston Gibson, Miss Elizabeth Shouse, Miss Betty Peelle, Miss Anne Wyant, Miss Patty Edmonston, of Baltimore, niece of Mrs. Royal McKenna, of Washington; Miss Mary Elizabeth MacArthur, Miss Evelyn Walker, Miss Polly Foote, Mr. John Paine, Mr. Frederick Hamilton, Mr. Gwynn Gardiner, Mr. Henry Bell Gwynn, Mr. Harold Fangboner, Mr. Louis Peake, Mr. Thomas O'Callaghan, Mr. Herbert Walker, Mr. Paul Hartmann, Mr. Clark Brant, Mr. Holmes Branson, Mr. Albin Dearing, Mr. William Beale, Mr. Frank Wolpert, and Mr. Rodolph Waggaman.

His other guests were Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, the Secretary of War; Mr. Frederick H. Payne, the Assistant Secretary of War; Dr. Leonide Pitamic, the Jugoslavian Minister; Mr. Jules Henry, Counselor of the French Embassy; Mr. H. O. Chalkley, Commercial Counselor of the British Embassy; Mr. Warren D. Robbins, chief of the Division of Protocol, State Department; Mr. William H. Robertson, United States Consul General; Mr. Oscar T. Crosby, of Warrenton, Va.; Mr. Archibald M. McCrea, of Carters Grove, Williamsburg, Va., and Mr. William A. Goodman, of New York.

Card Party Arranged By Columbian Women.

Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, wife of the president of the George Washington University, heads the list of patronesses for the card party to be given by Columbian Women on Saturday afternoon, November 21, at the Kennedy-Warren for the purpose of raising funds to assist the university in the purchase of a replica of the Houdon statue of George Washington.

Other patronesses for the benefit include Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr, and Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong, women members of the board of trustees of the university, and Mrs. Douglas Putnam Birnie, Mrs. Abram Lisner, Mrs. Clarence Aspinwall, Mrs. Charles Herries Woodhull, Mrs. Alfred Adams Wheat, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Mrs. Charles Riborg Mann and Mrs. Merle Thorpe, wives of members of the board of trustees.

The committee on arrangements for the benefit is headed by Miss Janet McWilliams.

Miss Worthington Married At Bethlehem Chapel.

The marriage of Miss Sara Newton Worthington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell Worthington, to Dr. Robert Lord Holt, of Manchester, England, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Holt, of Bramhall Cheshire, England, took place yesterday at noon in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral, with the Rev. Dr. Robert Johnston, rector of St. John's Church, officiating. The altar in the chapel was effectively decorated with lilies and lighted candles.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pink bridal satin, made with long sleeves, along medieval lines, and a long train. Her veil of tulle was drawn closely around her head, and she carried an arm bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. Bishop Perkins Hill, sister of the bride, formerly Miss Alice Worthington, was matron of honor. She wore a frock of rose-color taffeta, made with a full skirt, with a matching hat of felt, and she carried pink roses. Miss Harriet Stearns Whitford, maid of honor, was dressed like Mrs. Hill and carried roses.

Mrs. William Bradley Willard, Miss Edith Holt, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Katherine Martin and Miss Nancy Moir, of Burlington, Iowa, were bridesmaids. They were dressed in frocks similar to those worn by the matron of honor and the maid of honor, in a deeper shade of rose taffeta, and carried muffs of roses and delphinium. Dr. H. R. J. Donald, of Manchester, England, was best man and the ushers included Mr. Bishop Perkins Hill, Mr. Peter Burgess, of Manchester, England; Mr. Denton Massey, of Toronto, Canada; Mr. Robert W. Canfield, and Mr. Charles Worthington Sawtelle, of New York.

Mrs. Bell and Daughter To Entertain Debutantes.

Mrs. George Tillman Bell and Miss Mary Lee Bell will entertain at luncheon on Friday, November 27, in honor of Miss Frances Brooks and other debutantes of the season. Miss Bell will spend the holidays with her parents at the Shoreham Hotel, but will not make her debut until next year.

Miss Mary White, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. White, entertained a small company at tea, followed by a kitchen shower, yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Olga Bayne, whose marriage to Mr. Charles L. Sturtevant will take place November 17.

Mr. Arthur Bradley Campbell entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower for Mrs. Duncan Cameron. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Whitlaw Stimson, Mr. William Bowie Clarke and Miss Elsie Quinby, daughter of Mrs. Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Weir, of Wilmington, will come to Washington Monday to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Orme Exnicios. They will go with their hosts to Upperville, Va., Tuesday, for the race meet on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, Llangollen, one of the historic places of old Virginia.

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Rowland Roberts have issued cards for tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock to meet Mr. Edwin Hughes, of New York, in their home, 2107 S street.

Miss Ella Sandberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Sandberg, has arrived at Wardman Park Hotel from California, accompanied by Miss Barbara McCartney.

Twentieth Century Club to Entertain.

Members of the board of the Twentieth Century Club will be hostesses at the annual reception of the club to be held this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Washington Club, Seventeenth and K streets. In the receiving line will be the officers of the club, including Mrs. William Walter Husband, president; Mrs. Otto L. Veerhoff, Mrs. Ellwood P. Morey, Mrs. James K. McClintock, Mrs. Francis M. Goodwin, Mrs. Frank R. Rutter and Mrs. Ernest R. McComas. Past presidents of the club will alternate at the tea table.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Cooke have cards out for tea from 4 until 7 o'clock Friday, November 27, in their home, 2409 Wyoming avenue, to present their daughter, Miss Polly Cooke, to Washington society.

Capt. M. X. Barroll, U. S. A., and Mrs. Barroll, who have been living in Chevy Chase, have moved to the Kennedy-Warren for the season.

Miss Ethel Claire Yassell has gone to Pittsburgh for the week-end. While there she will attend the Army-Pittsburgh football game with Cadet Edward E. B. Weber, of the United States Military Academy.

Miss Clara W. McQuown has returned from a lecturing trip of three weeks in Pennsylvania and has taken up her residence at the Kennedy-Warren.

Miss F. S. Hayden, of Loveland Lodge, Lake George, N. Y., has taken a suite at the Carlton for several weeks.

Cards have been issued by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Medical Society of the District of Columbia for a tea at the Medical Society Building, 1718 M street northwest, today, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

FRANCES M'DONALD

She Goes After Her Kisses!

DEAR Frances McDonald: Your column is so fascinating to me that it is the first thing I read when opening the paper. You are certainly an inspiration and I admire your fine sense of sounding the deep seas of our perplexity. There is much more I want to say to you in genuine appreciation, but the "Irma-Jerry" problem needs to be attended to quickly.

I am married to a man for 23 years when I was just 17. He too was inarticulate, and I thought consequently, in a way, dumb. He too could sit for hours and just "look" and I had to do the talking. When he visited my sisters, he would not say a word, just sit and "look" and my sisters for sheer want of food for conversation talked and acted silly. Why, even when I went to bed late at night, he would remain with my sisters (I made my home with them) and there he would sit until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning not saying a word, and since we were brought up to respect the feelings of others, we would rather remain in a petrified condition than hint to the young man to take to his heels. And mind you, he never spoke.

I differ from Irma in that I am thirsting for affection, and I have a habit to cuddle up, and therefore, though silent, my John would kiss? My engagement was very funny too. We were walking through the street at night, when he broke the silence by asking me if I would marry him. I was so surprised and stopped beneath a street lamp, whereupon he pulled from his pocket a tiny watch and held it up to the light. The thought that I was to own my first watch overwhelmed me, so I kissed him—and took the watch. That was my engagement. But what a revelation after marriage! His apparent meekness and other signs of being "easy" was truly a case that "still waters run deep." He rose from the placid waters like the rock of Gibraltar, and was I surprised? My life was filled with torn experiences, that was because I was so utterly different from my husband, where Irma would have a more placid and peaceful existence, I am sure, since she can calmly go on like this.

Let me add, that I am very happy now, the storm of youth has subsided, and while my husband is never affectionate, I have pocketed my pride long ago, and I go after my caresses, even though he does struggle through and away. I tried being dignified, but a deadening iciness seemed all around me, and I find that my method works. Why doesn't Irma use her sense of humor? She has it, her letter just breathed it! Why doesn't she tell Jerry solemnly that she wants to "return something" to him. Let him struggle with the possible meaning of this, and then—let her return his last kiss! I am sure that Irma must do the love making. Let her realize that she really loves him, and I am sure, after marriage things will be different. I really feel that Jerry is worth while—even her mother thinks he is so nice, I truly think it is Irma who should thaw out. It is positively a case that if "Mohamed does not go to the mountain, then the mountain has to go to Mohamed" or some such thing. And as for my husband, in his silent, stubborn way he has been very successful and is holding a very fine and permanent position. And besides—he has changed, he is now always talking about himself and knows his entire worth, and things are pretty normal in our cozy apartment. So I can see only one way for Irma to do, and that is "to cuddle up a little closer"—and break the ice with the "return" of the kiss, and keep it up. Jerry is the old-fashioned bashful type, his early environment must be responsible for this, and it is Irma who can tear down these "ole" barriers.

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, Nov. 12.

IT may be wool, silk or cotton, but whichever it is, it's the latest thing in new stockings! In new mesh stockings, to be more specific! And you wear them for daytime, for active sports and for evening dances—and they are always dotted!

Goodness, stockings are changing daily, and getting as many new twists and turns as the fussiest and most beruffled Empress Eugenie frock! And this one that I speak of today—dots—is the latest, or was until I sat me down here to write about it. With changes as rapid as streaks of lightning, one just doesn't dare make a positive statement about the latest fad, now does one?

But to get back to our dots—isn't it odd how the same dots in different materials look so different and serve such dissimilar purposes? For instance, for sports wear, wide meshed wool stockings are made in dark colors, with a tiny, furry dot at the intersection of the meshes in a lighter color. They're just the smartest things—can't you imagine a brown mesh pair with beige dots with your brown ensemble, or green and chartreuse with your kiltie green golf costume? The cotton lisle mesh hose are for business, street and daytime wear, of moderate sized mesh, with flat, self-colored dots at every intersection, or spaced more widely. And then, for evening, the stockings are of the filmiest wide silk mesh, and the dots in this case are paillettes! And it's a fine and delicate art that knows how to sew on these paillettes so that they'll stay put and be so flat that they won't interfere or catch in the other stocking, isn't it? And a fairy-lovely result it is, too.

• • • •

"Devil's Mourning" they used to call the combination of brightest red and black, which is so popular again these early winter days! And it was never more delightfully expressed than in the little informal evening frock I sketch today, of delicate black lace, open meshed to show the slip beneath of orange-red satin. Of course, the shoulders are covered, and the bodice and hip yoke are tightly shirred to mold the figure. The little girdle is of black velvet and the flower is bright red satin, with black leaves!

• • • •

Colored lace over a self-colored slip isn't chick any more—but such a vivid contrast as the one above is something else again!

• • • •

And the latest way that aigrettes take to prove their swank is to match a hat ornament with a collar, as I have illustrated above.

• • • •

How to improve your job! That's what Dare tells you in this week's illustrated leaflet, and furthermore, promises you absolutely that if you follow her suggestions, you will be successful in your business. And no woman or girl who is working wouldn't like to make more money for the same amount of work, now would she? Or should I say wouldn't she—well, have it your way just so long as you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet of Helpful Hints to Business Women!

Au revoir.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

DASHING THE CUP OF PROMISE.

WHEN a player holds King, Queen, Ten of trumps over the Declarer, and the contract has reached six, he can not be charged with undue optimism if he feels confident of his ability to defeat the contract, nor is he unduly reckless if he decides that his opponents shall play it at the doubled value. However, the possession of this trump combination, even if held to the left of the Ace, does not always guarantee 2 trump tricks, as Mr. Isak Nielsen, editor of the Nordisk Bridge Magazine, of Oslo, Norway, recently proved. Mr. Nielsen held the South hand and was playing the Approach-Forcing System.

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
2♠	Pass	3♡	Pass
4♣	Pass	6♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Redbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

North and South's bidding has not been unduly optimistic. South holds 8 honor tricks and a strong playing hand with a 5-4-3-1 distribution North holds five trumps and a solid heart suit with honors in diamonds. The only marvel is that a contract of seven was not reached, but this is explained by the weakness of the trump suit.

When the Dummy was exposed after West had opened the only unbid suit, diamonds, it was apparent to South that there was only one possible combination that would justify West in feeling that he could defeat the contract. Every face card with the exception of the Knave of clubs and the King and Queen of Spades was visible to the Declarer in his own and the Dummy Hand. It therefore followed that West must hold the three outstanding trumps. To make the contract it was essential to reduce both the closed and Dummy Hands to three trumps and to throw West in on the eleventh trick with one of his high honors in trumps and thus compel him to lead to the Knave in the Dummy and the Ace in the closed hand. To do this it was necessary to shorten South's trumps by ruffing good hearts and shorten the Dummy twice in trumps by ruffing clubs. This process was accomplished, the tenth trick being taken in the closed hand. South now led the eight of spades and West's situation was hopeless. He won the trick, but was then compelled to lead as South had planned, from his minor tenace in the trump suit, thus permitting Mr. Nielsen to make his redoubled contract by accurate play.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: What is the Rule of Eight?

Answer: The proportion of tricks won by honors to those won by small cards is about as 8:5.

GARDENS

WATERING HOUSE PLANTS.

IF there only were some general rule I could give you that would apply to all house plants, how easy it would be. But this is impossible. There are three methods of watering a group of plants in the house that most people follow. Two of these methods are wrong and one is right.

Some people employ the little-and-often plan. They water their plants whenever they happen to think about it, giving each plant only enough to moisten the surface of the soil. The consequence of this method is that the roots which occupy the lower portion of the pot are sure to suffer and the entire plant takes on a sickly appearance. This plan is always a failure, because it does not adequately supply the needs of the plant.

Directly opposed to this plan is the one used by the overanxious owner, who always overwaters the plants, giving them all the moisture the soil will absorb today and tomorrow giving exactly the same amount, the result being that the soil is always saturated and in a state of mud. Of course, in the case of aquatic plants this is quite all right, but few house plants come under the head of aquatics. So, generally, this method leads only to disease. The stagnant water causes the soil to become sour, which, in turn, causes the roots to start to decay. This decay goes on because the conditions which started it continue and the plant soon dies.

The following rule is the only right one: When you water a plant, do it thoroughly. Apply enough to reach all portions of the soil in the pot. Then wait until the surface of the soil appears to be dry before you apply more.

This rule, like all other good rules, has its exceptions, but in a general way it is a rule that all amateurs would do well to follow. As long as the surface soil looks damp you may be assured that there is all the moisture in the soil below that is needed.

THE NEW Jelleff's

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:20 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

"Unsettled" is the forecast for November 13. There will be a tendency to engage in useless argument, and much may be lost in both a social and business way through hasty words or actions. If you can possibly help it, do not embark on anything of moment.

The children born on this November 13 will have active, restless and adventurous natures. They will have much physical and mental endurance, as long as their interest is maintained, but they will often give up good things through boredom. They will be able to create their own opportunities.

Those born on November 13 will have jealous and suspicious natures, but there is nothing in life they can not achieve if they discipline themselves. You do not realize that it is better to be let down by one man in a hundred than to be handicapped all through life by mistrusting every one in case you should be let down. You are restless and unsettled, and if possible will frequently change your place of residence. No work so appeals to you that you desire to make a lifelong study or practice of it. Through variety, you may find the spice of life, but it is not one of the substantial or sustaining forces of existing.

You seek the good things of life, and you should guard against casual living. You allow yourself to be easily swayed by circumstances, and you are quickly affected by the moods of others. You have a very good memory, which is of inestimable value to you in most phases of life. Unfortunately, however, you can not forget the things which, for the sake of contentment of mind, you should discard from your brain. You are a good organizer, and your plans are well thought out, but you need to let others execute your ideas. You are a better thinker than doer.

Your greatest happiness is to be found within the home, if your jealous tendencies will permit you to find it. You adore children and they, in turn, are very fond of you.

Successful people born November 13:

Joseph Hooker ("Fighting Joe"), soldier.
Edwin Booth, tragedian.
James Cannon, jr., bishop.
George W. Chadwick, composer.
John Drew, jr., actor.
Louis Brandeis, jurist.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

SCHOOL CHILDREN AND TUBERCULOSIS.

THE next step in the elimination of tuberculosis will consist in finding the school children that have been infected by it, and giving them special attention. In several places school children are tested with tuberculin as they enter school, as a means of discovering which are tuberculous, just as vaccination-marks are inspected, Schick tests made and, sometimes, Dick tests.

Tuberculin testing makes the fifth in the group. In addition, the parents are asked to supply information as to whether their children have had measles, whooping cough and other diseases of that group, and, if so, when. They are asked whether they have been vaccinated against smallpox, diphtheria and typhoid. There is more than one method of making a tuberculin test and the reaction, if tuberculosis is present, is trifling.

Until recently a large proportion of people 7 years of age and over had been infected with tuberculosis at some time in their lives and, therefore, would be expected to give a tuberculin reaction. In these circumstances the promiscuous use of the tuberculin test was of no practical value. At the present time the proportion of children that react to the tuberculin test is small enough to make testing, as a means of selection, of practical value.

It is feasible to give especial attention to those found by the test to be in need of it. The nature of the special attention to be given is not finally decided.

In a recent address given in England, Dr. Calmette, of Paris, reported that more than 1,000,000 children had been vaccinated against consumption and the results showed the method to be worth while. He was advising the British authorities to use the method with the children of their country. In this country the method has had a moderately extensive trial in New York City and in Montreal.

But it is used almost altogether with babies. In Norway, the vaccination of nurses entering service in tuberculosis hospitals has been given a limited trial. I know of no one who advocates vaccination of school children as a part of the special care given those regarded as in particular danger from consumption.

The plan, in its present stage of development, calls for teaching in fresh air schoolrooms or well-ventilated rooms, long rest periods, or even a midday rest period. Special feeding, special care of the children showing signs of fatigue, and those who are underweight or pale, or who run afternoon temperatures. More important than the special care in the school is the special care in the home which the parents are advised to give. This includes forbidding the movies, overwork, excessive play, overexcitement. It includes a regimen that calls for early bed hours, long sleep periods, good food and good air.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA.

T. A. W. writes:

1. Is there such a disease as catarrh of the stomach? If so, what are the symptoms?

2. I have had a bad cough for almost 18 months and I raise a lot of mucus continually. Our local doctor says I have chronic bronchitis, and another doctor says it is bronchial asthma. I believe I raise a pint of mucus every 24 hours. I get very sore across my stomach at times, which makes me think that the trouble is located there. I have had X-rays and mucus tested several times for tuberculosis, but I am free from that.

REPLY.

1. It is a long time since we have heard of "catarrh of the stomach." It is a loose and meaningless term, once used extensively. Now it is taking its place with the dodo and other extinguished birds.

2. My guess is that your physicians are right—both of them. You have a chronic bronchitis. On this bronchial asthma has been engrafted. There is a pretty good chance that you have a bronchiectasis—a third story in this house. The stomach soreness is a result of the effort "to raise."

FILM STAR PLEDGES TRADE'S AID TO IDLE

(Associated Press.)

A diminutive motion picture actress, Mary Pickford, pledged to President Hoover across the White House luncheon table yesterday the cooperation of the motion picture industry in his unemployment relief plans.

It was not all a business luncheon, however. For Miss Pickford spoke to the President and Mrs. Hoover, too, of her own plans for a new picture. She disclosed also that her equally famous husband, Douglas Fairbanks, is planning a trip across Siberia and into China.

As part of her visit, the screen star presented to Mr. Hoover and the First Lady tickets Nos. 1 and 2 of the 10,000,000 to be printed for National Motion Picture week.

Agrees With Hoover Policy.

During it, she said, motion picture theaters throughout the country will give benefit performances, the proceeds of which will be turned over to the relief agencies in the communities where the performances are given.

Miss Pickford explained her own philosophy as consonant with that of the President, that of local aid to the needy.

"All Americans shared in prosperity when it was here and we must all share in restoring it and in caring for our neighbors while their jobs come back," she said.

Just before Miss Pickford went into luncheon yesterday, she removed her close-fitting black silk turban, below which her blonde curls showed, and with it the tiny black lace veil that fell just below the level of her eyes. She wore a dark blue dress, decorated at the waist with beads, and a loose-fitting jacket of dark color.

Escorted by Akerson.

Douglas Fairbanks, who was to have attended the White House luncheon, was detained in New York by work on his new picture. Miss Pickford said he planned to join her last evening here to attend a local theater.

In Fairbank's absence, George Akerson, one of the President's former secretaries, now connected with the motion picture industry, accompanied her to lunch.

Miss Pickford said she assured Mr Hoover that 20,000 motion picture theaters, as well as producers and distributors, were "behind the Gifford and Young committees."

Fairbanks to Drop Antics; Wife to Return to Stage

Although he vaulted a piano and stood on his hands with the alacrity of a mere youth, Fairbanks said today he was beginning to feel old and did not think he ever would make a big motion picture again.

"It's travelogues for me from now on," he chuckled. "They give me more time for my golf. I just finished one in the Far East. We took a lot of geography and put a little golf in it and then added a flock of laughs and there you are."

As for "America's Sweetheart," her big bronzed husband said he doubted if she, either, would ever do "any more of that dramatic picture stuff." She may go back to the stage soon, "probably opening in Los Angeles and then coming East."

Policeman Jails Man Who Felled Him Twice

Although he was knocked down twice by his prospective prisoner, Private George Cooper, of the First Precinct, who has been on the force only about six months, had the last word in the struggle and booked Charles W. Larkin, 23 years old, with no fixed place of abode, on charges of drunk and disorderly last night.

Cooper was called to stop a fight at Fourth street and Missouri avenue northwest and found Larkin in a fight with some colored men, he said. He arrested the man, but at the patrol box, Larkin is said to have turned on him and to have felled him. Larkin attempted to escape, but Cooper overhauled him, and after the process was repeated again, finally got Larkin to the station. The man is said to have beaten up a cellmate later in the night.

Philadelphia Cats Are Left Mansion

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—More than a dozen cats, many of them former strays who were rescued from the alleys, will have a brownstone house in North Philadelphia as their exclusive and permanent home.

Miss Emma D. Miller, of New York, only surviving relative of Mrs. Annie Miller, wealthy recluse who died yesterday after living for years alone with the cats, made known plans today to maintain her mother's mansion for the sole purpose of making the felines comfortable in their old age.

"I do not expect to live here," Miss Miller said, "our houseman, who has for long taken care of the cats, will remain on duty and run the house for them. I have arranged for a woman from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to drop in at intervals and make sure the cats and the house are kept in good condition."

Wish Wynne, Actress, Dies.

London, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Wish Wynne, who played in such old favorites as "East Lynne," "The Two Orphans," and "The Ticket-of-Leave Man," died today in a hospital after a brief illness. She toured the United States 15 years ago.

Temple of Music Urged for Capital

District Federation Head Speaks Before Kiwanis Club Meeting.

Erection of a "temple of music" in the National Capital was proposed yesterday by Mrs. Gertrude Lyons, president of the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs, in an address before the Kiwanis Club, meeting at the Washington Hotel.

Mrs. Lyons said "some public spirited citizen" should finance the project. Ina Marie Holtzscheiter, lyric soprano, and Edwin C. Steffe, baritone, winners of the District radio audition contest, were guests of the club. They will participate in the Eastern District audition contest in New York, November 23.

The proposal to erect a memorial beacon at Hains Point as a tribute to Thomas A. Edison, was indorsed in a resolution adopted. The club is holding a golf tournament this afternoon at the Columbia Country Club. Tonight an interclub meeting of Kiwanis groups in this section will be held in Manassas, Va.

Veterans Seeking Cast-Off Clothing

Drive to Aid Unemployed Former Service Men Is Under Way.

A drive for old and cast-off clothing to be issued to unemployed former service men in need of protection against winter weather is being conducted here by the combined forces of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans.

Many veterans are here seeking adjustment of their claims against the Government and a number of these are in need of clothing, it is said. Warm clothing for children and women as well as men also is solicited.

gina branch of the party. During all that time he was known as "Comrade E. W. Esselwain," one of the outstanding Communists of the country.

At one time he was arrested as a demonstrator in Toronto.

For a day and a half, attired in the red coat of the mounted—a coat which he had not worn for 10 years—he told in convincing words of his adventures among the Communists.

But while his oral evidence was a big factor in the conviction of the men, documentary evidence seized in a series of raids last August, also played a major part.

This evidence, the jury found, proved the party had been organized in Canada through money sent from Moscow; that it had as its object the overthrow of the government and existing social systems by force and violence, and that the party planned, "at the right moment, to initiate the example of their bolshevist masters, by forcibly seizing power in Canada and by cutting down, with bayonet and rifle, all who oppose them."

Blick Is Renamed Civic Body Head

Columbia Road Business Men's Association Hears Arthur C. Smith.

Samuel S. Blick was unanimously nominated for his second term as president of the Eighteenth street and Columbia Road Business Men's Association at a meeting of the association last night at 2463 Eighteenth street.

Other nominations were William N. Johnson, Lionel Chaplin, Rudolph N. Miller and Cyril Smith for first vice president; Mrs. L. E. Collier and Mrs. Diana Sandheimer for second vice president and Lionel Chaplin and Cyril Smith for secretary-treasurer.

Arthur Clarendon Smith, president of the Central Business Men's Association and temporary president of the Federation of Business Men's Association, gave an address. Frank Lazarus and Lionel Chaplin were appointed delegates. The association heard a report submitted by Cyril Smith and Stanley F. Holland on cost estimates of a proposed Christmas tree.

Rev. J. L. Pinn Forms New Baptist Church

The Rev. James L. Pinn, acting director of extension work and correspondence study of the School of Religion of Harvard University, who has been in litigation with his congregation at the First Baptist Church, in Georgetown, for several months, announced last night the formal organization of the Wood Will Baptist Church, which will worship in its new home, on U street near Sixteenth street northwest. Dr. Pinn was chosen pastor, and the following officers were elected:

Fire From Flue Burns House as Three Escape

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Nov. 12.—Fire caused by a defective kitchen flue early this morning destroyed the large frame dwelling owned and occupied by William Boley and family at Silcott Springs, 2 miles from here.

Boley's daughter, sleeping in the room over the kitchen, detected the smoke and aroused other members of the family, who barely escaped with their lives. All of the housefurnishings and clothing were burned. The house contained 21 rooms and was formerly used as a boarding house. Loss was estimated at $8,000, partly covered by insurance.

Thirteen Club to Entertain.

First Locomotive Still Able To Run on 100th Birthday

John Bull' observed his one hundredth anniversary today and discovered to his amazement that he has, in the last century, been in turn a rare curiosity and a commonplace and has become once more a curiosity.

For all his age, old "John," America's first steam passenger locomotive, proved yesterday in his niche in the Smithsonian Institution that there's life in the old "iron horse" yet.

Responding to a diet of compressed air to replace the wood which provided fuel when "John Bull' first roared along at 30 miles an hour on November 12, 1831, at Bordentown, N. J., the ancient engine snorted and rolled along its short length of track before an admiring and curious throng who cheered just as the amazed spectators had cheered 100 years ago.

The old locomotive will be operated at half-hour intervals daily throughout the rest of this year.

SUSPECT CONFESSES SHOOTING OF AGENT

Ford Says Maryland Man Showed Gun Hidden Near Scene of Raid.

Aubrey Harding has confessed that he fired the shot which critically injured Harry D. McMunn, a revenue agent, who was leading a raid on a still near Rosaryville, Md., early yesterday morning, according to Robert E. Ford, deputy prohibition administrator.

Harding took the agents to a straw stack, where he hid the gun after he had made his confession in the Upper Marlboro Jail. He will be charged with assault with intent to kill and the manufacture of whisky, Mr. Ford said. A murder charge will be placed against him if McMunn dies.

Harding was arrested late yesterday morning, after being implicated by his brother, Eustace Harding, who will be released. Eustace Harding, Marshall Green, and Nelson Patton were arrested shortly after the shooting and taken to the jail. Aubrey Harding and Green were actually at the still, Mr. Ford said, and charges of manufacture of liquor also will be placed against Green. Both the others will be released.

All those held gave their address as Spotsylvania, Va. McMunn, who is married and has two children, lives at Leonardtown, Md. He has been a revenue agent for about a year. At the hospital his condition was said to be unchanged.

According to the story gathered by Mr. Ford, McMunn was leading three other agents who went to the still about four miles south of Marlboro. They had visited it earlier in the day and planned to wait in the vicinity until the operators returned to it.

Arriving at the still, however, they found two men already at work. McMunn placed the other agents around the place. He had finished this when the operators started to leave. McMunn stood up and blew his whistle, at the same time turning his flashlight on the still. One of the two men then grabbed a shotgun and fired once in the direction of the light. McMunn's right eye was pierced, his head badly injured, and several shot struck him in the chest.

The other agents brought him to Providence Hospital, in Washington, but returned to Rosaryville later and arrested the three men in a house where they were staying.

The agents said they did not return the fire and that the shotgun was only fired once. An empty shell was found in it when Harding led the agents to its hiding place.

McMunn was appointed to the service on November 28, 1930. He worked from the Baltimore office of the prohibition bureau. He was born in Crofton, Pa., in 1892, and served in the Eleventh Cavalry from 1913 to 1915. Soon after the outbreak of the World War, he reenlisted and served for two years with the 103d Supply Regiment.

Meteor Fireworks Due Nov. 14 to 18

Leonids Will Light Skies With Little Danger to People.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The world's safest fireworks display, the Leonid meteors, are due after midnight of November 14 to 18. Calculations that a meteor may be expected to injure a person in a country the size of the United States only once in every 9,300 years were made recently by C. C. Wilie, of the University of Iowa.

But the Leonids are credited with a far higher safety margin. The 9,300 years theory is based on all the meteors, estimated at many millions daily, mostly grains of dust not visible. In more than 1,000 years, during which the Leonids have been startling mankind about three times a century with veritable rains of fire, there is no record of any person having been hit.

Dr. Charles P. Olivier, director of the Flower Observatory of the University of Pennsylvania, requests reports on fireball observations, giving location, direction, duration, color, apparent size, apparent brightness, duration of trail, irregularities of motion and changes of brightness.

18 Bridge Teams Start Cup Battle

Tournament in New York May Bring On Clash of Experts.

New York, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Eighteen teams, made up of the best of America's contract bridge artists, were struggling over the pasteboards at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel tonight, in the opening round of the annual tournament for the Vanderbilt Cup.

The tournament has attracted especial interest because it may result in the first clash of the feuding experts, Ely Culbertson and Sidney S. Lenz, whose argument over bidding systems resulted in a $1,000 bet and arrangement for a 150-rubber pair match in December. Culbertson is chief exponent of the approach-forcing system, while Lenz is champion of the new official system, though neither of these methods is being used in the present play.

A majority of entrants for the Vanderbilt Cup rejected both the approach-forcing system and the official system in favor of the more dangerous but more precise one-over-one system.

Virginia Girl Held In Man's Shooting

Railway Employe Is in Roanoke Hospital, With Slug in His Lung.

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Emmett Bryant, 35, an employe of the Norfolk & Western Railway, is in a hospital here suffering from a bullet wound in the lung, said to have been inflicted in Page County late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning. Physicians said Bryant had developed pneumonia from the wound.

Meanwhile Miss Nora Weakly, 23, was being held in the jail at Luray pending an investigation of the shooting. She was quoted by officers as saying Bryant shot himself accidentally.

The shooting occurred at Shenandoah City, about 18 miles south of Luray.

SMOKE AND FOG TIE UP VIRGINIA TRAVEL

Land, Sea and Air Traffic at Tidewater Halted; Two Ships Grounded.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A heavy pall of smoke from forest fires, combining with fog, settled over Tidewater Virginia today and worked havoc with transportation on land, on sea, and in the air. Two vessels were known to have gone ashore, and the scouting force of the United States fleet, engaged in target practice off the Virginia Capes, was forced to suspend activities because of low visibility caused by the blanket of smoke and fog.

Airplane passenger service was virtually suspended in and out of Norfolk, because the smoke was so dense. Only one passenger plane was in service.

A plane of the Eastern Air Transport arrived from Richmond and was unable to land on its own field, the Norfolk Airport. Instead, it landed at East Camp, a naval auxiliary flying field. On the return trip to Richmond, Pilot E. W. Chandler would not take passengers. The Ludington Line, between Washington and Norfolk, was in operation during the day.

Bus Lines Delayed.

Bus lines in and out of the city were running far behind schedule because of the density of the smoke and fog.

The auxiliary pilot boat Virginia, of the Virginia Pilot Association, grounded off Cape Henry in the early morning fog, and a wireless message received at the naval operating base from the scouting force stated that the gunnery practice was abandoned because of smoke. At Cape Henry the Government observer reported that passing ships could not be distinguished because of the smoke and a fog which had prevailed off that point since Wednesday night.

The Sydfold, from Charlottetown, Prince Edward Islands, with 40,000 barrels of potatoes for discharge here, was attempting to enter her dock when she grounded. She is in no danger, and is expected to be floated tomorrow morning.

The fog and smoke caused considerable delay in the movement of ships bound to sea, and a number were at anchor in Hampton Roads awaiting clear weather.

Forest Fires Blamed.

Forest fires sweeping through the borderland between Virginia and North Carolina, combining their forces with fires in the swampy woodlands in parts of tidewater, have filled the air with a great pall of smoke and a deficiency in rainfall has added fuel to the flames.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The Southeast hoped for rain to quench forest fires, and wind to dispel a veil of smoke that extended from the sea coast to the Mississippi River today, but there was little promise that either would be forthcoming immediately.

A slight improvement was noted by air lines, which resumed passenger carrying over routes which poor visibility had limited to light planes carrying only the mail yesterday.

The aerological weather bureau at Candler Field here said, however, that reports indicated four miles was the best visibility anywhere in the Southeast, ranging downward to a quarter of a mile over portions of the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. Most of Tennessee was little better off, with visibility ranging from three-quarters of a mile to a mile. The four-mile visibility was in Mississippi.

Kindergarten to Present Play.

A play, the "Three Pigs," will be presented by the John Quincy Adams School kindergarten at the school this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The production will feature songs and poems composed by the children, and will present their own band in costumes they made themselves. It will be staged under the supervision of Mrs. Vesta Lynn, kindergarten director.

CANADA WILL OFFER BIG ISSUE OF BONDS

Premier Announces Plan for National Flotation of Service Loan.

Ottawa, Ontario, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett announced tonight the Dominion of Canada, will shortly make a offering of bonds to the Canadian public, probably on November 23.

"The loan will be called 'Dominion of Canada service loan,'" the premier stated. "It will be nationwide."

The campaign for its flotation, he added, is being organized by a general management committee, of which Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal, is chairman.

The department of finance, the premier said, placed large orders with the king's printer for prospectus and application forms, 1,500,000 of the former to be printed at once.

"The treasury," Mr. Bennett said, "is closely watching the movements of security prices, for, while this issue is to be a domestic one, the day-to-day values of bonds in Canada are influenced by the values placed on Dominion of Canada securities in New York.

"Dominion of Canada bonds in the latter market have been improving steadily in the last week, the 4 per cent issue which matures in 1960, for example, now being quoted at $3 higher than it was ten days ago."

This was the first announcement of the impending loan from official sources although it has been forecast for some time.

It has been rumored that the loan would be for $125,000,000 bearing interest at 5 per cent, but indications tonight were that the exact amount to be asked for had not yet been definitely decided upon, and $150,000,000 may be nearer the mark.

The exact amount the bonds will return to the investors has not yet been finally fixed. A statement on these two points will probably be forthcoming in a few days.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—It was reported in financial circles tonight that the dominion loan announced today by Premier R. S. Bennett would probably be for approximately $100,000,000.

Gypsy Exonerated In Bride Kidnaping

Federal Officers Uphold Marriage When Told He Bought Wife.

The authorities dismissed kidnaping charges brought against Marks by Frank Ranco, father of the bride, who accused the bridegroom of snatching his daughter off a Brooklyn street and forcing her into unwelcome marriage. Officers ignored Ranco's abduction charge, after Marks explained he previously paid Ranco $2,250 to marry the girl.

"All gypsy men buy their brides," Marks said, "and I paid Ranco for mine." Marks said his father-in-law merely wanted to obtain possession of his daughter so he could sell her again, alleging Ranco tried the same thing on a previous occasion.

Furrier Identifies Flat of Kidnapers

Man Is Held Charged as Renter Where Berg Was Detained.

St. Louis, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Efforts of police to round up the kidnapers of Alexander Berg, wealthy fur dealer, freed at midnight Tuesday, after 102 hours of confinement, when his abductors were led to believe they would get $50,000 ransom, continued tonight. The kidnapers' flat, in which Berg was held captive, was located today, and one of the suspects under arrest was identified as the renter of it.

The millionaire furrier identified the flat, located on Easton avenue, across from Sherman Park, in northwest St. Louis, by furniture and plumbing fixtures. Michael Kramer, second-hand furniture dealer on the first floor, related how he rented it two weeks ago to a man who gave the name "Jim Owens."

This man was identified by Kramer as one of the dozen or more suspects held in connection with the case, but police refused to disclose which one of the persons held it was.

EDISON'S INVENTION OF LAMP IS DENIED

Lifelong Friend Clarifies Part Wizard Played in Evolving Elective Light.

Thomas A. Edison did not invent the electric light, nor is the present incandescent globe an Edison invention, Melville Church, prominent patent attorney and lifelong friend of Edison, told the St. Thomas Chapter, Brotherhood of St. Andrew at its fifth annual banquet in the parish hall of St. Thomas' Church last night.

Mr. Church declared that although Edison properly is referred to as having been the "father of electric illumination," his part in development of the incandescent light consisted solely in experimenting to discover the first practical filament after earlier attempts of other inventors had been unsuccessful in devising a filament that would burn long enough to be of commercial value. The present light, he said, is the result of subsequent experimentation by other inventors.

Reviewing his friendship with the famous inventor since he first saw Edison alighting from a hack at the Patent Office with his first model of the phonograph under his arm, Mr. Church recalled many of Edison's characteristics and eccentricities, particularly his unusual concentration in ridding his mind of all extraneous topics not connected with whatever he happened to be working on at the moment.

Although Edison frequently has been called an agnostic, Mr. Church declared the inventor was of religious inclination and a firm believer in some sort of existence after death.

Gerald C. Gross, engineer of the Federal Radio Commission and chief of the international radio relations section, outlined the development of television and demonstrated the practical application of the new science.

Declaring that television now is entirely in an experimental stage and that its development to a practical extent comparable with radio "may take one year or it may take ten," Mr. Gross explained that one of the principal problems now facing the television experimenter is the limited band in which wave-length assignments may be made. He added that considerable experimentation is under way in the superfrequency field, however, and may solve this difficulty.

Capitol View Citizens May Get Phone Change

F. J. Little, service manager for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore, talked on the possibility of retiring the present magneto service of the Kensington exchange and substituting common battery service, at a meeting of the Capitol View Citizens Association held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Malcolm.

Mr. Little talked at length on the telephone situation in the Kensington exchange area, of which Capitol View is a part. The meeting was presided over by George C. Shinn, president. The December meeting of the association is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Wolfe.

Steel Rationing Is Before Hoover

American Institute Plans to Distribute Tonnage of Construction.

(Associated Press.)

A plan for "rationing the business" of the structural steel industry, to offset some disadvantages of unrestrained competition was placed before President Hoover yesterday by W. M. Wood, a director of the American Institute of Steel Construction.

His organization proposes a statistical organization to measure the capacities of firms engaged in the structural steel business.

"Each month a report on tonnage contracted will be issued," he said on leaving the White House. "Every plant taking its normal share of business for the month will pay normal dues to the American Institute of Steel Construction of perhaps $0.25 per ton sold. "If any plant takes more than its rated share of the existing business, it will pay increased dues."

Education Pleas Made Over Radio

Public Is Urged to Display Increased Interest in Nation's Schools.

An appeal to an "informed public" to see that education "comes out of this crisis in new and better clothes," was made last night by W. W. Crabtree, secretary of the National Education Association, in an American Education Week program over the National Broadcasting System.

"Thousands of schools failed to open in September," he said. "Many of them would have found some way of going ahead had the public been duly informed. Thousands of other schools have shortened the year, increased the teacher load and decreased the pay of teachers. An informed public would not have allowed the efficiency of the schools to be destroyed in any such way."

Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, speaking on the same program, called on radio listeners to visit their schools at least once before American Education Week opens Sunday.

Doran Acts to Remove 'Kick' From All Candies

(United Press.)

There won't be any more alcoholic kick in candy, the Government ruled yesterday.

Not that Mr. Volstead's law had anything to do with it. It was the pure food and drugs act that was brought into use to keep confectionery below the one-half of 1 per cent limit.

Industrial Alcohol Commissioner J. M. Doran ruled that after 1931 no permits to withdraw alcoholic beverages for use in candy manufacture will be granted or renewed.

PARTY EULOGIZES PIONEER FEMINIST

Mrs. Adelaide Johnson Pays Honor to Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

Tribute to Elizabeth Cady Stanton, pioneer feminist, was paid on the anniversary of her birth yesterday by the National Woman's Party before the portrait bust of Mrs. Stanton in the crypt of the Capitol.

Mrs. Adelaide Johnson, sculptress of the monument to the suffrage pioneers of which the bust is a part, gave a talk on Mrs. Stanton's life and her importance in universalizing the demand for equal rights.

A wreath was placed before the monument by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, national chairman of the party.

Mrs. Wiley recalled an incident in Mrs. Stanton's life when, as a little girl, she entered the library of her father, Judge Daniel Cady, of Johnstown, N. Y., with a pair of scissors to cut from the law books "the cruel law which made women cry," explaining that she had seen many women cry when her father told them that their injustices could not be corrected because of some law or other on the statute books.

Miss Grace Osgood is chairman of the party's committee in charge of the monument. She was assisted in yesterday's ceremonies by Mrs. Isaac Jordan, of West Virginia; Mrs. Rose B. Stetson, of Washington, and Mrs. Ida Kebler, of Michigan.

Rail Officials Talk Pay Cut to Labor

Meeting With Union Heads Held in New York to Get Views.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Railway officials of the large Eastern lines, meeting tonight privately with heads of the principal rail unions, were hopeful that voluntary wage reductions might be put into effect until such time as the roads get back on their feet financially, and it is found practicable to return to the present scale.

The meeting of the employers with the labor men was purely informal. No statement was given out and no one would discuss the details of the conference. It is understood, however, that it had to do generally with the matter of wages and working conditions.

The carrier officials, it was said, especially wanted to get the viewpoint of the men in order that it could be presented at a session of the employers tomorrow, which will discuss and decide whether the proposals of the Railway Labor Executives Association for a joint conference on employment would be accepted.

Ile De France Battered By Four Fierce Storms

New York, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Carrying a cargo of celebrities, the palatial French liner Ile de France docked 26 hours late today, bearing the scars of the worst battering from the seas she has ever received.

The vessel labored through four storms, which swept away sections of her forward deck rail, damaged two iron doors in the steerage quarters and splashed some 600 tons of water on her decks. One of the passengers was Peggy Joyce, who admitted that, for one of the few times in her life, she had been seasick.

Farmers' Advisory Group to Meet.

The farmers' advisory committee of Fairfax County will meet tomorrow evening in the county agent's exhibit rooms in the Old Clerk's Office Building, at Fairfax, Va. Plans for assisting County Agent H. B. Darr in his work during the next year will be discussed as well as information prepared for use of the local farmers in planting crops for the next season. Marketing conditions will also be analyzed.

Prepares for License Rush.

Because of the expected rush of applicants for hunting licenses in preparation for the opening of the hunting season Monday, the office of Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., will remain open until 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The clerk's office ordinarily closes at noon.

U. S. AND STATE AID SEEN FOR JOBLESS

Catholic Bishops, in Session Here, Call on Rich to Give Generously.

Federal and State appropriations in some form will be necessary to cope with the unemployment problem, in the opinion of the Catholic bishops, assembled in annual meeting at Catholic University yesterday.

At the same time the bishops called on the rich to contribute to the alleviation of suffering, and urged the reading and general application of the Pope's encyclical on the reconstruction of the social order.

"Since we are all bound together as brothers in Christ, it is our duty to insist that the wealthy are obliged in conscience to contribute for the relief of those who suffer, and the more so because the system under which they suffer has yielded wealth to others," their statement read.

Should Improve System.

"While cooperating in these private efforts, we are convinced, because of the vastness of the number suffering, that Federal and State appropriations for relief in some form will become necessary.

"Our economic system should be so improved that the laboring man, suddenly thrown out of employment, would not be deprived of sustenance during a period of severe business depression."

Besides urging adherence of the Pope's encyclical "to every-day business, occupational and social life," the bishops quoted him as follows in connection with the armament controversy:

"The unbridled race for armament is on the one hand the effect of the rivalry among nations and on the other the cause of the withdrawal of enormous sums from the public wealth, and hence not the smallest of contributors to the current extraordinary crisis."

Avarice Causes Disorganization.

Disorganization of the processes of production and distribution has been brought about by the "avarice" in human nature, the bishops declared.

To avoid "unjust and inequitable wage reductions," they asked for joint conferences of employers and their associations and labor and their unions, "supplemented and assisted by Government."

"Only on these lines will the problem of how best to form a system of unemployment insurance, reserves and old-age pensions be successfully worked out," their statement read.

James C. Christopher Critically Ill in Hospital

James C. Christopher, better known as "Uncle Jimmy" to his many friends and associates, last night was reported to be critically ill at Georgetown Hospital. Mr. Christopher is deputy clerk to the Montgomery County commissioners for the Western Suburban District. Little hope is held for its recovery. His disease has been diagnosed as spinal meningitis.

He had gone to his home at 6407 Delaware avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., Tuesday night with what was thought to be a slight attack of the grippe. Late Wednesday night he became unconscious and Dr. Benjamin C. Perry was called. The doctor ordered him sent to the hospital.

Newmarket Wife Held in Shooting

Condition of Man Critical; Refused to Leave Her Home, She Says.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Mrs. L. E. Walton, wife of a New Market physician, was in the Shenandoah County jail tonight charged with shooting Frank Strickler, 29, also of New Market.

Mrs. Walton, the mother of four children, surrendered to police, asserting that she shot Strickler when he refused to leave the Walton home as ordered and because he used abusive language. The woman said her husband and Strickler had been drinking.

Strickler was in a Harrisonburg hospital tonight. Attaches said his condition was critical. He was suffering from a bullet wound in his stomach.

ALEXANDRIA FLIERS SEEK FIELD CHARTER

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The Beacon Flying Club, with offices in Alexandria, Va., has applied to the Virginia corporation commission for a charter to operate a flying field in Fairfax County. The stock of the company is listed at $25,000.

According to the petition, on which a hearing will be held December 1 in Richmond, the purpose of the club is to operate and maintain a flying club, landing field and airdromes and to instruct student fliers. The officers of the club are George E. Cornell, of Washington, president; James T. Young, of Baltimore, vice president; Randolph H. Clement, of Washington, secretary-treasurer. The officers and Henry Seitz, of Hyattsville, Md., constitute the board of directors.

Te proposed flying field of the club is located on the Washington-Richmond highway, at Groveton, about 3 miles south of Alexandria. It contains approximately 45 acres, and is a part of the estate of W. F. P. Reid, who is chairman of the Fairfax County board of supervisors. The club leased the field, which was formerly known as the Groveton Flying Field, from Mr. Reid on November 2.

The effect of the recent sanitation efforts of the Fairfax County health unit is shown in the report of Dr. A. L. Carson, director. During the past three months the county has ranked third in Virginia for sanitation improvements. The report shows that not one case of typhoid fever has been reported for the last month, and the other diseases are listed as, diphtheria, 6; scarlet fever, 7; whooping cough, 5; influenza, 57, and 1 case of tularemia, contracted from handling a diseased rabbit, but the patient is said to be recovering.

The dental clinics conducted among the public school children by Dr. W. R. Devin, of the State health department, are progressing, so that 95 per cent of the pupils are reported to be having the necessary corrections to their teeth made, and the percentage of five-point health pupils will show a great increase over last year. The pupils are examined under rules of the State department, and to receive a five-point certificate their eyes, ears, teeth, throats and weight must be according to the standards.

Bank Report Holds Better Trade Signs

Reserve Board Finds Gold Inflow Higher and Hoarding Checked.

(Associated Press.)

Two things which could be interpreted as encouraging business indications yesterday appeared in the columns of figures which make up the Federal Reserve Board's weekly report.

One was that money in circulation decreased $26,000,000. A $24,000,000 decrease two weeks ago was taken by the administration as a sign that hoarding had been checked.

The other was that the United States gained $35,000,000 gold in the week, bringing its total to $4,346,000,000. Gold had been leaving this country since the middle of September and the conjecture had been made in some quarters that an attack was being made on the dollar. This, however, found no credence in official circles.

The board reported that money in circulation was $1,040,000,000 more than a year ago, the total being $5,517,000,000.

25 Persons Indicted By Montgomery Jury

The Montgomery County grand jury, now in session at Rockville, Md., yesterday returned 25 indictments to the circuit court. The identity of those indicted was not made public last night to enable the sheriff to serve those who are not under bond.

The grand jury is expected to complete its work by Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Brentwood Man Held On Charge of Murder

James M. Bailey, who said he lived in Statesville, N. C., was arrested on a murder charge by Prince Georges County police yesterday just four hours after he is alleged to have struck another colored man over the head with a shovel in Montgomery County.

Bailey was arrested at his home in North Brentwood, by Sergt. H. G. Machen, Policeman Ralph Brown, and Constable Howard Slater, who said that he had packed all his clothes and was walking out of the door when they arrived. Bailey was turned over to Montgomery County policemen.

CITIZENS TO GREET NEW COUNTY BOARD

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arrangements have been completed for an informal reception to the members elect to the new County Board of Arlington County, which will replace the present three members of the county board of supervisors January 1, 1932, by the Livingstone Heights Civic League this evening in St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Representative Judge Howard W. Smith, of the Eighth Congressional District, is announced as the principal speaker.

In making this announcement, John A. Petty, president of the Livingstone Heights Civic League, stated that the function was designed not only to show the interest of the residents of Livingstone Heights in the new form of county government, but to extend to the members of the new county board cooperation in the administration of county affairs.

Meeting to Be Open.

The meeting will be open to the public and the committee hopes that all residents of the community will attend.

A "Durkhart" young people's conference will be held in Arlington County today. The entire affair will be under the direction of Dr. Roy A. Durkhart, associate director, International Young Peiple's Council.

The afternoon session will open with luncheon at 12:30 o'clock in the Arlington Presbyterian Church. Following the luncheon there will be a methods conference for young people's workers and teachers. At 2:30 o'clock there will be a meeting in the Clarendon Presbyterian Church.

Missing Boy Found.

Word was received yesterday by Edward G. Marsh, of Clarendon, that his son, Walter, was safe in Lumberton, N. C.

The Arlington County Building Code Commission, which has held no meetings during the past two months due to the fact that some of its members were candidates for county offices, will meet today in the office of County Engineer C. L. Kinnier.

Christmas Seal Groups Meet in Fairfax Today

A joint meeting of the Fairfax County Tuberculosis Christmas Seal committee and the chairmen of similar committees of the surrounding counties and Alexandria will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the boardroom of the courthouse in Fairfax.

The principal speaker will be Miss Sula Fleeman, field worker of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association. Mrs. Warren N. Watson, chairman of the county association, has announced that she has received the material for sale of the seals and is revising the mailing lists so that the campaign can be started immediately following Thanksgiving.

Women's Democratic Club Elects.

Mrs. J. Bond Smith has been elected president of the newly organized Takoma Park Women's Democratic Club. Other officers are Mrs. Lloyd W. Biddle, vice president, and Mrs. Frederick Pratt, secretary-treasurer. The club will meet on the second Tuesday of each month at the home of Mrs. Smith. It will be affiliated with the Democratic Women's Club of Montgomery County.

STREETS RENAMING PROJECT IS REVIVED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523

The plan of changing the names of of streets in some of the outlying sections and subdivisions of Alexandria will again be presented to the city council, it was reported yesterday.

Two years ago an attempt was made to change the time-honored names of several streets, particularly in the Rosemont section, and a committee was named by the council to suggest new names. This was done because several newly acquired suburbs contained streets of the same name, and this was confusing to the police and fire departments. The committee recommended that the streets be numbered and the names abandoned. This aroused a storm of protest from the residents of the streets bearing more or less euphonistic names. It was argued in written protests that the value of property on what had been known as Rosemont avenue, for instance, would be greatly reduced if that avenue should become known as Fourth or Fifth street. The council, with William Albert Smoot as mayor, gave due weight to the protests and shelved the entire project.

The movement has now been revived, with Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., and the police department supporting it. Before any changes in the names of the streets are made it will be necessary, it is undertsood, again to submit the matter to the city council.

The free chest clinic being conducted at the city health office in Alexandria, by the State health department, will be continued until noon today, and it has been announced that all persons seeking to undergo an examination are urged to present themselves early today. So far approximately 75 persons have been examined by Dr. Charles W. Scott, of the State health department in Richmond, assisted by Miss Sara Lee Coleman.

The new Mount Vernon boulevard, on which there was a traffic jam last Sunday, has been blocked to prevent a repetition of this trouble until it is completely finished. Barriers have been placed at the north end of Washington street, which forms a part of the boulevard, and at the south end of the Highway Bridge.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, last night delivered an address to the members of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons, the occasion being the annual entertainment by that lodge of Andrew Jackson Lodge, of Alexandria. The Master Mason's degree was conferred.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Visits Gadsby's Tavern

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson paid a visit to historic Gadsby's Tavern in Alexandria yesterday and gave a contribution to the American Legion to be used toward defraying the cost of furnishing the building as the legion's home.

The wife of the war-time President was accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Sands, of Middleburg, Va.

Expenditures for world travel are estimated by the American Automobile Association to total $7,500,000,000 annually.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WHY ELMER TWITCHELL THINKS THE COUNTRY ISN'T SUNK.

1. It's still as hard as ever to find a place to park an automobile in a business street.

2. One of the questions pretty generally asked by people renting a new house is, "Has it a one or two-car garage?"

3. A lot of golf is still being played for money, and even on public links you can propose 25 cents a hole and find plenty of takers.

4. Three meals a day are still regarded as orthodox even if we don't get them.

5. Dealers still put in an extra supply of chickens for Sunday dinner orders.

6. Nothing will bring a display of dollars faster in any shop or office than a wire on a code horse on any race track.

7. Suit pressers still shake customers' pants upside down for loose change and find the percentage good.

8. The proportion of starving landlords, real estate operators, sable coat salesmen, diamond importers, automobile dealers, skyscraper architects, outdoor swimming pool designers and bird bath builders is very low.

9. They still raise orchids.

10. A man with his bare toe showing through his shoe causes people to turn around and comment.

11. There are more visible cases of obesity in America than undernourishment.

12. Poker hasn't been abandoned as a national pastime, and contract bridge reached a new peak in August.

13. A great many newspapers found on park benches are opened to the pages carrying stock market charts.

14. Most of the lower priced new houses are being built with at least two bathrooms, tiled kitchens and a little room called a solarium.

15. People still manage to tip a Pullman porter just for handing them their hats and asking, "Want you shoes wiped, boss?"

16. Pay-roll bandits are still able to find places where they have pay rolls.

17. The average man is fairly well dressed, looks as if he had reasonable nourishment and still carries a gold watch.

18. Hockshops are not employing extra help or opening newer and larger branches.

19. Drug stores are still charging two or three times a fair price for a milk drink or ice cream soda, and getting it.

20. The old-fashioned man who walked to work to save money is still a memory.

WE HAD REACHED TITAN - BUT HOW WERE WE GOING TO LAND ON IT WITH A VAST SPINNING CYLINDER, TWENTY MILES LONG AND FIVE THICK, WHICH RELIED ON THE CENTRIFUGAL FORCE OF ITS SPIN TO FURNISH "GRAVITY" OR "WEIGHT" TO THE PEOPLE AND STRUCTURES WITHIN IT??
AS WE HEADED UPWARD AGAIN —
EVERYTHING INSIDE WOULD COLLAPSE!
EVERYBODY WOULD BE KILLED!
COULDN'T WE LAND IN THE SEA?
WE'RE SPINNING SO FAST WE'D ROLL ASHORE AND CRACK UP!!

PLA... ...ELCOME GRANDI TAKING FORM

Castle Will Meet Statesman on Arrival in New York; To Visit Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

The Capital has almost completed its preparations for a welcome to Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy.

Undersecretary Castle, of the State Department, will go to New York Monday and extend to the Italian statesman the official welcome of President Hoover and the American Government. The Chief Executive personally will welcome the minister when he calls at the White House.

That call will be the forerunner of informal personal talks the two will have on every phase of Italian-American relations and world problems generally. The talks will have as their center a program of five points which the minister is understood to have in mind.

Three of these will offer little difficulty for an immediate mutual basis of understanding. They concern disarmament, maintenance of the gold standard and world economic cooperation.

On the remaining two points, the President and Secretary Stimson will see a clearer understanding. They concern reparations and war debts and Versailles Treaty revision.

The President is against cancellation of war debts. The last matter is viewed as a problem in which adjustments must be made by European nations without interference or suggestions from the United States.

S. S. Conte Grande, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—This steamship, carrying Dino Grandi to a conference with President Hoover, has been turned into a floating branch of the Italian foreign ministry.

Signor Grandi has transferred his office from the Chigi Palace to a deck chair in midocean, but the radio brings him streams of messages from Rome, Washington, London, Paris and Berlin, and he maintains the same contact with Premier Mussolini as if he were talking across the premier's desk.

Much of his time, of course, is given to consideration of the matters he will discuss with the President, but he also is abreast of developments in Manchuria and in every other sphere over which his post gives him jurisdiction.

With this, his fourth visit to a foreign capital in recent months, Italy may feel that it is unquestionably one of the "big powers" which must be reckoned with in consideration of any issue which affects the whole world.

Chemical Society Hears U. of P. Cancer Expert

Dr. Ellice MacDonald, director of cancer research, Graduate School of Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania, gave an address on "Some Chemical Aspects of Cancer Research," at a meeting of the Chemical Society of Washington last night at the Cosmos Club.

The society held their annual election of officers at the meeting, and the following were elected: E. Wichers, president; J. H. Hibben, secretary; O. E. May, treasurer; S. F. Acree, R. E. Gibson, H. T. Herrick, P. E. Howe and B. H. Carroll were elected councilors. Members of the executive committee that were elected are M. S. Anderson, J. H. Bruun, J. F. Couch, R. Gilchrist, R. M. Hann and A. R. Merz.

Republican Spain Topic of Lecture

Republican Spain was discussed before the El Club Espanol, of George Washington University, last night by Capt. Sidney Morgan, secretary of the United States Tariff Commission. Capt. Morgan was one of the representatives of this country at the American exhibit in the Seville exposition.

The framework of the new republic, the economic set-up, the classes socially, all were covered in Capt. Morgan's observations before the club, who said that Americans should be particularly interested in the apparent success of the new regime.

Spain's sound financial structure was remarked upon by the Tariff Commission official. He said that while the peseta, monetary unit of Spain, had dropped in the last few years to around 9 to 11 cents par value, from an average mean of 19 cents plus, the financial stability of the nation, despite the shaky state of affairs in France, Italy, Germany and England, had remained fairly good.

Buick Dealers to Show New Models Tomorrow

New 'Mum' Named For Arthur M. Hyde

Another Variety Is Given Title of His Wife at Department.

Although it is held more or less "mum" around the Agriculture Department, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde had a flower named for him yesterday.

It was a chrysanthemum, 5½ feet high and red and yellow in color. Secretary Hyde posed for his picture beside "The Secretary Hyde," the newly developed type which was given his name.

Mrs. Hyde was also honored at the "mum" show. Another new variety was named "Hortense O. Hyde," after the wife of the Secretary. It was placed beside the "Mrs. Woodrow Wilson," already christened.

Fess Places Corner Stone At New U. S. Conservatory

Event Marks Beginning of Plans for Relocating Garden System.

Laying of the corner stone of the new main conservatory building of the Botanic Garden yesterday by Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, marked the start of construction work on the relocation of the entire garden system. Senator Fess is chairman of the joint committee of the library, which has jurisdiction over the Botanic Garden.

Speaking briefly following the ceremonies Senator Fess pointed out the importance to the Capital of such a project and described the monumental nature of the work being undertaken. "The new conservatory building will be the finest of its kind in the world," he said.

The conservatory building will be erected at a cost of $604,000 and will be finished in the late spring of 1932. It is being erected by George A. Fuller Co.

O'Donoghue, and Arthur Peter.

In respect to the memory of Mr. Larner, classes at George Washington University were suspended yesterday between the hours of 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. Mr. Larner was a graduate of the university law school and had been a member of the board of trustees since 1899.

Schiavone Funeral Is Set Tomorrow

Founder of International Exchange Bank to Be Buried in Bethesda.

Funeral services for Joseph Schiavone, 50 years old, founder and first president of the International Exchange Bank, who died Wednesday night, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, Bethesda, Md. Burial will be in Bethesda.

Leaving his desk at the bank Saturday with a slight cold, he was confined to bed in his Chevy Chase, Md., home when it developed into more serious illness.

A native of Italy, Mr. Shiavone came to America in 1907 when he founded an Italian newspaper in Trenton, N. J. He came to Washington in 1913 and opened a foreign exchange during the World War. This later was incorporated as the International Exchange Bank. He was a member of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce.

MRS. M'TWIGGAN DIES.

Wife of Naval Officer Will Be Buried at Arlington Today.

Mrs. Lillian McTwiggan, 41 years old, wife of Lieut. James M. McTwiggan, U. S. N., died Wednesday after an illness of a month, at her home in the Park Towers, 2440 Sixteenth street northwest.

Funeral services for Mrs. McTwiggan, who was active in naval and other social circles here, will be held today from the W. W. Chambers undertaking establishment, at 2 p. m. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. McTwiggan was Lillian Russell Van Sicklen, of an old Brooklyn family before her marriage.

JOHN TYRE HARRIS EXPIRES SUDDENLY

War Department Legal Expert Stricken With Fatal Heart Attack.

Stricken with a heart attack early yesterday afternoon, John Tyre Harris, 63 years old, a legal expert for more than 35 years in the forestry division of the War Department, died within a few minutes at the home of his brother-in-law, Howard Sutherland, Alien Property Custodian and former senator from West Virginia, 1845 R street northwest.

Funeral services for Mr. Harris will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from the Sutherland home, the Rev. Mark Depp presiding. Interment will be at the side of his wife in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mr. Harris was stricken while dressing to go out for the afternoon. His sister, wife of the Alien Property Custodian, had left the house for a few minutes to make purchases at a nearby store. When she returned she learned that her brother had collapsed and that the fire rescue squad had been summoned.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland is the wife of Stanley R. Harris, manager of the Washington Baseball Club from 1924 to 1929. There is no blood relationship between the two Harris families.

The deceased was born in Missouri and received his education at Westminster College, studying law at Columbia College, now George Washington University. He had lived in this city for about 40 years. He made his home at the Parkwood Apartments, but was spending a few days at the Sutherland home because of the visit to the city by his brother, James W. Harris, president of the Harris-Polk Hat Co., of St. Louis. Mr. Harris is survived by another sister, Mrs. Kate Moore, of Long Branch, Calif.

MRS. M'ARTHUR OBSEQUIES.

Well-Known Impersonator to Be Buried This Afternoon.

Mrs. Isabel Pechin MacArthur, well-known impersonator and monologist, died last Tuesday at Georgetown University Hospital after an extended illness.

Mrs. MacArthur was born in this city and was interested in dramatic reading and had been a monologist and impersonator ever since childhood. She entertained audiences at local churches, clubs and other organizations and also in New York. She was a member of the Washington Readers Club.

She is survived by her husband, J. Bruce MacArthur, and two brothers, Herman H. Pechin, of Philadelphia, and David M. Pechin, of this city.

The funeral services will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Hysong's funeral home. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

CHARLES A. LEHMAN DIES.

Veteran Postoffice Department Worker Succumbs at 72.

Charles A. Lehman, for more than 30 years connected with the Postoffice Department here, died at his home, 3197 Porter street northwest, yesterday. Mr. Lehman, who had been ill for some time, was 72 years old.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Carrie Lehman, the dead man is survived by a son and a daughter, J. Gordon Lehman, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Elsie Hughes, of this city. Funeral services will be held at the Porter street residence tomorrow, with interment in Rock Creek Cemetery.

PHILADELPHIA FOUND HOPEFUL OF OUTLOOK

Conservative Trade Leaders Admit Optimism About Business Trend.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Business leaders here, traditionally conservative, are now permitting themselves to be mildly hopeful of better business in the immediate future.

There is improvement in local textile and metal plants. More electric power is being used. Christmas savings are soon to be released and in addition some of the $100,000,000 in deposits caught in bank closings may be converted to buying power through informal credit arrangements with department stores. Large civic projects financed jointly by the city, the railroads and the Federal Government, are giving work.

But there are still signs of shell-shock hanging over from the calamities of the last two years. Some of the leading citizens of the city whisper fearfully about the possibility of rioting this winter. Crowds of unemployed in Franklin Square and around Broad Street Station keep constantly before the eyes of everyone the fact that one out of three normally employed is idle. Business men say frankly they have been misled so frequently by overoptimistic statements from Washington that they want to be shown now. They believe the worst is over. But they refuse to begin cheering until they are sure.

Drive Stresses Unemployment.

"In the last two weeks I have, for the first time, had a feeling that things were definitely better," said Philip H. Gadsden, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce. "It is pretty hard to tell why. I guess I have just grabbed it out of the air. Our immediate business in this district (utilities) is decidedly better. We don't want to feed people any more Pollyanna stuff. There has been too much of that already. But if people could become convinced that we are on the way it would help tremendously."

Unemployment is being emphasized for the moment because of the united campaign to raise $9,000,000 in relief funds. The committee is broadcasting the word that 250,000 are out of work and that this may go to 300,000 during the winter.

Philadelphia, one of the world's large textile centers, is profiting by activity in that industry. Following settlement of the hosiery strike a few months ago, workmen voluntarily took heavy wage cuts for a year to enable their plants to compete with Southern factories. Pay rolls are, therefore, reduced but the factories are busy, even working overtime, according to Chamber of Commerce reports.

Fewer Families in Need.

The City Relief Bureau is caring for 3,000 fewer families than in July. The State employment office reports calls for skilled workers exceeding anything in the last eighteen months.

Mainly the trouble is lack of public confidence, according to most business men. One of them in casual conversation told how his large department store is quoting prices unprecedented in this generation. He is buying Chinese rugs for less than the duty amounts to. He is buying upholstery materials from hard-pressed importers and is farming them out to be made up in shops which are glad to get work at any price. Yet his store finds its volume shrinking.

Across the street a five and ten cent store was crowded. The manager said his business was better than last year. One neatly dressed young man boasted that the suit he was wearing cost $10 with extra trousers free. He bought five of these suits. Every indication is that there is much small change buying which may be the begining of heavier trade as Christmas money comes into action.

Arms Make Peace, Gen. Fries Avers

Pastor of St. Stephen's Also Speaks for Preparedness.

"The world never had any peace worthy of the name until there were organized armies in Rome, Macedonia and Syria that could control the disloyal, the less intelligent and the less civilized peoples," said Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, U. S. A., retired, addressing the Cameron Club of Alexandria, Va., and the Sons of the American Revolution at a tea given yesterday at the Hay-Adams House by the National Patriotic Council.

Another who spoke strongly in favor of adequate preparation for war was the Rev. Dr. George F. Dudley, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, who declared that "war always has developed in those who were taking part in it, either directly or indirectly, the great, eternal gift of unselfishness."

Dr. Dudley declared "We are striving to bring into men's hearts the love of service of their country in peace as well as war, and the desire to keep their country's laws. Greed and selfishness may be kept down for a while, but they are bound to find their places again, and that means that we can not do without an adequate Army and Navy to take up the defense of our country in time of need."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WHY ELMER TWITCHELL THINKS THE COUNTRY ISN'T SUNK.

1. It's still as hard as ever to find a place to park an automobile in a business street.

2. One of the questions pretty generally asked by people renting a new house is, "Has it a one or two-car garage?"

3. A lot of golf is still being played for money, and even on public links you can propose 25 cents a hole and find plenty of takers.

4. Three meals a day are still regarded as orthodox even if we don't get them.

5. Dealers still put in an extra supply of chickens for Sunday dinner orders.

6. Nothing will bring a display of dollars faster in any shop or office than a wire on a code horse on any race track.

7. Suit pressers still shake customers' pants upside down for loose change and find the percentage good.

8. The proportion of starving landlords, real estate operators, sable coat salesmen, diamond importers, automobile dealers, skyscraper architects, outdoor swimming pool designers and bird bath builders is very low.

9. They still raise orchids.

10. A man with his bare toe showing through his shoe causes people to turn around and comment.

11. There are more visible cases of obesity in America than undernourishment.

12. Poker hasn't been abandoned as a national pastime, and contract bridge reached a new peak in August.

13. A great many newspapers found on park benches are opened to the pages carrying stock market charts.

14. Most of the lower priced new houses are being built with at least two bathrooms, tiled kitchens and a little room called a solarium.

15. People still manage to tip a Pullman porter just for handing them their hats and asking, "Want you shoes wiped, boss?"

16. Pay-roll bandits are still able to find places where they have pay rolls.

17. The average man is fairly well dressed, looks as if he had reasonable nourishment and still carries a gold watch.

18. Hockshops are not employing extra help or opening newer and larger branches.

19. Drug stores are still charging two or three times a fair price for a milk drink or ice cream soda, and getting it.

20. The old-fashioned man who walked to work to save money is still a memory.

PLANS TO WELCOME GRANDI TAKING FORM

(Associated Press.)

The Capital has almost completed its preparations for a welcome to Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy.

Undersecretary Castle, of the State Department, will go to New York Monday and extend to the Italian statesman the official welcome of President Hoover and the American Government. The Chief Executive personally will welcome the minister when he calls at the White House.

That call will be the forerunner of informal personal talks the two will have on every phase of Italian-American relations and world problems generally. The talks will have as their center a program of five points which the minister is understood to have in mind.

Three of these will offer little difficulty for an immediate mutual basis of understanding. They concern disarmament, maintenance of the gold standard and world economic cooperation.

On the remaining two points, the President and Secretary Stimson will see a clearer understanding. They concern reparations and war debts and Versailles Treaty revision.

The President is against cancellation of war debts. The last matter is viewed as a problem in which adjustments must be made by European nations without interference or suggestions from the United States.

S. S. Conte Grande, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—This steamship, carrying Dino Grandi to a conference with President Hoover, has been turned into a floating branch of the Italian foreign ministry.

Signor Grandi has transferred his office from the Chigi Palace to a deck chair in midocean, but the radio brings him streams of messages from Rome, Washington, London, Paris and Berlin, and he maintains the same contact with Premier Mussolini as if he were talking across the premier's desk.

Much of his time, of course, is given to consideration of the matters he will discuss with the President, but he also is abreast of developments in Manchuria and in every other sphere over which his post gives him jurisdiction.

With this, his fourth visit to a foreign capital in recent months, Italy may feel that it is unquestionably one of the "big powers" which must be reckoned with in consideration of any issue which affects the whole world.

Chemical Society Hears U. of P. Cancer Expert

Dr. Ellice MacDonald, director of cancer research, Graduate School of Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania, gave an address on "Some Chemical Aspects of Cancer Research," at a meeting of the Chemical Society of Washington last night at the Cosmos Club.

The society held their annual election of officers at the meeting, and the following were elected: E. Wichers, president; J. H. Hibben, secretary; O. E. May, treasurer; S. F. Acree, R. E. Gibson, H. T. Herrick, P. E. Howe and B. H. Carroll were elected councilors. Members of the executive committee that were elected are M. S. Anderson, J. H. Bruun, J. F. Couch, R. Gilchrist, R. M. Hann and A. R. Merz.

Republican Spain was discussed before the El Club Espanol, of George Washington University, last night by Capt. Sidney Morgan, secretary of the United States Tariff Commission. Capt. Morgan was one of the representatives of this country at the American exhibit in the Seville exposition.

The framework of the new republic, the economic set-up, the classes socially, all were covered in Capt. Morgan's observations before the club, who said that Americans should be particularly interested in the apparent success of the new regime.

Spain's sound financial structure was remarked upon by the Tariff Commission official. He said that while the peseta, monetary unit of Spain, had dropped in the last few years to around 9 to 11 cents par value, from an average mean of 19 cents plus, the financial stability of the nation, despite the shaky state of affairs in France, Italy, Germany and England, had remained fairly good.

Buick Dealers to Show New Models Tomorrow

New 'Mum' Named For Arthur M. Hyde

Another Variety Is Given Title of His Wife at Department.

Although it is held more or less "mum" around the Agriculture Department, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde had a flower named for him yesterday.

It was a chrysanthemum, 5½ feet high and red and yellow in color. Secretary Hyde posed for his picture beside "The Secretary Hyde," the newly developed type which was given his name.

Mrs. Hyde was also honored at the "mum" show. Another new variety was named "Hortense O. Hyde," after the wife of the Secretary. It was placed beside the "Mrs. Woodrow Wilson," already christened.

Event Marks Beginning of Plans for Relocating Garden System.

Laying of the corner stone of the new main conservatory building of the Botanic Garden yesterday by Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, marked the start of construction work on the relocation of the entire garden system. Senator Fess is chairman of the joint committee of the library, which has jurisdiction over the Botanic Garden.

Speaking briefly following the ceremonies Senator Fess pointed out the importance to the Capital of such a project and described the monumental nature of the work being undertaken. "The new conservatory building will be the finest of its kind in the world," he said.

The conservatory building will be erected at a cost of $604,000 and will be finished in the late spring of 1932. It is being erected by George A. Fuller Co.

O'Donoghue, and Arthur Peter.

In respect to the memory of Mr. Larner, classes at George Washington University were suspended yesterday between the hours of 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. Mr. Larner was a graduate of the university law school and had been a member of the board of trustees since 1899.

Schiavone Funeral Is Set Tomorrow

Founder of International Exchange Bank to Be Buried in Bethesda.

Funeral services for Joseph Schiavone, 50 years old, founder and first president of the International Exchange Bank, who died Wednesday night, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, Bethesda, Md. Burial will be in Bethesda.

Leaving his desk at the bank Saturday with a slight cold, he was confined to bed in his Chevy Chase, Md., home when it developed into more serious illness.

A native of Italy, Mr. Shiavone came to America in 1907 when he founded an Italian newspaper in Trenton, N. J. He came to Washington in 1913 and opened a foreign exchange during the World War. This later was incorporated as the International Exchange Bank. He was a member of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Baldacci Schiavone; his mother, Mrs. Francesca Schiavone, Palazzo San Gervacio, Italy, and two children, Harry and Frances Schiavone.

MRS. M'TWIGGAN DIES.

Wife of Naval Officer Will Be Buried at Arlington Today.

Mrs. Lillian McTwiggan, 41 years old, wife of Lieut. James M. McTwiggan, U. S. N., died Wednesday after an illness of a month, at her home in the Park Towers, 2440 Sixteenth street northwest.

Funeral services for Mrs. McTwiggan, who was active in naval and other social circles here, will be held today from the W. W. Chambers undertaking establishment, at 2 p. m. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. McTwiggan was Lillian Russell Van Sicklen, of an old Brooklyn family before her marriage.

JOHN TYRE HARRIS EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Stricken with a heart attack early yesterday afternoon, John Tyre Harris, 63 years old, a legal expert for more than 35 years in the forestry division of the War Department, died within a few minutes at the home of his brother-in-law, Howard Sutherland, Alien Property Custodian and former senator from West Virginia, 1845 R street northwest.

Funeral services for Mr. Harris will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from the Sutherland home, the Rev. Mark Depp presiding. Interment will be at the side of his wife in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mr. Harris was stricken while dressing to go out for the afternoon. His sister, wife of the Alien Property Custodian, had left the house for a few minutes to make purchases at a nearby store. When she returned she learned that her brother had collapsed and that the fire rescue squad had been summoned.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland is the wife of Stanley R. Harris, manager of the Washington Baseball Club from 1924 to 1929. There is no blood relationship between the two Harris families.

The deceased was born in Missouri and received his education at Westminster College, studying law at Columbia College, now George Washington University. He had lived in this city for about 40 years. He made his home at the Parkwood Apartments, but was spending a few days at the Sutherland home because of the visit to the city by his brother, James W. Harris, president of the Harris-Polk Hat Co., of St. Louis. Mr. Harris is survived by another sister, Mrs. Kate Moore, of Long Branch, Calif.

MRS. M'ARTHUR OBSEQUIES.

Well-Known Impersonator to Be Buried This Afternoon.

Mrs. Isabel Pechin MacArthur, well-known impersonator and monologist, died last Tuesday at Georgetown University Hospital after an extended illness.

Mrs. MacArthur was born in this city and was interested in dramatic reading and had been a monologist and impersonator ever since childhood. She entertained audiences at local churches, clubs and other organizations and also in New York. She was a member of the Washington Readers Club.

She is survived by her husband, J. Bruce MacArthur, and two brothers, Herman H. Pechin, of Philadelphia, and David M. Pechin, of this city.

The funeral services will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Hysong's funeral home. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

CHARLES A. LEHMAN DIES.

Veteran Postoffice Department Worker Succumbs at 72.

Charles A. Lehman, for more than 30 years connected with the Postoffice Department here, died at his home, 3197 Porter street northwest, yesterday. Mr. Lehman, who had been ill for some time, was 72 years old.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Carrie Lehman, the dead man is survived by a son and a daughter, J. Gordon Lehman, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Elsie Hughes, of this city. Funeral services will be held at the Porter street residence tomorrow, with interment in Rock Creek Cemetery.

PHILADELPHIA FOUND HOPEFUL OF OUTLOOK

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Business leaders here, traditionally conservative, are now permitting themselves to be mildly hopeful of better business in the immediate future.

There is improvement in local textile and metal plants. More electric power is being used. Christmas savings are soon to be released and in addition some of the $100,000,000 in deposits caught in bank closings may be converted to buying power through informal credit arrangements with department stores. Large civic projects financed jointly by the city, the railroads and the Federal Government, are giving work.

But there are still signs of shell-shock hanging over from the calamities of the last two years. Some of the leading citizens of the city whisper fearfully about the possibility of rioting this winter. Crowds of unemployed in Franklin Square and around Broad Street Station keep constantly before the eyes of everyone the fact that one out of three normally employed is idle. Business men say frankly they have been misled so frequently by overoptimistic statements from Washington that they want to be shown now. They believe the worst is over. But they refuse to begin cheering until they are sure.

Drive Stresses Unemployment.

"In the last two weeks I have, for the first time, had a feeling that things were definitely better," said Philip H. Gadsden, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce. "It is pretty hard to tell why. I guess I have just grabbed it out of the air. Our immediate business in this district (utilities) is decidedly better. We don't want to feed people any more Pollyanna stuff. There has been too much of that already. But if people could become convinced that we are on the way it would help tremendously."

Unemployment is being emphasized for the moment because of the united campaign to raise $9,000,000 in relief funds. The committee is broadcasting the word that 250,000 are out of work and that this may go to 300,000 during the winter.

Philadelphia, one of the world's large textile centers, is profiting by activity in that industry. Following settlement of the hosiery strike a few months ago, workmen voluntarily took heavy wage cuts for a year to enable their plants to compete with Southern factories. Pay rolls are, therefore, reduced but the factories are busy, even working overtime, according to Chamber of Commerce reports.

Fewer Families in Need.

The City Relief Bureau is caring for 3,000 fewer families than in July. The State employment office reports calls for skilled workers exceeding anything in the last eighteen months.

Mainly the trouble is lack of public confidence, according to most business men. One of them in casual conversation told how his large department store is quoting prices unprecedented in this generation. He is buying Chinese rugs for less than the duty amounts to. He is buying upholstery materials from hard-pressed importers and is farming them out to be made up in shops which are glad to get work at any price. Yet his store finds its volume shrinking.

Across the street a five and ten cent store was crowded. The manager said his business was better than last year. One neatly dressed young man boasted that the suit he was wearing cost $10 with extra trousers free. He bought five of these suits. Every indication is that there is much small change buying which may be the begining of heavier trade as Christmas money comes into action.

Arms Make Peace, Gen. Fries Avers

Pastor of St. Stephen's Also Speaks for Preparedness.

"The world never had any peace worthy of the name until there were organized armies in Rome, Macedonia and Syria that could control the disloyal, the less intelligent and the less civilized peoples," said Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, U. S. A., retired, addressing the Cameron Club of Alexandria, Va., and the Sons of the American Revolution at a tea given yesterday at the Hay-Adams House by the National Patriotic Council.

Another who spoke strongly in favor of adequate preparation for war was the Rev. Dr. George F. Dudley, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, who declared that "war always has developed in those who were taking part in it, either directly or indirectly, the great, eternal gift of unselfishness."

Dr. Dudley declared "We are striving to bring into men's hearts the love of service of their country in peace as well as war, and the desire to keep their country's laws. Greed and selfishness may be kept down for a while, but they are bound to find their places again, and that means that we can not do without an adequate Army and Navy to take up the defense of our country in time of need."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

NATIONAL SYMPHONY PLAYS FOR CHILDREN

New Orchestra, Directed by Hans Kindler, Applauded at Central High.

Hans Kindler, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, heard a new kind of applause yesterday when the sweet voices of children and their soft but continued clapping greeted him again and again during the first children's concert of the new National Symphony Orchestra, held in the Central High School auditorium yesterday afternoon.

More than 1,500 children, ranging from tots of three or four to high school students, made the first of this series successful from the point of attendance and attention. Mr. Kindler was in a delightful mood and it was soon apparent that he knew how to hold the interest of children and win their hearts.

In his little speech to them before the concert began Mr. Kindler told his youthful audience that the possibility of giving children's concerts was one of the reasons that the National Symphony Orchestra was winning such hearty support from the people of Washington. He explained the difference between radio music and that made by musicians in one's presence.

Assails "Canned Music."

"Canned music," he exclaimed, "is a scurvey of indifference. The love of the beautiful in the arts is the inherent right of every child," he concluded, "and in bringing good music to the children of Washington we are serving childhood."

The concert was given under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

Before each number on the program of an hour Mr. Kindler gave a short talk on the composer, the composition and the type of instruments used in its playing.

The additional rehearsals the orchestra has had since its first concert a few days ago was apparent in its playing yesterday. It was much smoother and in the overture from "Freischutz," by Weber, which had been played at the first concert, the improvement was most marked. Mr Kindler called Weber the father of the modern orchestra and the children followed the playing and the exposition with admirable attention.

Explains String Section.

Bach's lovely "Air for Strings" was the next number, the conductor prefacing it with explanations of the string section of an orchestra, calling it the backbone of the orchestra and having a few notes played on the individual kinds of instruments to illustrate his points.

Bizet's suite, "Arlesienne," found favor with the audience in its four movements.

Then Hans Kindler had the entire audience stand up and sing "America," after which the concert closed with Ippolitow-Ivanow's "Procession of the Sardar."

indirect employment in the Navy in naval construction in th next fiscal year over and above that of the present year. The tonnage of combatant ships actually in construction by the United States today is nearly double that of Great Britain and in addition we are engaged in the modernization of three battleships.

"These are times when the American people have a right to rigid economy on the part of their Government. Navy officials have cooperated and have taken pride in the development of a proper program that would contribute to this economy."

The President explained that navy yards would not be closed despite the fact that "Navy officials are convinced that the products of some of these yards could be made more cheaply elsewhere." To close them now "would produce undue hardship to labor," he said.

Navy Bands and "Ironsides."

Among the items not cut, which the Navy originally offered as sacrifices, are the several Navy bands and the historic frigate Constitution.

Even the new Philadelphia hospital will be built, said the President, but this will be cared for in conjunction with the Veterans' Administration.

The building program on which the President placed such emphasis was the sorest point in the Gardiner controversy. The Navy League head in his attack on the administration used the assumption that the entire program might be swept by the board through operation of the international naval holiday which was then being framed.

This assumption was condemned by the committee which found Gardiner's charges groundless when the President sought refutation.

Talk by those on the fringes of the naval situation during the day included the observation by Representative French, of Idaho, that Mr. Hoover's ideas of cutting the Navy budget were, "in general, sound."

Seeks Inquiry Into Dispute.

He told the President, so, but he would not tell others what the cuts were, holding that this would not be "tactful." French, under Republican rule of the House, has been chairman of the naval appropriations subcommittee for the last eight years.

Then a Democrat, Representative McClintic, of Oklahoma, announced he would seek an investigation of the controversy between the President and the Navy League. He aligned himself against the latter, suggesting that "the behind the Navy League" should be smoked out. He would like to ascertain if the league's backers are connected with shipbuilders. This charge has been made against the league periodically since war days.

McClintic, however, went on record for some naval building of the most modern kind—flying deck cruisers, airplanes, dirigibles and submarines.

Meanwhile Gardiner had returned to Washington and continued to deliberate over ammunition he might use in answering the report of the Hoover-chosen investigating committee. It has been indicated clearly that he does not intend to let rest unchallenged this group's assertion that his attack on the President's naval policy was unsound, misleading and inaccurate.

Justice Brandeis, 75 Today, Is Warmly Congratulated

(Associated Press.)

The routine of work was broken a bit yesterday for Louis Dembitz Brandeis, associate justice of the Supreme Court, by a series of telegrams and letters.

They were the only outward indications at his home that the justice, whose name is associated in the minds of the public with Oliver Wendell Holmes, will be 75 today.

Messages of congratulations from all over the world have been steadily accumulating all week. One from President and Mrs. Hoover said: "You rflect a heart and mind which have made the Nation your debtor."

As is the case with Justice Holmes, birthdays do not differ materially from any other day with Justice Brandeis, nor do the eves of birthdays.

He arose early, as usual, took a brisk walk and then was back for an early start on court work.

Thousands of briefs have passed over the study table at his home during his fifteen years on the bench. They were only preliminary, however, to oral argument, consultation of authorities cited, court conferences and the decisions themselves.

Justice Brandeis has a reputation for hard work among the men who work hard as a matter of course in handling duties which are exacting and often exhausting.

He labors in the evenings as well as in the mornings but he retires early and he chooses his food with care.

Well past 90, Justice Holmes' age has enfeebled him lately, but Justice Brandeis, never imposing physically, has changed little since he was named by President Wilson in 1916.

A member of a Boston law firm when he was chosen for the bench, he had already shown a liberality which some regarded as radicalism. He was nominated for the bench in January but the Senate did not confirm him until June, some of its conservative members protesting that he lacked judicial temperament.

JUSTICE LOUIS D. BRANDEIS.

The Senate attacks upon him did not change his views. His reputation with the Supreme Court has come more, perhaps, from his dissenting opinions than from his concurrences with the majority.

Death and its changes have put his attitude toward broad legal questions apparently in the ascendency within the past two years.

His two daughters may join him and Mrs. Brandeis today, but it will be an unusual day if he does not spend a part of it at work.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WELL, I see Postmaster General Brown's wing-footed Mercurys have not forgotten the shortest cuts to E street! The following more or less self-explanatory communication has just come to hand bearing a special delivery stamp and everything:

"Dear Nelson—I read your interesting editorial in the Sunday amusement section of The Post, and, first of all, I want you to know that I bear no malice because you did not agree with me relative to the manner in which we announced the approach of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in 'The Guardsman' at Loew's Columbia Theater.

"I still think that I am right in my contentions. During the last few days I have had several communications from patrons who wanted more data relative to these two matchless stars. My best reply, so far, has been to see them in person this week at one of the legitimate theaters. One of the patrons took my tip and phoned me today, saying: 'I saw Lunt and Fontanne last night, and, boy, they are good! You may now feel safe in laying as high as 8 to 5 that I'll never miss them again!'

"You see, Nelson, here was a fellow who only went to motion picture theaters—and, after all, don't we give the majority of people their entertainment? Lunt and Fontanne are too good a bet to lose. We know that the people who have followed them in their various dramatic and comedy productions will come to see them anyway—they can't help it. But we don't want to let our other patrons pass this production by.

"We have to sell things in the theater—and how well you ought to know this!—in the same manner as you sell them in the newspaper. The better the product, the plainer we speak, as we hold the thought that the public today will not permit anything to be forced upon them. When you have their confidence and they believe what you tell them, it is disastrous to attempt to delude them or take it for granted that they know all about the product you may have in hand.

"So you had better get in line early, . . for it looks as if 'The Guardsman' will be the talk of the town.

"With my kindest regards, sincerely (Signed) COLBY HARRIMAN, managing director, Loew's Washington theaters."

As I was saying, that's what makes horse racing—and since you're buying this lunch, Colby, let's go somewhere where it's expensive!

There are so many unusually pretentious bills announced to begin week's engagements in the motion picture theaters today and tomorrow that Harry W. Crull, managing director of the Fox, in addition to the exclusive high school football pictures, has added an extra act to Fanchon & Marco's "Exotique" Idea. And while he was at it, he picked himself a good one—Val and Ernie Stanton, two exceedingly smart jesters, in the English manner, who add a touch of class to any bill.

On the assumption that you neglected to preserve last Sunday's program and, therefore, are in no position to refer to the announcement appearing thereon as a heavy underline, I may say that when Mr. Burton Holmes, the polished and punctilious travel talker, takes possession of the stage in the National Theater Sunday afternoon at 3, his topic will be "Capitals and Countries of Northern Europe."

To some, this may sound a little stereotyped, but from personal and interested observation I have become aware that Mr. Holmes is making his current series of "pictured travel revues" the most informative and the most diverting of any he has ever delivered in Washington.

Mary Pickford, first lady of the cinema, having lunched at the White House yesterday, was joined later in the day by her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, who arrived in the Capital a trifle belatedly.

Together they attended the performance of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, in "Reunion in Vienna," at the National, last night.

Word comes from the high command at the Rialto Theater that beginning a week from today, November 20, with the first Washington presentation of Universal's production of "Frankenstein," featuring Colin Clive, remembered from "Journey's End;" John Boles and Mae Clarke, the policy of the Ninth street house will be permanently changed to embrace Friday, instead of Saturday, openings of the new bills.

This raises the odds in favor of Friday openings to 5 to 2, the Earle and Metropolitan, so far as is at present known—and I doubt that the Earle's vaudeville bookings would permit a change—being the only two downtown, first-run houses that will adhere to the Saturday inaugurals after next Friday.

Heywood Broun, in his production of "Shoot the Works," went far toward demonstrating that cooperative effort in the theater can be made to pay. His experience, however, was professionalism itself when compared to the operation of a band of ardent players gathered on a bleak New England shore.

A group of enthusiastic actors and actresses are managing to eat comfortably on $3.75 per week while rehearsing in West Falmouth, Mass., for a repertory program to be presented this winter, consisting of such plays as "Mr. Pim Passes By," "Silent House," "The Constant Nymph," "Hell Bent Fer Heaven," and "The Devil in the Cheese."

For over nine weeks the company had been living in Cape Cod almost completely removed from the world. In order to reduce expenses eating costs have been limited to $3.75 per week. All costumes and scenery have been made by their own costume and scenery department. Every available hour of daylight has been used for rehearsals.

The company believes that the future success of the American theater will be stimulated by the repertory method of production and plans to use this in presenting their group of plays.

By November 16, when the first performance is to be presented in Baltimore, over two carloads of scenery will have been constructed, consisting of 22 complete changes.

The University Repertory Theater feels that by living and working together in this manner, despite adverse weather and financial conditions, the resultant companionship and comparative treatment will prepare their conception of parts and atmosphere in a way which nothing else could do.

There is, as I remember it, an old saw that has something to say to the general effect that "where there's a will there's a way."

And while I think of it, I have a pair of roller skates, practically as good as new, that I will be glad to exchange for a pair of midfield seats for the Notre Dame-Navy football game in Baltimore tomorrow.

Either side of the field will do, for in my artless and inimitable way I can affect a very elegant Irish brogue or roll like a sailor, as the exigency of the moment may require.

And maybe you'd like to hear my "birds and beasts of the forest" and "noises down on the farm!"

MUNICIPAL GARAGE IS URGED DOWNTOWN

W. A. Roberts Offers Plan to Relieve Parking Problems.

A proposal that Congress authorize the organization of a municipal corporation to condemn land in downtown Washington and erect a municipal garage will be offered as a solution to the parking problem by William A. Roberts, member of the executive council of the Federal Bar Association, at the next meeting of the organization November 25, at the Lee House.

Under this plan the Federal Government would be asked to appropriate sufficient money to erect the garage or garages in the District act. Some District agency, probably the Public Utilities Commission, would establish the rental rates to be charged, after which bids could be asked from concessionaires to operate the plant.

If the District government would be satisfied with a return of 4 per cent on the investment and if land might be condemned for the usual 150 per cent of the assessed valuation, Mr. Roberts estimates, cars might be parked all day long for between 10 and 15 cents.

"Because this plan would take the parked cars off the streets, the Federal Government might be willing to contribute a considerable amount for such a project in view of the issue raised by the Fine Arts Commission," Mr. Roberts said.

Letters in Grave May Provide Clew

Woman's Skeleton Starts Hunt in Illinois for Slayer.

Chicago, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—A heap of old letters and the frayed and soiled bits of clothing found with a skeleton in a shallow grave near Crystal Lake, remained the only clew tonight to the identity of a supposedly slain woman. State and county investigators saw their most promising theory dissolve today, as Jeanette Forbes, Kankakee nurse, who had been missing, reported to a State officer that she was "much alive."

Subsequent digging about the grave where the skeleton, sewed in a sack of quicklime, was discovered, disclosed parts of the body had been severed or destroyed by the lime. It had first been thought the hands, feet and jaw had been removed to avert identification.

One of the letters found in a rubbish heap near the site was addressed to Rose Cohn, of Crystal Lake, and she was sought by officers today to determine whether she could identify the clothes.

MARRIAGE CONTRACT JOINS ISLAM HOUSES

Rich Nizam of Hyderabad Effects Sons' Betrothal to Istanbul Princesses.

Nice, France, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The two mightiest houses of Islam were linked today in a contract of marriage signed after prolonged negotiations in the down-at-the-heels Palace of Caracel.

The contract calls for the marriage in December of Prince Azam Jah, eldest son of the Nizam of Hyderabad, and Princess Dural Shemvar, daughter of the former caliph at Istanbul, and of Prince Moazzam Jah, younger son of the Nizam, to Niufar Hanin Sultana, the former caliph's niece and granddaughter of the late Turkish Sultan Mourad V.

The Nizam of Hyderabad is the wealthiest Mohammedan in the world and probably the wealthiest man. The former caliph is spiritual head of all the followers of Mohammed, but financially he has been pinched since Mustapha Kemal exiled him from Turkey.

The signing of the marriage contract was accompanied by ceremonies of Oriental splendor. Six officers of the nizam's bodyguard, carrying jeweled swords, and the young princes, bejeweled and covered with flowers, entered the Palace of Caracel in a body for the final negotiations.

Then for half an hour the sons of the nizam prayed, kneeling before full-length portraits of their brides-to-be, while the two princesses remained in an upstairs chamber.

The prayers over, the entire company went down to the garden, where 40 cameramen awaited them, and their master of ceremonies, much to the surprise of the conventional Turks present, summoned the princesses to be photographed.

They appeared under the escort of the former caliph, who subsequently provided temperance drinks for his guests while he retired to his library, where, his snow-white beard clutched in both his hands, he meditated over the business just completed.

WINS AWARD

WILLIAM L. ABERNATHY.

Abernathy Wins Radio Mention

Washington Announcer of WRC Commended by Academy of Arts.

For the first time a Washington announcer, William L. Abernathy, of the National Broadcasting Co., was given honorable mention in the annual awards by the radio committee of the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

John W. Holbrook, NBC announcer in New York, was awarded the gold medal for good diction over the radio. Besides Abernathy, two other announcers were given honorable mention. They were Sen Kaney, NBC announcer in Chicago, and David Ross, Columbia announcer in New York.

John Holbrook, heard regularly in the Mobiloil and Blackstone periods, has been with NBC since May, 1931. Previously he was at Station WBZ, Springfield.

A quince measuring 13½ inches long and the same in circumference was picked this year by William Yeagley, of Alliance, Ohio.

Ambulance Ready For Rescue Squad

Other Difficulties, However, Face Unit Being Organized in Marlboro.

An ambulance will be ready for the Marlboro, Md., unit of the Prince Georges County rescue squad as soon as the unit is formed, C. Earle Wyville said yesterday. The ambulance is one given to the county squad by a resident of Glenn Dale, and the body has been rebuilt by the squad.

Only five Marlboro men are taking the Red Cross course in first aid, which they must have to become members of the squad, however, and there must be at least six members before the ambulance will be turned over to them. The five taking the course are Mr. Wyville, Wesley Kerr, Harry Morris, Vincent Grady and Michael Wyville.

Of these five, only two work in Marlboro during the day, and some arrangement must be worked out so that at least two men will be available for ambulance work at all times. A place to keep the ambulance must also be found before it is accepted, as there is no room in the present firehouse in Marlboro.

G. W. Drama Club To Play Tonight

"The Queen's Husband" to Start Season at Wardman Park Theater.

The Drama Club of George Washington University opens its season with "The Queen's Husband," Robert E. Sherwood's entertaining and diverting comedy about European royalty which ran nine months on Broadway, this evening and tomorrow evening at Wardman Park Theater at 8:20 o'clock. Tickets are $1 and 75 cents.

Frank Westbrook, Ada A. Green, Amanda Chittum and Karl Gay are featured in the large cast, which is composed entirely of students of George Washington University. Prominent in supporting roles are Michael Greenburg, Edward Northrup, Joseph Danzansky, Leonard Stevens and Sol Orleans.

"The Queen's Husband" is by the author of "Reunion in Vienna," current at the National Theater this week. It is the story of the henpecked ruler of a mythical kingdom, who eludes the vigilance of his dominating spouse long enough to bring order out of the chaos in both his dominion and his family.

Boy Sues Woman Driver For $10,000 in Crash

Mrs. Minnie C. Bright, 1118 E street southeast, was named defendant in a $10,000 damage suit yesterday. Harry L. McCormick, jr., a minor, through his father, who resides at Brentwood, Md., filed the suit.

The bill alleges that an automobile belonging to Mrs Bright collided with an automobile in which the boy was a passenger September 16. Through Attorney David A. Pine, young McCormock claims he was seriously injured. The accident happened at Thirtieth street and Bladensburg road northeast.

Huguenots to Go to Baltimore.

The Huguenot Society of Washington will make a pilgrimage to Baltimore tonight to attend a meeting at the Lord Baltimore Hotel with members of Maryland. A chartered bus will leave the American Association of University Women, 1634 I street, at 6 o'clock. Dinner will be served at the clubhouse before leaving.

D. E. Garges Talks to League.

Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the Board of District Commissioners, yesterday addressed the Voteless League of Women Voters on the origin and setup of the District government in the District Building board room.

Outings Planned For Girl Scouts

Programs Are Arranged for Units in Rock Creek Park.

Something new in "winter camping" for the Girl Scouts of Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia will begin Saturday, when a series of Saturday outdoor events will be held in the immediate vicinity of Pierce Mill in Rock Creek Park, through the interest and cooperation of Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks in the National Capital.

These "Saturdays in Rock Creek Park" are open to all Girl Scouts, and a program of pioneering, handicraft, folk dancing and nature study will be followed throughout the winter. The plan, which has been in tentative operation for several weeks, will enter its full schedule this Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, and continue, in its varying activities, until 4:30 p. m.

In addition to the general plan of this winter day camp of the Girl Scouts, individual troops in the city will plan their own programs to be held in the park, simultaneously with the general activities.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau.

Washington, Thursday, Nov. 12—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, mostly cloudy Friday and Saturday, probably occasional showers; somewhat cooler Friday night; gentle to moderate winds, mostly southwest.

For Maryland, mostly cloudy, probably occasional showers Friday and Saturday; somewhat cooler Friday night; moderate winds, mostly southwest and west.

For Virginia, generally fair, except possibly light showers in north portion Friday; slightly cooler in north portion Friday night; Saturday mostly cloudy, probably showers; moderate winds, mostly southwest.

The disturbance that was over the Plains States Wednesday night has moved northeastward over the upper Mississippi Valley and the Lake region and merged with another disturbance that moved eastward from the Great Slave Lake region to Hudson Bay, Nottingham Island, Hudson Strait, 29.38 inches, and Cochrane, Ont., 29.36 inches. The disturbance that was off the southeast coast of Alaska has moved east-southeastward to Alberta and Saskatchewan, Edmonton, Alberta, 29.28 inches, and pressure remains relatively low over the Rio Grande Valley, El Paso, Tex., 29.82 inches. These disturbances have caused rains in the North Pacific States, Arizona, the southern Rocky Mountain region, the lower Missouri Valley, and from the upper Mississippi Valley eastward to the North Atlantic Coast. The rainfall was heavy in portions of the Lake region and the upper Mississippi Valley. An area of high pressure of great magnitude is spreading eastward and southeastward over Alaska and the District of Mackenzie, Point Barrow, 30.66 inches, and pressure remains relatively high over the Southeastern States and from Nevada and Idaho eastward to Kansas, Pocatello, Idaho, 30.24 inches, and Jacksonville, Fla., 30.18 inches. The temperature has risen from the upper Ohio Valley and lower Lake region eastward to the Atlantic Coast and in the northern Rocky Mountain and northern Plateau regions, while it has fallen from New Mexico and western Texas northeastward to Wisconsin.

Forecast for Friday and Saturday—General forecast for the Atlantic States, the lower Lake region, the Ohio Valley, and Tennessee: There will be considerable cloudiness during the next two days and showers are probable, except in the South Atlantic States. The temperature will continue above normal, but it will be somewhat lower within the next 24 hours from the Ohio Valley and lower Lake region eastward to the Atlantic Coast. The indications are for a change to considerably colder weather over northern and middle sections east of the Mississippi River Sunday or Monday.

Dinwiddie Airs Tax on Liquors

Baruch Statement Is Construed to Mean Rich Want Beer Taxed.

(Associated Press.)

The national prohibition board of strategy yesterday saw in a statement by Bernard W. Baruch indications that "wet millionaires" are "intensifying their drive against tax increases."

Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the board, quoted Baruch as having said yesterday when he addressed the War Industries Board reminiscence meeting in New York that "the legalization of beer and light wines would give us enormous tax receipts."

To that, Dinwiddie replied:

"The implication undeniably is that it would give wet millionaires enormous tax relief to shift the enormous burden of taxation to the workingman. * * * Wet millionaires do not drink beer; they drink champagne and hard liquors, hence their zeal for taxing beer."

BLINDFOLD KISSING TEST

Can you KISS and TELL who it is?

This sensational picture has made many people wonder—would they really know! Would you? In this gay drama you will see the most delightfully naughty situations you've ever seen in pictures. And, incidentally, you'll get some clever suggestions on the possibility of a "blindfold kissing test."

His disguise was PERFECT but when he began to make love to her—could she be fooled?

At last in talkies! America's greatest stage stars of the Theatre Guild in Ferenc Molnar's gay, saucy romance that excited Broadway for more than a year. Here is a play you wouldn't have thought of missing if you had visited New York during its sensational run. Now it comes to you on the talking screen—a totally new type of entertainment—an absolutely new thrill for the motion picture public!

Idols of the American Stage, they bring their genius to the talking screen in the prize picture of the year. A new triumph for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer!

REGINA CREWE, motion picture editor of the NEW YORK AMERICAN said, "If you don't see another picture — ever — you must see 'The Guardsman.'"

FOREIGN BONDS DROP IN CHANGING TRENDS

Prices Fluctuate on Market; Federal Liberty Issues Record Gains.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The bond market wavered irregularly today and trading, although more active than on Wednesday, continued quiet.

Foreign loans provided many of the widest fluctuations. Net losses of the loans of the Argentine national government ranged from 3½ to 7 points. Issues of the city and Province of Buenos Aires receded irregularly. This weakness was simultaneous with the slump in grain prices. Many German bonds made temporary gains on reports that Franco-German debt negotiations were approaching an agreement. German 5½s were one of the most active bonds of the whole list and retained much of their gain, but the 7s of 1949 closed lower along with other loans of that nation. Other foreign issues wavered irregularly on a small turnover.

Activity in United States Treasury and Liberty loans increased in the afternoon and closed with small gains. Such activity as developed in corporate issues was concentrated among a few of the more important bonds. As a whole this group fluctuated narrowly and irregularly.

Rail loans, however, had an upward tendency shown in the gains of such active issues as Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie consolidated 4s, New York Central debenture 4s and new 4½s, Pennsylvania general 5s and series D 4½s, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis series B 4½s, Southern Pacific 4½s of 1981 and Union Pacific first 4s.

Even in this group a number of representative bonds reached lower levels. Included among the latter were St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s of 1978 and series A 4s, Pennsylvania debenture 4½s, Nickel Plate series C 4½s and St. Paul 5s of 1975.

Activity in Phillips Petroleum 5½s featured the industrials. They closed unchanged after being both higher and lower than the previous final sale.

Public utility bonds turned quiet without a definite trend.

Curb Review

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The curb plodded through a quiet session today. Prices traveled a narrow path and closed with generally small net changes, the turnover approximating 250,000 shares.

In the morning the tone was somewhat easy, but the late afternoon witnessed a slow improvement. However, a moderate reaction from the best prices developed in the final dealings. Metal shares were generally firm. Oils were quiet and mostly firm and the more active utilities made nominal changes.

Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, an inactive issue, broke 45 points on a few odd lot transactions, dropping to 135. National Fuel Gas was a strong feature, rising to 17⅞ and closing near the top, up 2⅜ net. In the metal group, Bunker Hill Sullivan rallied 3, but Newmont's best performance was a small rise, much of which was lost.

The stronger specialties included New York Steam, Ford of Canada "B," Agfa Ansco, New Haven Clock, Aluminum of America and Buckeye Pipe. Singer dropped 5 on light sales.

Electric Bond & Share was active, but moved sluggishly. American Gas held a narrow range, losing a point net. American Superpower sagged half a point in fairly brisk trading.

Goldman Sachs trading lost the ground gained yesterday on the unfounded merger rumor. Ungerleider Financial was also heavy. The turnover was nominal.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE LOWER AFTER RALLY

Average Decline Is Small in Quieter Trading; Sales, 1,450,482 Shares.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Stocks managed to disregard the weakness of grains during much of today's session, but lost heart in the late trading, or just after the day's best rally.

Closing prices were irregular, with the balance, as measured by the averages, favoring the down side by a narrow margin. The market was even quieter than yesterday, however, sales totaling 1,450,482 shares. Silver bullion recovered about a cent of yesterday's loss.

A last minute break in New York Central, which was off 4 points net, unsettled the list, especially the rails. Central's decline suggested short selling based on Wall street gossip concerning the future of the road's dividend. Union Pacific sagged after the regular dividends had been voted. Most leading carriers closed lower.

Rails Stir Conjectures.

Discussions of the railroad advisory committee on the rate case recommendations, to be placed before the executives association tomorrow, together with tonight's meeting with labor representatives, gave rise to much conjecture. Speculation centered, of course, on how far the wage reduction matter was likely to get and whether definite proposals would be made to employes. There was a feeling that the outcome of New York Central's overtures to certain of its workers would be awaited before much was done by other companies in that direction.

The chief obstacle to acceptance of the Interstate Commerce Commission's rate increase proposition has been the pooling feature, for stronger roads have objected to turning over the extra earnings to weaker lines except on a loan basis. Some Eastern systems would prefer to have the additional revenue parcelled out on a district basis, but the nature of these shares in the pool rather than their distribution has been the real stumbling block. The roads must be unanimous in their acceptance of the commission's rate schedule.

Stocks opened firm, began to saunter lower around noon, and then rallied in the final hour when unofficial word that the copper curtailment conference might be prolonged was circulated. The late unsettlement resulted in moderate net changes for utility and industrial issues. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can and Case closed from a fraction to about a point off. Allied Chemical, General Motors, American Tobacco, McKeesport Tin Plate and Continental Can returned gains. Radio was weak in sympathy with Radio-Keith-Orpheum's decline, while Westinghouse and General Electric, both large holders of Radio, eased a point. Homestake boomed 9 points but fell back 3 from the top.

Position of Money.

Expectations that the monetary and credit positions would show further easiness were fulfilled by the weekly bank figures, which showed a $26,000,000 decline in circulation against last week's $63,000,000 advance, indicating that part of the funds disbursed in transactions around the first of the month had returned.

Foreign exchanges were rather heavy. French francs sagged half a point for cables and sterling closed slightly lower. German marks, however, firmed, and so did the Japanese yen. Shanghai taels and Mexican dollars recovered with silver.

Net losses in wheat ranged from 2¼ to 2⅞ cents a bushel. There was some much needed rain in the Southwest, but bullish enthusiasm has probably been dampened, too. Corn's losses ran from 1⅝ to 1⅞, but cotton closed steady, virtually unchanged. Oats and rye were lower.

Roumania Granted Credit.

Paris, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The financial newspaper L'Information said tonight that the Bank of France had granted Roumania a $12,000,000 supplementary credit to aid in maintenance of the gold coverage.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Confronted by a surprise reappearance of Russia's will-o'-the-wisp export movement of wheat and rye, the world's grain market plunged downward anew today. Russian wheat exports this week, announced as totaling 2,480,000 bushels, demoralized rye exports 2,355,000 bushels, demoralized Liverpool prices and led to heavy stoploss selling here. Chicago wheat quotations tumbled to more than 7 cents under their recent high point and rye to about 8 cents off.

Wheat closed unstable, at the day's bottom figures, 2⅛@2⅞ cents lower than Tuesday's finish, corn 1⅝@2 down, oats ¼ to 1 off, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents decline.

Inasmuch as Russia has popularly been regarded as having been almost effaced as an exporter of breadstuffs this season, the posting of her shipments for this week at an aggregate over twice as large as the week previous struck a blow under which wheat values reeled throughout the day. Adding to the downward impetus were official estimates putting the 1931 wheat production of France at a total much larger than last year. Furthermore, Russia was asserted to be making fresh inquiries for additional vessel tonnage to accommodate Soviet December grain exports.

Although new purchasing of wheat broadened out on price downturns, rallies proved futile. Persistent drought reports from the western half of Kansas were made much of by bulls, but a resumption of heavy selling in the late dealings swamped the buying demand for at least the time being, despite indications that wheat over a large area was going into the winter in the poorest shape witnessed in many years. Disturbance of Argentine exchange rates counterbalanced serious further frost damage reports. North American wheat export business was only about 600,000 bushels.

Corn, oats and rye paralleled the action of wheat. Stop-loss selling was the order of the day, notwithstanding that wet weather prevailed over part of the corn belt and but little corn was offered to arrive.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, December, 58¾@58¾; March, 66⅛, 63¾@63⅞ offers; May, 66⅛@66¼; July, 84¼, 68⅝ bids. Corn, December, 41⅛; May, 46½; 49¾@49½; July, 48⅝ bids.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

GIVEN a handy lacing in the first quarter by a dynamic Eastern High line, Tech High's mighty football team caught its breath at the start of the second period, struck its stride immediately and cracked wide open the line that once held them to win a 33-6 encounter at Central Stadium yesterday. Thirty-five hundred saw the game, the best of the series. It was Tech's seventeenth straight series victory.

Tech's unscored-upon record for the series was shattered in one spectacular burst of passing pyrotechnics in the last half minute of the game, when the shaky Easterners gathered up their reserve strength by its tattered edges and scored in the gathering dusk.

The gallant rally found its source on Eastern's 35-yard line. Two biting passes, hurled by Bus Boyd to Drake, moved the ball up to Tech's 35-yard line. Boyd unleashed his third pass, only to see Apperti, Tech back, all but catch it. The ball ricocheted off Apperti's paws, was boosted along by Foley, Tech quarter back, who, too, was unable to hold it, and dropped into the arms of "Bones" Courtney behind the goal line. Wolfe's kick was easily blocked, but Eastern had had its moment of nectar.

Tech Line Is Powerful.

Between the end of the first quarter and those last few fleeting seconds Tech was a marvel of precision and a thunderbolt for power. Its five touchdowns were as carefully planned and executed as if they had been practiced all week. Tech's line, after being held even during the opening phases of the game, charged like fury during the remainder, and its ball carriers swept through the line or around end pocketed within flawless interference.

Bill Foley, Tech's punting prodigy, put Tech in its first scoring position early in the second period when he kicked 60 yards to Eastern's 15-yard line. Boyd, who had been waging a fairly successful kicking duel with the Techian, here cracked and booted out on his 35-yard line. Tech, mostly Capt. Sachs, went right down the field, with Sachs scoring from the 1-yard line. Foley had been supplanted by Carleton Edwards as soon as his kicking achieved its purpose.

Georgia-Tulane Grid Battle Stirs Dixie As Unbeaten Foes Stake U. S. Title Hopes

Fans Jam Athens for Feature Contest Tomorrow.

By HENRY McLEMORE.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 12 (U.P.).—The South has had some right smart battles in its day, but down here among the red clay hills of Little Athens, they'll tell you that the football game between the University of Georgia and Tulane on Saturday is going to lay such affairs as Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge in the shade.

Apparently the good citizens of Athens are not alone in their opinion, for tonight people were pouring into town from all four directions, and in a hurry. The big push, however, will not come until tomorrow, when everybody and his cousin will arrive, including some 3,000 New Orleans fans.

This double-dipped, double-barrelled, self-cocking, nickel-plated enthusiasm is easy to understand, when you remember that the championship of the South, and possibly the national title for 1931, will be riding on the outcome of the game between the Bulldogs and the Greenies. The game is far and away the most important of Saturday's long and impressive line-up.

Both Tulane and Georgia boast outstanding teams. Neither is defeated nor tied, despite impressive schedules. Georgia has kicked over V. P. I., Yale, North Carolina, Vanderbilt, Florida and N. Y. U., while Tulane has steam-rollered Mississippi, Texas Aggies, Spring Hill, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Mississippi Aggies and Auburn in rapid succession.

Here in Athens, where the finest specimens of 100 per cent, all wool, hand-woven Georgia supporters are to be found, the general opinion is that the game is an even money affair, a toss-up, but that if a favorite must be installed, Tulane is due the post of honor. Comparative scores, which nine times out of ten aren't worth the paper they're printed on, are the basis of this belief. Tulane whipped Vanderbilt 19 to 0, while the best Georgia could do against the Commodores was 9 to 0.

A trifle suspicious of the man in the street, so to speak, we talked to Coach Harry Mehre, of Georgia, and asked that very outspoken person what he thought of the game.

"To be quite frank with you," Mehre said, "I'm a trifle uncertain. And I think I have a right to be, considering that twice this season, once against Vanderbilt and once against N. Y. U., I have seen our running attack stopped cold. Georgia has every reason to lay all it has on the line. We never have been able to win a Southern championship over here and we'd like very much to do that very thing. Then, too, we have a couple of beatings from Tulane to avenge. They whipped us 25 to 0 last year."

Mehre was uncertain as to his line-up. It is believed, however, that Georgia will start the same sort of team against Tulane as it did against N. Y. U.—that is, a second-string line and a half-and-half back field.

There probably will not be another game in the country this year which will bring together two such powerful back-field combinations as will the tiff between Georgia and Tulane. Georgia has enough crack back field material to rock a boat, Tulane enough to sink it. The Georgians will unleash such running, stepping, blocking, kicking, and what have you young men as Austie Downs, Buster Mott, Homer Key, Jack Roberts, and Spurgeon Chandler. Tulane will answer this challenge with Don Zimmerman (the man who does everything on the football field save recite Hamlet), Lowell Dawson, Nollie ("Papa") Felts, and Francis Payne. When this quartet shows signs of tiring half a dozen more of almost equal ability will be ready to throw off their blankets and carry on.

Doctors Despair Life Of Hurt Millsaps Tackle

Deland, Fla., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Commie Dandevenor Smith, 22-year-old Millsaps College football tackle, clung to life tonight although physicians have said he can not live because a neck vertebra was broken in a game between Millsaps and Stetson University here Armistice Day.

Death might come "at any time," they said.

An oxygen machine has been employed to keep Smith alive. Attendants at the hospital said he always awoke from stupors with a smile.

Smith was hurt in a mass play and no one could explain just how it came about. At first it was thought the vertebra in his back had been broken, but X-ray pictures revealed the neck injury.

Both Teams Boasting Wealth of Stars in Crucial Game

Dempsey Is Booed As Foe Stays Limit

Bearcat Wright, Omaha Negro, Fights Defensive Battle; Is Cheered.

Omaha, Nebr., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The string of knockouts being compiled by Jack Dempsey, America's greatest fistic idol in the last decade, floundered here last night on the head of Bearcat Wright, giant Omaha Negro heavyweight.

True, Dempsey smacked his way to a referee's decision, but the Bearcat, a champion at the art of defensive fighting, gave Jack nothing to shoot at, but a shining bald head and that head absorbed everything that came its way without a quiver.

There was much clinching throughout the four-round bout, but Jack was never able to straighten Bearcat up out of his crab-like defensive stance. Now and then, Wright made a brief offensive flurry, but at no time was either fighter in danger of a count, short or long.

Boston, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Jack Dempsey has been offered $100,000 to meet Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, in an outdoor bout here next June, matchmaker Billy Ames, of the Boston Garden announced today. Ames said he would discuss the proposition with the former champion at New York in two weeks.

Macks Obtain Pair From Coast League

Palmisano and Moore Sent to Portland for Pitcher and Outfielder.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, announced today that he had obtained Outfielder Coleman and Pitcher Joe Bowman from the Portland Club of the Pacific Coast League.

The Athletics turned over to Portland outright Catch Palmisano and Outfielder Jim Moore.

The Athletics also sent to Portland on option Outfielder Louis Finney, Infielder Frank Higgins, Pitcher Hank McDonald and Pitcher James Peterson.

Navy Is Ready For Bitter Battle

Regiment, Gridmen Are Not Awed by Irish Record.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 12. — A snappy scrimmage with the regulars pitted against the strong second team, climaxed a protracted and varied practice session for the Naval Academy gridders this afternoon in preparation for the Notre Dame game in Baltimore Saturday.

Although the Ramblers have a fine season's record behind them and, heralded from all quarters as the wonder and superpower team, would appear to greatly overmatch the Middies, the latter are by no means discouraged. On the contrary, they are preparing to give their all. Fight is a deep-seated tradition at the Naval school, and whatever the odds may be against them, the Tars are never found wanting in that respect.

Head Coach Miller's pupils, however, are not in the best of shape physically, for such a hard battle, coming in the wake of the bruising contest against Ohio State last Saturday. Though all of the regulars who fought the Buckeyes were given a two-day rest, some are still nursing bruises and the like, and it would not surprise if they will be out of the line-up Saturday, at least at the start of hostilities.

Absentees Are Noted.

An indication of this was seen when the varsity took the field today. Absentees were Capt. Tuttle, center; Elliott, right end; Reedy, left guard; Kirn, left half back, and Campbell, full back. Harbold was in place of Tuttle, Thompson for Reedy, Pray and Born, alternating for Elliott; Chung Hoon in place of Kirn, and Tom Hurley took Campbell's position. It looked like old times to see Tom Hurley cavorting around, with Harry Tachirgi, on his right side. This pair played in the respective positions last season. Although Coach Miller has not definitely determined whether Jack Denny or Bert Davis, will start at quarter back, Davis was holding the job today, and it is known that Miller thinks a good deal of him. He has developed slowly but surely and did highly satisfactory work in the Ohio State game. Denny has the benefit of wider experience and two other good understudies are Becht and Moncure.

Today's scrimmage was not held under regular playing conditions, but primarily to further polish up the various offensive formations and plays, as well as to improve charging by the forward wall and blocking. Before this heavy work was undertaken individual instruction was given to the several linemen, and the large group of backs, tackles and ends engaged in an extensive skeleton scrimmage to enhance the overhead game. Aerials may prove the chief weapon of offense for the Middies, in view of the much-touted power of the Notre Dame line.

Middie Regiment Cheers.

There was much animation about Thompson Field when the gridders were in the thick of their workout, as the full complement of the regiment gathered in the stands and sang the songs and gave the yells and in general rehearsed stunts to be put on in Saturday's encounter. Spirit and enthusiasm was rife, and to old-timers here the scenes enacted were much like yesteryear, when the Tars were prepping for their supreme tests against the West Point Cadets.

Light practice will mark the final work tomorrow afternoon. The squad of half a hundred players will make the trip to Baltimore Saturday morning, leaving in a fleet of motor buses, the journey being timed so that they will reach the stadium with just sufficient time for the customary pre-game preliminaries. The game will get under way at 2 o'clock.

Racing Stable Bought At Pimlico for $120

Special to The Washington Post.

Pimlico Race Track, Nov. 12.—The calloused expression "sport of kings" took it on the chin here today when Ben Dorsey bought himself a racing stable for the sum of $120. Ben layed down two $50 bills and led away Splinters and Sport Royal at the paddocks sale here today and then added Vagabond King and Cordovan to his colors with an outlay of an additional $20.

Bidders recalled the sale at Laurel of Tony the Clown for $75, the horse, later in the day, taking third money of $150 in a plater race. Tony the Clown, now a jumper, won recently at the United Hunts meeting.

SZABO BUTTS HIS WAY TO VICTORY

By BOB CONSIDINE.

DAVID (back in the day when times were so hard a body couldn't afford a last name) once beat a punch-drunk Philistine named Joe "Kid" Goliath, logical contender for the world's heavyweight title, with a combination flying mare and sling-shot, and the act created so much talk it was forthright included in the Old Testament, thus establishing a precedent that has been followed pretty generally since. Continuing the theological discourse it might be well to bring in that Sandor Szabo last night disposed of Tiny Roebuck in much the same way.

Thirty-seven minutes and a few straggling seconds were absorbed in accomplishing the downfall of Mr. Roebuck. The final ring-buckling flying butt which sent tons of plaster falling in the lower auditorium, and stretched Mr. Roebuck out over a major portion of the ring, brought a gallery of 3,500 up on one another's feet, chiefly because Mr. Szabo weighs about 190 and Mr. Roebuck weighs 245.

David was the much more decisive pifformah. "One Shot" David was what the boys called him, behind his back; not so with Szabo. He labored mightily for long minutes and often grew faint as Roebuck, virtually swinging him by his heels, used him as a rug beater to dust off Mr. Turner's mat, knock the amperes out of the company's microphone, or to lash the agile legs of Umpire Cyclops Burns. Roebuck, to put it another way, led all the way. He was twice as strong, simply walked out of Szabo's best "holts" and spun his tiny adversary around much in the manner of an overworked top.

Szabo Performs an Arc.

As must have been the case in far-off Philistine, or Nigeria, or Boyle's Thirty Acres, the end came without warning. Szabo, badly dented and generally dissected by more than a half hour of legalized foul play, recuperated amazingly and dove through the air. Half way around the perfect arc he would have described, if he had not been interrupted, he came in contact with a large mass of yielding substance which Mr. Roebuck can identify as his middle, and with the Indian equivalent of "Oooooff!" Our Mr. Roebuck forsook all semblance of an upright gait.

Twice he tried to rise, only to find the cast-iron head of the Hungarian sunk deep into his innards. It was too much for Big Tiny. With a final asthmatic wheeze he flattened out and it was small matter for Szabo to sit on him until Umpire Burns said he was the 60 and Tiny was the 40 end of the Szabo-Roebuck purse.

Other results, with holds vouchsafed by the management: Steve Znoski defeated "Tigah" Nelson, 19 minutes, headlock; Chief White Feather defeated Bruce Hanson, 22 minutes, chin lock; Renato Gardini defeated Don DeLaun, 10 minutes, flying mare, and Mattress Kirilenko accounted for John "He Puffs and Blows" Katan in 39 and, lest we forget, one-half minute.

FRENCHMAN WINNER.

Paris, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The French heavyweight champion, Maurice Griselle, tonight knocked out the German, Jaspers, in the second round of a ten-round bout.

C. U. Seeking Sixth Win In Row

Whelan, Brubaker in Battle of Stars Is Foreseen.

FRIDAY, the 13th, holds no terrors for the Catholic University Football Team, which meets St. Francis, of Loretto, Pa., at Griffith Stadium tonight. Shooting for their sixth win in a row, the Cardinals today were a confident lot as they awaited battle.

When play is launched at 8:15 o'clock, C. U. will be making its only home-town arc-light appearance of the year. Having copped previous night contests from North Carolina State and Duquesne, "Dutch" Bergman's squadron will be striving for a perfect record in this competition.

Though losing to St. Vincent in an Armistice Day game at Latrobe, Pa., by 20 to 0, St. Francis is not underestimated by C. U. Because Catholic recently jolted Duquesne, a sectional rival, St. Francis would like nothing better than to smash through to victory.

Teams Hold Last Drills Under Lights.

Arriving here late yesterday, the "Red Flashes" were in prime physical fettle and ready to show their best front. Last night both St. Francis and Catholic U. frisked through final preparatory workouts under the lights at Griffith Stadium.

Most attention, from the standpoint of players and spectators, will be trained upon Tom Whelan, Catholic University's great half back, when the starting signal is given tonight. Having raced off 10 touchdowns in games played to date, he will be set to further widen the margin between himself and Lee Carlin, George Washington University's high scoring artist.

Assisting Whelan in his drive for recognition will be Johnny Oliver, diminutive quarter back, who is to return to the line-up after a period of inactivity caused by a lame left ankle. Having passed to Whelan for four touchdowns already this season, the aerial tossing wizard will give way to Charley McVean at the game's start but is to enter the competition before hostilities have progressed very far.

Two Changes in C. U. Line-Up.

Two changes in the Cardinals' starting line-up were decided upon last night. Bill Conter, 193-pound center, is to replace "Whitey" Ambrose, while Ray Howe returns to right end. Johnny Lyons started in the latter position against Manhattan last week.

Spreese Brubaker, St. Francis' right half back, will be closely watched by Catholic's defense. Formerly a standout with Western Maryland, the big fellow is expected to bear the brunt of his eleven's attack when the kick-off is signalled.

COURT LEAGUE QUITS.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The American Professional Basket Ball League, has definitely decided not to operate this season, President John J. O'Brien announced today.

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE young men who play for a price, keeping one eye on a floating punt and the other on next year's contract will show their wares at Griffith Stadium next year under the plan of Joe F. Carr, president of the National Professional Football League, to enfranchise a Washington team in 1932.

Professional football in the past five years has lifted itself out of the necessary evil class. Before Red Grange dared the wrath of Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois and cast his lot with the professionals, the pro game flourished chiefly in the coal mine districts and the college player who turned from the pursuit of higher learning to the pursuit of the pigskin on professional fields was regarded as a tramp athlete. They usually played under assumed names to mitigate the taint of their new-found profession.

Today the National Professional Football League is a highly respected organization numbering among its rosters scores of names that hogged the headlines in every section of the Nation when their owners were cavorting for the glory of alma mater and the quarterly interest on $1,000,000 stadia bonds.

Grange's entrance into paid ranks was the signal for hundreds of other college heroes to look forward to a professional football career at the close of their campus campaigns. Every one of the ten teams now in the National Professional League boasts a half dozen members whose college careers stamped them as drawing cards. Other lesser lights from the colleges were also attracted to the pro game. College players are now the rank and file of professional football.

Just why professional football should have been held in such low esteem in its infant days is easy to explain. College coaches were the greatest agitators against the growth of the sport. Prudish old men who had been athletics directors and coaches at certain institutions for so long that they believed the star players were beholden alone to their coaching wizardry, could not countenance this apparent prostitution of alma mater's glory. Football had no place off the campus; uninspired by alma mater's glory, the game degenerated into a battle of bruisers, they thought.

At the same time, college baseball coaches were pointing proudly to their former pupils who had made good in the big leagues. The Sewell boys, Joe and Luke, were the toast of Alabama. Holy Cross hung on Owen Carroll's every pitch. Fordham boasted of Frankie Frisch.

Professional football in Washington is calculated to make of the Capital a better football town. Washington has been witness to few good football teams. Colleges of national prominence, with the exception of Navy, have never been booked by Capital teams for home games. The city has been starved for good attractions and has earned the reputation of being a poor football town.

Professional football, with its Granges, Cagles, Friedmans, Strongs and the long array of supersars ought to make Washington football-conscious. The pro games should be a direct benefit to the colleges here as far as attendance is concerned. The pros, with their stars, will create interest in football where no interest was displayed before. It will make football fans for the city. And the colleges will reap a large share of the benefit.

Should the plan to place Washington in the National Professional League materialize, as is indicated, it should be a successful venture. The make-up of Washington fandom is comprised in a large part of fans from every section of the Nation. The Professional League will command local interest among them, featuring, as it does, college stars from virtually every prominent institution in every setion.

Washington weather is an added incentive for a league team here. The Capital is not subject, as a rule, to the early cold spells that cut down the attendance in the North and the West. The risk of bad weather would be smaller here than in any city in the league.

Steffen, Carnegie Tech Grid Coach, to Resign

Chicago, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Judge Walter Steffen tonight announced that he would resign at the end of the present season as football coach at Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh. Judge Steffen, who has "commuted" back and forth between Chicago and Pittsburgh for 18 years to handle the Carnegie squad in games, said he was "tired and had enough," in an address at the annual University of Chicago football banquet.

Steffen, a graduate of Chicago and one of its greatest football stars, said: "Football coaching is a tough game and I have had enough during the past eighteen years. Many times I have decided in the middle of a season that it would be my last. This time I mean it. I am going to retire to the stands and become a "second guesser."

Jacobs, Back in U. S., Awaits Dempsey Move

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, arrived here from Germany today, wondering and waiting, like others, on the intentions and desires of Jack Dempsey.

Jacobs said he would get in touch with the former champion immediately and learn if Dempsey really intends to make a comeback battle for the title. Schmeling's greatest ambition, he said, is to box Dempsey.

Jacobs insisted that Schmeling is under no contractual obligations and that his agreement with the Madison Square Garden expired September 30, 1931. He said Schmeling would arrive here next month, go on tour, and some time this winter box Mickey Walker, probably in Los Angeles.

Professors Must Realize Coaches Are Boss Publicity Men for Higher Learning

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Professors will continue to deplore the overemphasis of football. They consider themselves to be underpaid by comparison with the football coaches, and, to give them due credit, they sincerely believe that the physical side of education in the United States has been exaggerated at the expense of the intellectual. The coaches retort that they must make good or get out, implying that incompetent teachers in the intellectual departments may rock along undetected or unchallenged, in their incompetence for years.

This is not true, of course, but the failure of a coach is spectacular and public, and he must produce a higher degree of success to hold his job. Professors are not blamed for the inability of dumb students to learn what they try to teach, but the football coach is no more successful than the football students who are given into his charge. If they can't win, he loses.

But neither is it accurate to say that the physical side has been exaggerated at the expense of the intellectual. The exaggeration can not be disputed, but this very exaggeration has been a boon to the intellectual department of the teaching business, because football has been the greatest publicity dodge of the age. It has popularized college life and contributed greatly to the spread of that which is called education, thus providing jobs for professors and instructors.

The coaches have been, so to speak, the boss press agents for higher education, and a publicity man who can get results is worth his pay.

While they are doubting that the athletic side of education is worth the emphasis which it receives, the professors have never even considered that their own department might be overdeveloped, too. Yet they are turning out thousands of more or less educated subjects every year who are taught to expect that they will not have to delve or spin for their living because they are college-taught; save as engineers and boss farmers, supervising the work of uneducated laborers, they will not have to wear rough boots or overalls, and, of course, they will be well paid.

Entire Race Would Be White-Collar Type.

If carried to its logical conclusion, this program would produce a whole race of executives, technical experts and other white-collar types, and, with immigration cut off, nobody would be left to hew wood, draw water, drive trucks and carry hods. In fact, I believe they have eliminated the hod already and educated the hod carrier.

As matters stand, even now, the college degree is so commonplace that many college-taught football players who are discharged into the competition for jobs every year are very glad of the opportunity, recently developed, to play football for pay. Until a few years ago, the ex-college players who took the promoter's shilling were deemed to have fallen into a life of sin, and their old

Varsity at Old Sing Sing Makes Debut on Sunday

By LORENA A. HICKOK.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 12 (A.P.). The boys who would "die for dear old Sing Sing" are going to make their debut as a football team Sunday.

They are to meet the Naval Militia on Sing Sing's brand-new football field, and there will be a band on the sidelines and movie cameras up in the turrets where the sentries stand.

But let any of the spectators start thumbing their programs in search of the identity of "No. 32" who made that whale of a run for "good old jail," and all they'll find is just another number.

No Publicity for Stars.

For here is one football team whose back field stars won't be getting any personal publicity—not if they can help it. Warden Lewis E. Lawes agrees with them on this subject.

"Even if the prison rules permitted it, the men themselves wouldn't want it," he said today. "They don't want their pasts dug up."

So it will be just a set of numbers so far as the public is concerned Sunday afternoon—two numbers for each man, one on his jersey and one in the Sing Sing register.

The Sing Sing band, in which are a number of musicians who could play circles around the lads in any college band, will be playing "Anchors Aweigh" for the Naval Militia and possibly, if their enthusiasm should get up to that pitch, "Sing, Sing for Sing Sing."

Willing to Meet Police Team.

The Sing Sing team is being picked this week from two teams, the "blacks" and the "white," organized for scrimmage. It is being coached by some of the prisoners who have played football and by coaches lent by the New York Giants, Benny Friedman's professional football team. The squad is large, and there is plenty of good material, the warden said today.

Receipts from Sunday's game are to go to the unemployed, and after that the Sing Sing team will be open for engagements—including, Warden Lawes said today, the team of the Port Jervis (N. Y.) Police Department which, he understands, is looking for a date.

British Tars to Play Here Against D. C. Soccer Team

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

HIS majesty's ship Delhi, which docked at the Navy Yard yesterday, boasts one of the best soccer teams in the British naval service, and District fans will have two opportunities to watch them in action as the British United eleven has scheduled games with the sailors tomorrow and Sunday afternoons on the Monument Grounds.

The United eleven has been host to British ship teams twice before and each time the local eleven has been victorious in close games. However, in those matches the English tars were still wobbling on sea legs, but members of the Delhi have made shore on frequent occasions recently and by Sunday should give a good exhibition.

Manager Bill Castle, of the British United eleven, stated yesterday that he would have his full strength in the field for both contests. The games will start at 2:30 o'clock and will be refereed by George Youngblood unless the visitors have an official they wish to use, the privilege of visiting teams.

The Sunday game will cause the postponement of the United's league match with Bandywine, but all other Capital City League games will be played as scheduled. Incidentally, the British United will not play a league game next Sunday, as it is listed to meet the Newport News, Va., eleven here in the second round of the national amateur cup competition.

Columbia Heights will play Fort Myer on Monument Field, No. 1, Sunday, with Jack Caldwell refereeing, and Marlboro will play Gaithersburg at Marlboro, with Ed Krause calling the fouls. Rockville will be host to Rosedale, with Melly Carleton as the official, but whether this will be recognized as a league game or not depends on the action of the Capital City League at its meeting next Tuesday.

Rosedale was suspended because of a fracas on the Monument lot, but the Northeast lads appealed the decision to the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association and that body gave permission for Rosedale to play its scheduled game Sunday, but will not act finally on the appeal until Monday night.

Many followers of soccer, while not condoning the action of a few of the Rosedale players, think that the

PROWLER SCORES IN GALLOP IN PIMLICO STEEPLECHASE

Huffy Beaten 4 Lengths by Favorite

Tout Takes Opener; Flag Trick Wins Third Number.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 12. J. E. Widener's Prowler was best in the Catonsville Steeplechase, defeating Walter J. Salmon's Huffy by four lengths. John Bosley's Swansea finished third, fifteen lengths farther away, Argonaut lost his rider.

Soon after the start the contest settled down between Prowler and Huffy. H. Little restrained Prowler to the turn into the stretch, when the battle became a see-saw affair, but after crowding the final fence, Prowler drew away. Swansea was not quite as bad as the others, hence got third money. The field was reduced to seven starters, Ashthorpe being scratched just before the time limit. L. Sassa, rider of Huffy, went to the stand after the field returned to the scales, but there was no interference with the placing of the judges. The winner paid $3.70.

The program was without an outstanding feature, but the last two days of the meeting, with the $10,000 Walden for 2-year-olds tomorrow, and the $25,000 Riggs Saturday, will make amends for the card today.

Flag Trick Best in Third Race.

A. C. Schwartz's Flag Trick was best in the third race, a purse for 2-year-old fillies, and the field had the class on the other flat events of the card. This was a victory for Nertney, the star jockey, having finished second in the first race. S. W. Labrot's Boscobel was second, and she was beaten a length, Kilrane Stable's Diane de Portiers third, a nose in front of Playfole.

Boscobel set the early pace, the Kilrane filly second and Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Tryandagain third. The stretch run was contested closely among the leaders. The time of the race was 1:12 1-5. The winner paid $11.60.

Anne Arundel Scores at Long Odds.

Anne Arundel, paying the longest price of the first five races, scored in the fifth, Remillard up. She ran a nose finish with Nertney's mount, Salisbury, and Kadiak was third. Mud went out and made the pace to the first turn, with Salisbury at his heels, but quit and Salisbury found another fast one when Anne Arundel took the lead. It was nip and tuck through the stretch, but the filly got the decision. Mud finished fourth. The winner returned $35.40 for $2. They ran a mile and one-sixteenth in 1:46 3-5.

Charles Janusky's Sandwrack came from behind to win the third race for 2-year-olds by a length and a half. The Sagamore Stable's Starelius was second, a length and a half in front of the Cary T. Grayson filly, Bright Beauty. Of the twelve starters, a half dozen were confidently backed, and the winner, ridden by V. Roussell, paid $14.60. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:44 3-5.

The start, delayed several minutes, was good. Royal Past, in the field, led to the back stretch, with Starelius close up. It was Sandwrack and Starelius through the stretch, the Sagamore colt on the rail. Highest Point was fourth, closing fast. Horatia ran a poor race and was pocketed.

Stepping Sister Takes Sixth.

E. J. Booth's Stepping Sister won the sixth race, with N. Godfrey up. Southco was second and Jungle Boy third. Nertney closed fast on Southco, the favorite, but could not reach the filly, well out in front. Twelve platers went to the post and went away to a good start. Fator on Battering Ram was backed for a long shot, but disappointed. Brandon Rose, close to the leaders in the early pace, was never a contender after the half mile. The winner paid $9.90. The time was 1:45.

T. L. Evans' The Tout, which with Shasta Tiger and others of the cheap field of maidens delayed the start ten minutes, won the first race, with Ambrose up. Brown Sinner was second and Blue Banner third. The finish was close between the winner and second horse, Nertney's mount. Brown Sinner lost the lead to Tuscan Knight, regained it and was outrun in the stretch to the wire by a head. The winner paid $5.90. Time, 1:45 2-5.

Nertney Wins Two, Rides Four Seconds

Pimlico Race Track, Md., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Willie Nertney, the little apprentice jockey, who learned his lessons under Trainer Bud Stotler of the Sagamore Stable, again gave a brilliant exhibition of horsemanship as he dominated the racing program at Pimlico today.

Accepting a mount in each of the six races decided on the flat, Nertney won two races and placed second in the other four. His two winners—Flag Trick in the third and Gay Bird in the seventh—were outsiders in the betting, paying the respective prices of $11.60 and $35.40. In contrast his four second-place mounts were popular choices.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE TOUT, $5.90, $3.10, $2.30; BROWN SINNER, $3.70, $2.70; BLUE BANNER, $2.80.

THE TOUT, sluggish in reaching racing stride and outrun for the first six furlongs, secured racing room on the inside to reach contention rounding the far turn, was taken up to come around his field and, taking command in the final furlong, held BROWN SINNER safe. Latter, going forwardly from the start, held on well for the final drive. BLUE BANNER responded to punishment and continued gamely after dropping back leaving the back stretch. TUSCAN KNIGHT quit badly after going into an easy lead. BROWN MARY met with no mishaps. PETER BALLOT quit badly.

SECOND RACE—Two miles. Purse, $2,000; claiming. The Catonsville Steeplechase. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 1:49½. Off at 1:50. Winner, J. E. Widener's ch. g. (5), by Mont d'Or II—Clarabella. Trained by T. J. Donohue. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 3:47 2-5 (13 jumps).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PROWLER, $3.70, $2.50, $2.50; HUFFY, $2.70, $2.80; SWANSEA, $3.70.

PROWLER, steadied for the first turn of the field, went to the front when ready, was taken under mild restraint coming to the final fence and then drew out easily on the flat after the last jump. HUFFY, kept in the thick of contention from the beginning, raced RETALIATE into submission, made a strong effort at the last fence, but swerved badly to the inside and lost all chance. SWANSEA, restrained for a mile and one-half, reached the leaders at the twelfth fence, but was not good enough thereafter. RETALIATE had good speed for the first mile. PROOF POSITIVE and FARO were outrun. ARGONAUT lost his rider at the ninth fence when close to the pacemakers.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:26½. Off at 2:28. Winner, A. C. Schwartz's ch. f. (2), by Pennant—Trique. Trained by M. Hirsch. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:12 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLAG TRICK, $11.60, $5.10, $3.80; BOSCOBEL, $4.60, $3.20; DIANE DE POITIERS, $4.50.

FLAG TRICK, rated close to the leaders, responded with good speed when moving into the home stretch, swung to the outside of the faltering leaders and was going away at the end under severe pressure. BOSCOBEL, given a mild breathing spell rounding the turn, came determinedly for the closing test and outstayed LIANE DE POITIERS. Latter, vigorously ridden from the start, had a lot taken out of her and she weakened in the final furlong. PLAYFOLE was on the outside for the entire journey. REBUFF saved a lot of ground, but was not good enough when put to a drive. TRYANDAGAIN had no excuses. The others were outrun.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:57½. Off at 3:04½. Winner, C. Januska's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SAND WRACK, $14.60, $4.80, $4.00; STARELIUS, $3.60, $3.20; BRIGHT BEAUTY, $5.90.

SAND WRACK, hurried into a forward position, gained fast when challenging the leaders, bore over slightly inside the final furlong after taking command, and was driving clear slowly at the end. STARELIUS, kept close up, raced ROYAL PAST into defeat, met with slight interference during the final furlong when apparently beaten, and hung at the end. BRIGHT BEAUTY improved her position steadily, but hung after reaching the leaders. HIGHEST POINT worked his way up stoutly, but could not threaten the leaders. FLAMING MAMIE could not enter contention. I'LL GET BY raced well. POLYCRON was outrun. HORATIA was poorly ridden. CENTER MARCH stopped suddenly.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:36. Winner, S. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ANNE ARUNDEL, $35.40, $10.50, $7.10; SALISBURY, $3.70, $3.20; KADIAK, $6.00.

ANNE ARUNDEL, outrun to the first turn and breaking amongst the trailers, secured racing room on the inside when moving into contention, assumed command midway of the far turn, was placed to severe pressure and, withstanding a stout drive gamely, just lasted long enough. SALISBURY, in tight quarters between MUD and MAKE HASTE when racing down the back stretch, came with good courage after dropping back and, finishing fast, would have been winner in a few more strides. KADIAK, racing well placed early, finished stoutly. MUD, rushed hard from the start, faltered when put to a drive. MAKE HASTE was used up following the pace. FLY GUY was in tight quarters leaving the half-mile ground. PIPE DREAM stopped.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:09. Off at 4:10. Winner, E. J. Booth's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STEPPING SISTER, $9.50, $4.70, $4.40; SOUTHCO, $3.60, $3.30; JUNGLE BOY, $5.60.

STEPPING SISTER outran her field to the first turn, raced under mild urging until reaching the far turn, was shaken up and held on stoutly to stall off SOUTHCO. Latter began sluggishly, went to the outside when moving into contention, withstood a drive gamely, but faltered after getting to the winner. JUNGLE BOY, a stout factor from the start, continued with good courage to outstay AXENBY. Latter, hurried into a prominent position, reached the pacemakers when nearing the last turn, but hung badly in the closing test. BRANDON ROSE made up a lot of ground when securing racing room on the outside. BATTERING RAM was racing strongly at the end.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:48½. Winner, A. W. Abbott's br. g. (3), by Wrack—Gay Plumage. Trained by S. Judge. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:13 3-5, 1:40 1-5, 1:46 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GAY BIRD, $35.40, $12.50, $7.60; CHATTY, $10.50, $6.60; STAR CREST, $8.10.

GAY BIRD, racing in greatly improved form, and going along in the thick of contention from the start, displaced the leaders when entering the home stretch and held on stoutly to stall off CHATTY. Latter, badly outpaced for seven furlongs, slipped through on the inside entering the home stretch and finished full of run. STAR CREST, favored by improved handling, came with good speed for the final test. EAGER PLAY, a distant trailer in the early running, closed an immense gap. CHICSIU was used up racing with TEWSENELDA and tired. POLYDOROUS, forwardly placed, lost ground the entire trip. FERVID finished with good courage.

ALEXANDRIA FIVE HAS STARS

Columbia Firefighters Sign Colliflower and Others.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 12.—Robert McDonald, manager of the Columbia Firefighters basket ball team, stated today he had signed Eliet Cabell, Bussey Brenner, Buddy Zimmerman, Les McMenamin, Billy Travers and Eddie Colliflower to perform for his team this season.

A workout for the boys was held at Armory Hall last night. The team showed much class, despite the fact that it was the initial drill. The firemen will meet the leading unlimited fives of Washington and vicinity here this winter.

Shorty Scrivener, manager of the Praters football team, has the Marion A. C., of Washington, invading this city for a Capital City League game Sunday.

Gordon Kessler, former U. of Maryland quarter back, is coach of the Marions. He hopes to hand the Praters their first defeat in league competition.

Bobby Darley's Columbias defeated the Washington Cardinal basket ball team last night, 25-8. Kersey and Brenner starred.

MERIDIAN QUINT MEETS.

The Meridian 130-pound basket ball team is looking for a big butter and egg man to attend to the team's financial affairs during the coming season and, incidentally, furnish a little capital to get the ball rolling. A meeting of the club will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at 904 Twelfth street northeast. Russell, Fontana and Connelly are particularly requested to attend, along with any new candidates for the squad.

D. C. MAN NAMED.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Carl Hunt, Washington, D. C., was elected president of the National Fox Hunters Association. He is an official of the American Red Cross. A. C. Rolfe, Richmond, Va., was elected a vice president.

VICTORY SEEN FOR G. U. WITH SQUAD KEYED TO HIGH PITCH

Reserve Strength Is Greater; Stanley in Back Field.

By JACK ESPEY.

ENJOYING improved physical condition, an increased number of capable reserves and a fighting spirit that brooks no resistance if practice scrimmages mean anything, the luckless Georgetown University Football Team promises to bring an end to the period of depression in Hilltop gridiron fortunes tomorrow when the Mountaineers come down from West Virginia University to do battle with the Blue and Gray in Griffith Stadium.

This Georgetown eleven has been down, as the saying goes, and, in the writer's opinion, it will take the occasion tomorrow to prove beyond doubt that it is not out. It is keyed to a new high pitch of enthusiasm—a feeling that is remarkable in the light of bad breaks it has suffered—and that simple fact alone augurs a mighty attempt to return to the win column at the expense of its "home-coming game" opponent.

Aim to Vindicate Coach Mills.

Georgetown has had enough of defeats and ties, a number of failures gigantic in comparison with its losing average in years past, while it also has a burning desire to gratify its coach, the tireless, indomitable Tommy Mills. From prima donna to lowliest substitute, the players want to vindicate Mills as well as themselves, all of whom the skeptics and "fair-weather" supporters have subjected to a painful panning in recent weeks.

As far as "dope" is concerned, Georgetown has no better chance to beat West Virginia than it did Bucknell, a team which registered the fourth defeat that has smeared the Hilltop record of 1931. But the caliber of the opposition does not mean a thing to Mills and his doughty band.

It is the spirit rather than the more tangible qualities of the Hilltoppers that has convinced us of Georgetown's present formidability. Personally, we wouldn't care to be subjected to the fire we anticipate as the Mountaineers' greeting. And as football people know, a team that has been beaten and comes back fighting is far more dangerous than one that is fortunate enough to escape defeat.

Stanley Provides Team With Kicker.

But there are, regardless of its attitude, some facts that stand in Georgetown's favor, the consideration of which from a nonpartisan viewpoint leads to the conclusion that the Blue and Gray will be stronger tomorrow than at any time since it stopped the winning streak of Western Maryland on October 3.

Outstanding is the fact that the Hilltoppers will have a fine kicker in the game in the person of Mack Stanley, sophomore right half back. Stanley heretofore has been in the background, nursing injuries, but is ready to do duty now as a starting player and afford his team the advantages of kicks which combine accuracy with length. Until he saw service part time last week, Georgetown was always handicapped for lack of a proficient kicker, a situation emphasized in games with Duquesne, Michigan State and Boston College.

Secondly, Mills has able reserves for every position in the line-up, and due to the notable improvement of Johnny Shimmins, substitute full back, the latter will replace the veteran Leroy Bordeau. This gives the team a smart, speedy back to participate in the defense for West Virginia's famed passing attack, while at the same time it leaves available a hardy line plunger who may be rushed into action when a few yards are necessary to success.

Furthermore, for the first time in two weeks Bernie Donoghue, clever left half back, should be in tip-top physical condition after a siege of injuries and illness. It was evident in practice yesterday that Donoghue is again the tricky runner and the reliable passer that made him so valuable in earlier contests.

D. C. SOCCER TEAM TO MEET BRITISH

punishment was a little too drastic. It is thought that the week's suspension is sufficient.

An interesting sidelight on the Rosedale mix-up in the British United game brings out a good argument for boxing. Henry Irving, the promising and coming local heavyweight boxer, is a member of the Rosedale eleven and, although fists were flying freely, the one person on the field who could no doubt throw them better than anyone else, Henry Irving, refused to do so and attempted to quiet his more belligerent teammates. This was in the official report of Melly Carleton, the referee.

Federal Court Teams Will Meet Tonight

Vic Gauzza, president of the Departmental Baseball League, and Earle Moser, sports editor of the Federal News, Government weekly, will preside over a meeting tonight at the Vic Sport Shop for the purpose of organizing a Federal basket ball league.

Preliminary details will be discussed by pilots of the Census Enumerators, Union Printers, G. P. O., Army War College, Bolling Field, Fort Myer, Census Federals and Naval Air Station.

Representatives of other Federal departments planning cage fives are also invited to attend the confab. It is expected that the proposed circuit will follow the general rules used by the Departmental and Government Baseball Leagues.

MERIDIANS TO DRILL.

The Meridian gridmen, who meet the Northern Preps Sunday, will drill tonight at Georgia avenue and Upshur street at 730 o'clock.

Hitting the Head Pin

WASHINGTON and Bergmann's Laundry teams swept their sets in the Laundrymen's League matches rolled at Recreation last night. Vogue Cleaners and Ambassador were left with nothing to show for their efforts. Manhattan copped the other match, winning by one game from Bergmann's Maryland division. Dornish, of Washington, won high game honors with 136, and a teammate, Sparks, turned in the high set of the evening with a 343 total.

Lucky Strike defeated the Fountain Hams in the odd game at Lucky Strike last night in a District League match, thanks to some good work by Brad Mandley. The Luckies won the first tilt, 592 to 573, dropped the second, 596 to 601, and won the third, 571 to 553. Astor Clark turned in a 387 set for the Hams, but to no avail. The victory materially improved the team's standing in the league.

As if not satisfied with their work both Mandley and Clarke participated in the National Capital League match between the National Pale Drys and Farnan's Bowling Shoes immediately after the conclusion of their District League activities. Rolling for the Pale Drys, Mandley clicked off another 362 set and Clarke dropped four pins for a 383 total. The latter had games of 112, 139 and 132. Mandley rolled 128, 108 and 126. Al Fischer, of Farnan's, stole his contemporaries' thunder, however, when he dusted 'em off for a game of 163 and 408 set.

G. T. Steuart, a member of the Steuart Motors team, and Duke, of Skinker Motors, garnered the individual honors in the Automotive League matches rolled at Lucky Strike. The former hit the wood for a 331 set, and his partner in crime marked up a high game of 132. H. B. Leary captured team honors with its 538 game and 1,531 set.

Miss Bateman and her Securities teammates occupied the spotlight in the Public Debt Girls League at Lucky Strike last night. Miss Bateman's game of 119 and set of 301 established her as the leading bowler of the night. Her mates also came in for a share in the glory with a team game of 479 and set of 1,401, the highest in this respect.

The Palace aggregation, in the Transportation Building Ladies loop, walked off with the honors at Lucky Strike. The team scored high game of 483 and high set of 1,355. Miss Shaw, of Barristers, was the individual star with her game of 105 and set of 302.

Veterans' Administration had its lead in the Ladies Federal League reduced to a single game by an energetic Marine combination at Arcadia. Interstate continued on the heels of the leaders by tripping Agriculture for the odd game, and Treasury assumed undisputed possession of third place by whitewashing Economics. The other matches resulted in clean sweeps for Labor and War Department over Commerce Comets and G. P. O. The quarrel in the Commerce family ended with a 2-1 settlement in favor of Commrce. The Juniors took the drubbing. Internal Revenue shutout Mines and G. A. O. won the odd game from Census. Helena Kohler and Elsie Romero finished in a deadlock for the high game honors with scores of 131, but Miss Kohler won the set honors handily by virtue of her 320 game. Lucille Preble contributed a 314 set to give her opponent a run for her money.

With the passing of Armistice Day the War Department Leaguers went back to their guns with a vigor that bespoke the outbreak of a new conflagration. Homan, of Hydrographics, rang the bell with his game of 150 and Bell, of Constructioneers, toppled the maples for a 358 set. High team game was awarded to the Auditors by virtue of their 582 effort, and set honors were won by Hydrographic with its 1,627. Some of the results were: Constructioneers, 2; Howitzers, 1; Frankies, 3; Barbettes, 0; Adjutants, 2; Officers, 1.

Parker increased its lead in the Masonic League by taking West Gate over the jumps for all three at Convention Hall. No outstanding scores were recorded, much to the discomfiture of the official scorer.

All matches in the Valuation Examiner's League, rolled at Convention Hall, were decided by the odd game last night. Costs nosed out Recapture, Depreciation gained the decision over Finance, and Income upset Investment. Regan, of Costs, was the star of the proceedings with his 127 game and 343 set.

A quartet of shut-outs were marked up in the Petroleum League matches rolled at Columbia. J. Edward Chapman, Gulf Refining, Standard Oil and Crew Levick were the winners. American Oil, Tidewater Oil, Lord Baltimore and Texas were left out in the cold. Some of the games were decided by small margins. Standard took the final tilt from Lord Baltimore by a score of 523 to 522, while Gulf Refining's margin of victory in its second game with Tidewater was exactly two pins. Standard captured team game and set honors by virtue of its 535 game and 1,556. Weissner, of Lord Baltimore, garnered individual honors with his game of 127 and set of 327.

The loss of a pair of games to Princeton dropped Michigan into a tie for the leadership of the Intercollegiate League with Maryland last night. The Old Liners stocked Cornell for a 2-to-1 victory. V. M. I. gained a three-game triumph over Brown, V. P. I. forfeited to Yale, Dartmouth trimmed Lehigh, 2 to 1, and Harvard forfeited its set to Navy. Maryland registered high team set for the night, 1,640, and also high game of 552. Burns, of the same team, captured individual honors with a game of 139 and set of 376.

Temple, through no fault of its own, gained a 2-to-1 decision over Columbia in a District League match rolled at Columbia. The winning team's scores were 613, 572 and 561. Columbia registered games of 558, 598 and (of all things!) 514. Boston, of Columbia, collected 394 pins for his three games to lead "Reds" Megaw by four. The latter was first with the game mark, however, and his 150 took the prize.

Peoples Drug Stores and the Daily News continued in their deadlock for the leadership of the Commercial League by winning their matches by 2-to-1 scores at Convention Hall last night. The Druggists downed the Occidental Hotel lads and the News crew whipped Wonder Bread. The Evening Star bested Diamond Cab by the odd game, Sterritt Operating Service swept its set with Woodward & Lothrop, and Times-Herald defeated Carry's Ice Cream, 2 to 1, in the other matches rolled. Russell Kilby, Evening Star ace, knocked down a 359 set to aid his team in compiling a 1,665 total for the three games.

Nancy Usilton Gains School Tennis Finals

Nancy B. Usilton advanced to the final round in the tennis championship of the Washington School of Physical Education by defeating Betty Peats, in straight sets yesterday. Caroline Curtin and Maxine Buzzard will meet in a semifinal match today to decide Miss Usilton's opponent.

The field hockey team representing the school, will go to Baltimore today to witness the match between the visiting Scottish team and the All-Baltimore aggregation. Thirty girls in all will make the trip.

Agua Caliente Seeks Schmeling and Walker

Agua Caliente, Lower California, Mexico, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Offer of an arena seating 60,000 persons in which to stage a heavyweight championship fight between Max Schmeling, the German titleholder, and Mickey Walker, was made today by the Agua Caliente Jockey Club.

LANDON WINS FRAY FROM BUSINESS

Stenogs, Outplayed, Lose, 25-7; Baker, Secombe Shine.

LANDON SCHOOL concluded one of the most successful gridiron seasons in the school's history by roundly trouncing Business High by a score of 25 to 7 on the Tidal Basin Field yesterday. The Stenographers were completely outplayed by the prep school eleven.

Landon broke the ice in the first period when Riley blocked Myers' punt and fell on the ball behind the goal for a touchdown. Business had been driven back by Landon's sturdy line until the ball was almost on the final line. The eventual winners inaugurated a drive in the succeeding quarter that carried the ball to their opponent's 3-yard line. Baker plunged the remaining distance for the score.

Business Scores On Pass.

Business opened up with a forward-passing attack in the third period that put Landon on the run. A 35-yard heave by Strasser, which was caught by Myers behind the goal line, climaxed the drive. Myers rushed the ball over for the extra point. Landon was held scoreless in this period, but came back with a will in the final to score a pair of 6-pointers. Secombe's 40-yard dash to a touchdown after intercepting a pass featured the play in this time. Baker plunged over for second marker of the day.

Yesterday's victory gives Landon a record of three wins, two ties and one loss for the season. The only game lost was dropped to the strong St. James eleven, of Hagerstown.

Loughran Favored To Defeat Paulino

Boxing Master and Rugged Basque Meet Tonight in Garden.

New York, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Tommy Loughran, who can box but can't hit, and Paulino Uzcudun, who can hit but can't box, are paired in Jimmy Johnston's initial show at Madison Square Garden which will make the formal opening of the winter boxing season tomorrow.

The betting odds are variously quoted at from 7 to 5 on Loughran to even money. And if Paulino is an even money shot against Loughran, then Notre Dame's football team should be no better than an even choice against Princeton.

Loughran unquestionably is the cleverest of modern boxers with his skill earning him ranking as an outstanding contender for Max Schmeling's world championship. Paulino, even before he slipped back to the class of a second rater, never made a pretense of being a boxer. Unorthodox, awkward, slow and clumsy, the sturdy Basque's only claim to ring fame was based solely on ruggedness. Probably no man in the ring can take more punishment than Paulino. Perhaps, as he claims, Paulino would have the endurance to defeat any available rival in a finish fight, but endurance and ability to take punishment do not make a fighter a worthy opponent for Tommy Loughran over the 10-round route.

BLOCK SELLS NEWARK TO YANKEES

Club Bought Outright for Investment and Farm.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The "chain" system, once frowned upon by baseball's elect but now regarded as an invaluable adjunct to a pennant winning club, received an important convert today with the announcement the New York Yankees had purchased the Newark Bears of the International League, lock, stock and barrel.

The deal, announced by Paul Block, owner of the Bears since 1927, was confirmed by Col. Jacob Ruppert, wealthy owner of the Yankees, who long has been an ardent admirer of the baseball clearing house conducted by the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I have purchased the Newark club 100 per cent," said Col. Ruppert. "We consider it a fine deal, not alone from the baseball angle, but as a real estate investment."

First Real Yankee "Farm."

Although the Yankees for several years have been "friendly" with such clubs as Hollywood, St. Paul and Jersey City, the Bears are the first team of which they have acquired complete control. The purchase price was not announced. Block, a prominent publisher, bought the club at a receiver's sale for $520,000.

Acquisition of the Newark club, which finished a strong second to Rochester in the last International League race, promises to prove an ideal arrangement for the Yankees. They will be able to shuttle reinforcements back and forth across the Hudson River in record time. Two Yankees, Dusty Cooke and Gordon Rhodes, spent part of last season with Newark.

Whether Al Mamaux, veteran pitcher, will be retained as the Newark pilot has not been decided. He is the third to try his hand at managing the Bears under the Block regime, both Walter Johnson and Tris Speaker having held the reins with varying success.

Mamaux Unlikely to Stay.

Although he made a fine showing the past season, Mamaux has never been connected with the Yankees and for that reason is not considered a likely choice.

TECH ELEVEN ROUTS EASTERN BY 33-6

Rhodes, bedecked in his broken-nose guard, kicked the goal.

Eastern was held for downs in midfield after the kick-off midway in the second period, and Tech moved forward once more. With 1 yard to go for a first down, on Eastern's 20-yard line, and the Eastern Team bunched together to resist a play through the line, Oehmann passed beautifully over the goal line to Wohlfarth, and Rhodes kicked another point.

Meikeljohn Paves Way for Score.

Tech's ball-hawking end, Al Meikeljohn, paved the way for the third touchdown by retrieving one of Edwards' punts on the Eastern 3-yard line after Boyd juggled the ball. Gormley bucked the ball across and Rhodes added his third perfect placement for 21-0. It was all the scoring Tech could do in the third period, for Mades recovered Edwards' fumble on Tech's 35-yard line, but his team could do nothing about it.

Wohlfarth's block of Boyd's kick gave Tech a ripe opportunity to score midway in the last period, as Meikeljohn recovered for his team on the 5-yard line. Sachs rammed it across, and Rhodes missed. Then Paul Oehman, on a spirited pass from Brinkman, raced 50 yards to a thrilling touchdown to boost Tech's total to 33-0, where it rested, while Eastern salvaged some of the game's glory with its garrulous finishing touch.

Central-Western Meet For Runner-up Honors

The ninth, and next to last game of the high school series, will bring together Central and Western this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Central Stadium in what is annually the most bitterly fought game of the schoolboy year. Second place in the series standings hinges on today's game, since both teams are batting .666 behind Tech's league-topping 1.000.

If there is an edge to give today, Western should get it. It has, with the acquisation of Jim Draper and Turk Teehan, the hardest driving and running back field in the series, and a substantial line to back it up. Central was hurt rather badly by scholastic failures, but will put a first-rate team on the field today, one with supporters who are willing to give 3-to-1 that the Blue and White will duplicate last year's victory over Western.

The patch-work Central team, which performed creditably against Business last week, will hold sway again today with the exception of Graham, who has been shifted from end to full back. Chief ball-carrying duties again will be handed to Frank Cumberland, quarter back, who, if he can shake himself of a bad fumbling habit, should keep Central in the game, aided by his kicking and passing.

Capital City League Awaits Dixie Pigs-Gunners Clash

Lead at Stake in Game at Seat Pleasant Sunday; Fraters Meet Marions at Alexandria; 2 Other Games.

THE leadership of the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League will be at stake Sunday when the Seaman Gunners invade Seat Pleasant for a tussle with Bob Myers' Dixie Pigs. The Gunners took it flush on the chin at Alexandria last Sunday, losing to the Fraters by a score of 25-6, while the Dixies were holding the Marions to a scoreless deadlock to pull up on even terms with the Gobs.

The Gunners emerged from the fray with the Fraters in good physical condition and will have their full strength available for Sunday's game. No casualties were reported after the Dixie-Marion battle and the squad should be in good shape for the all-important fray. Roberts, Young, Herr and Pierce, are likely choices to start in the back field for the Sailors. Myers probably will use Cannon, Cady, Bell and Radtke behind the line. Cady, commonly referred to as "Ten Yard," was lacking several yards of his title last week, and should he find the going as tough again this Sunday, Woodward may replace him.

Seamen to Guard Passes.

Forward passes, especially those tossed by their own backs, will be carefully guarded by the Seamen, and only a few, if any, will be used. The first two Frater touchdowns were scored by players who intercepted passes.

The Fraters will parade their record of having escaped unbeaten against all District teams this season before the Marions, and if Dame Fortune even cracks a semblance of a grin at the Southeast boys they are liable to smear their foes. The list of injured, which looked like the French debt to Coach Kessler last week, is gradually diminishing and the team's pilot hopes to have many of his best players back in uniform for the game. The Marions are putting their faith, and some of their money, on Paul Bergling, an elusive half back, who last week almost brought grief to the Dixies. Bergling will be supported by Dick Hughes and Hoff. It may be possible that big Aubrey Southworth may be available for action. Southworth was injured several weeks ago and has not played since.

Cabell, Crupper, Sutton Carry Ball.

Cabell, Crupper, Sutton and company will attend to the ball carrying for Schriver's charges. These boys are numbered among the best in the business in local amateur circles and should provide their guests with plenty of excitement.

The Mercury-St. Stephen's fray and the Del Ray-Brookland game will also bristle with action. The former two are age-old rivals and will be out for blood. Del Ray will be on equal footing with the Brookland aggregation and with a chance to climb in the race afforded it, the club may surprise.

Apaches and Celtics Ready; Protest Hearing Due Tonight

WHILE the Apaches and Celtics are taking their final workouts tonight for Sunday's clash at Griffith Stadium, South Atlantic League officials will be hearing the protest of the Irvington Club of Baltimore on last Sunday's 19-6 victory of the Mohawks.

The Hawks are charged with using Leon Fouts, George Washington University player, in violation of the league rule which prohibits the use of players performing in collegiate ranks this season.

If the protest is upheld, the Mohawks will forfeit the game and a portion of their share of the gate receipts. The reversing of the decision would tie the Mohawks with the Celtics and Irvingtons, making the championship race wide open.

Much at Stake in Game.

Regardless of the protest, there is much at stake in the Celtic-Apache clash Sunday. The winner will remain in the running with a defeat marking the second for the beaten team which virtually means elimination.

The Apaches will not have Tony Plansky, former Georgetown star, Manager Seymour Hall said last night. The giant back is on the eligibility list, but Hall says his name is there only in case his services can be obtained later.

However, the game should not lack in star players. The Apaches will be looking to Chessy Antos, who ran wild for Boston College against Georgetown last year. Antos, lacking practice, showed up brilliantly in the Apache-Mohawk game, and with two weeks of drilling, plus a scrimmage, behind him, the clever back should be in top form Sunday.

The Celtics will be depending on Moore, the "No. 37" who galloped through the 1930 champions in the first game and will be benefited by the return of Les McMenniman and his long punts. It was the lack of capable kicking that brought about the 8-6 defeat of the Celtics by the Mohawks.

Both Teams Boast Expert Passer.

If Sunday's game develops into a passing battle some spectacular play is assured. The Apaches have Gene Murphy, expert forward passer, while Joe Sweeney gives the Celtics a capable manager of the air forces.

Both teams possess strong lines. The Apaches have bolstered their front wall by the return of Jerry Carroll and Moose Mosko, who turned in a great job against the Hawks. The Celtics' chief strength this season has been in the forwards. Moore, Coblentz, Weinstock and the others will be ready to battle every inch of the way.

C. U. Representatives To Broadcast Tonight

Representatives of Catholic University will speak on football from two radio stations here tonight. Tom Whelan and Johnny Oliver, half backs of the Catholic University eleven, will talk at Station WOL at 5:15 p. m., while Joe Holman, publicity man for the university athletic department, will give a forecast of the week-end games at Station WJSV at 7:45. Holman is "pinch hitting" for Coach Dutch Bergman, who at the time will be engaged with the Catholic-St. Francis game in Griffith Stadium.

U. S. Team in Japan Wins as Natives Cheer

Maebashi Gumma, Japan, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—The barnstorming team of major league baseball stars today defeated an all-Japan team, 14 to 1, behind the eight-hit pitching of Larry French, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, but the Japanese fans got one chance to cheer when Saburo Miyatake, one of the two Japanese pitchers used, slammed out a three-bagger.

The batteries—United States All Stars, French and Muddy Ruel; all-Japan, Tsuji, Miyatake and Kuji.

NORTHERN CLUB MEETS.

The first meeting of the reorganized Northern Athletic Club will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Ted Otte, 5213 Georgia avenue northwest. The organization of a basketball team and plans for a dance to be held will be brought up for discussion. All members and any candidates for the club are requested to attend.

YANKS RELEASE REESE.

New York, Nov. 12 (A.P.).—Jimmy Reese, utility infielder of the New York Yankees for two years, today was released to the St. Paul Club, of the American Association, in part payment for infielder Jack Saltzgaver, who will report to the Yankees in the spring.

WILSON CHURCHMEN PLAY.

The Wilson Avenue Baptist Church basket ball team will open its season tonight playing the 145-pound Mosean quint at 9 p. m., at Langley Junior High. Colbert, Etter, Beach, Hudgins, Van Pelt, Welles, Westburg, Dunbar, and the Bowie brothers will perform for the church team. The Wilson aggregation will play its first game in the Church League Monday.

LITTLE HAWKS BOOKING.

The Mohawk 125-pound football team is seeking a game with a strong opponent in its class for Sunday. Teams interested should call Manager Wilson at Columbia 0092.

ST. JOHN AND GONZAGA BATTLE

Purple Favorite in Clash Today at Ball Park.

THE prep school football championship of Washington will be decided forthright this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at Eastern Stadium, when Gonzaga and St. John's hook up in their thirteenth annual game, in which Gonzaga is favored to wipe out a 15-to-0 defeat suffered at the hands of the Saints last year at Griffith Stadium.

The greatest team of Gonzaga football players since the halcyon days of Bozek, Sweeney, Genau, Collier and Tobin will find the Saints just another name on its impressive list of victories today if it clicks in the manner it has clicked against Western, Eastern, Business and Georgetown Prep. Only one defeat marks the hefty Gonzaga Team's escutcheon this year, and that a pardonable one at the hands of the ponderous Swavely Prep Team.

Scanlon Leads Saints.

St. John's, on the other hand, has been laboring through the season with one of its lightest and most inexperienced squads in years. Its backfield is held together by Mike Scanlon, a rip-snorting son of Erin. He should be aided in no small way by Frank McCarthy, who has been out on scholastic failure, and John McCarthy, whose punting should pull the team out of many a hole.

Gonzaga has everything this year. In Ernest Viau and Joe Keegin it has two of the hardest and shiftiest runners in high school ranks here, and a crackerjack passing combination in the Mills twins, Joe and Carly.

Its line is big and willing.

St. John's.	Position.	Gonzaga.

Gomer Faces McKenna On Alexandria Program

Charles Gomer, of Baltimore, has replaced Bobby Burns as the opponent of Sailor McKenna, local lightweight, on the Day Nursery benefit fight program scheduled for next Monday night in Alexandria. Burns sustained an injury to his right eye in a fight with Tony Falco at Reading, Pa., last Monday night and will be unable to resume boxing for two weeks.

Gomer, according to reports, is more of a puncher than Burns, whom he has twice beaten on decision. Gomer also holds a knockout victory over Clarence Sloat, another Baltimorean whose slugging proclivities are well known to Capital ring fans.

Negotiations are said to be under way to match Dick Welsh, of Norfolk, conqueror of Billy Landers, with Rosey Stoy, Lancaster, Pa., featherweight for the headline bout in the second Day Nursery show late this month. Welsh recently defeated Nick Antonelli, of Washington.

Next Monday's feature bout will find Billy Schwartz, Alexandria lightheavyweight, opposed by Sammy Weiss, of Philadelphia. Both this and the Gomer-McKenna semifinal are listed for eight rounds.

Syracuse and Colgate Alumni Follow Game

The alumni of Syracuse and Colgate Universities will hold a joint smoker tomorrow from 2 to 5 p. m. at the Racquet Club while listening to a telegraphic description of the game between the football teams of the two institutions.

The schools have been meeting on the gridiron since 1894 and an intense rivalry exists between them. Colgate triumphed in last year's battle, but "Vic" Hansen's undefeated Orange team is believed to have a good chance of winning tomorrow's game. James M. Fassett, president of the Colgate Alumni in this city, is arranging for the smoker. He is being assisted by Harry C. Robb, jr., George F. Kern, Ernest Bryan and E. L. Yates, Syracuse alumni.

DENIES CHARITY OFFER.

George J. Adams, executive secretary of the District committee on employment, in a statement last night denied he had accepted an offer of a percentage of the gate receipts of a six-day bicycle race, which is scheduled at the Washington Auditorium for a week, beginning December 27. It had been reported that an offer of 25 per cent of the first day's receipts of the race had been made by one of its officials.

Indian Spring Women Bow to Service Golfers

The women's golf team of the Army and Navy Country Club scored a surprise 8½-to-½ victory over the Indian Spring women's team yesterday afternoon over the Army and Navy course. The combination of Mrs. Betty Meckley and Mrs. Tom Moore was the only team of the visitors able to score.

Mrs. Shock and Mrs. Osborne accounted for Mrs. Meckley and Mrs. Moore, 2½ to ½, while Mrs. Hedrick and Mrs. Holtzman and Mrs. Barroll and Mrs. Luscombe won 3-0 victories over Mrs. Gross and Mrs. Hedt and Mrs. Holland and Mrs. W. E. Smith, respectively.

It gave the Army and Navy team a record of six wins and five losses for the year. They will play Indian Spring at Indian Spring in their final match of the year.

CAROLINA COACHES AID.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 12 (A. P.).—Gov. O. Max Gardner, expressing the desire that a committee of coaches be formed as a branch of his council on unemployment relief, has asked the coaches of North Carolina colleges to meet with him here Monday to consider plans for post-season charity football games.

Special Bus Line Asked for Pupils

Massachusetts Avenue Extension Is Ordered by Public Utilities.

To provide a special bus service for school pupils and teachers, an extension of the Massachusetts avenue bus line of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. was ordered yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission effective next Monday.

Twice each school day, in the morning and in the afternoon, the bus line will follow this extended route: South on Wisconsin avenue from Fessenden street to Albemarle street, thence west to Murdock Mill road, or River road and Wisconsin avenue, returning via Wisconsin avenue to Ellicott and Forty-third streets to the point of beginning.

The extended bus line will serve a half dozen schools in the triangle covered. Its time will be adjusted to the convenience of the teachers and patrons.

NATIONAL RADIATOR CORPORATION
NOTICE TO CREDITORS

Pursuant to the provisions of an order of the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania entered October 23rd, 1931, in the cause therein pending entitled "Rudolph B. Flersheim, Charles O. Cornell, John B. Waters and Frank B. Cahn, as the Reorganization Committee constituted under the Plan and Agreement dated February 11, 1931, for the Reorganization of National Radiator Corporation, Complainants, against National Radiator Corporation, Defendant," in Equity No. 2558, and similar orders entered by courts of other Districts wherein are pending causes similarly entitled and ancillary to said cause in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania, all creditors of National Radiator Corporation, the defendant in said causes, are hereby required to file duly sworn written statements of their respective claims against said Corporation with the undersigned Receivers appointed by said United States District Court, at their office in Johnstown, Pa., on or before December 31, 1931. Such statements of claims among other things, shall set forth the nature of the claim, the amount thereof, the amount and nature of any security or lien held by the claimant or to which the claimant is or claims to be entitled, and also any claim to preference or priority in payment to any other creditors of said Corporation. Pursuant to the further provisions of said order, all persons, firms, associations and corporations who shall fail so to file their statements or demands against the defendant corporation with the Receivers, on or before said date, shall be forever barred and foreclosed from making or asserting any claim against National Radiator Corporation and from participating in the assets or property of said Corporation or the proceeds thereof, except upon the further order of the Court herein granted and entered for due cause shown, upon proper application.

ALICE DEAL SCHOOL DEDICATED BEFORE AUDIENCE OF 800

CONSTRUCTION DESIGN IS OF OLD COLONIAL

C. W. Eliot and Dr. Ballou Are Speakers at Forest Hills Ceremony.

Situated on a summit overlooking Forest Hills, Chevy Chase, Friendship and North Cleveland Park, the Alice Deal Junior High School, named after the teacher who was instrumental in launching the junior high school system in Washington, was dedicated last night in the presence of more than 800 parents and citizens of the four communities.

This new school is one of two junior high schools to be dedicated this week. The other is the Eliot Junior High at Eighteenth and B streets northeast which will be dedicated tomorrow night.

Co'onial in Design.

Colonial in design, built of brick with decorative trimmings of white, the new Alice Deal School is another example of the finest that can be put in modern school construction, taking its place alongside of other junior high schools in the District. It is designed so that it can be enlarged at any time. The chief drawback to the school at present, as Assistant Engineer Commissioner H. L. Robb pointed out last night, are inadequate road facilities. He added that it is the hope of District officials to remedy this situation as quickly as time and money will permit.

The exercises were distinct in arrangements to other dedications this week in that presentation of keys and unveiling of pictures were absent from the program. Besides Maj. Robb the speakers were Charles W. Eliot 3d, director of planning for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission; Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools; J. Francis Moore, of the Chevy Chase Citizens Association; Lieut. Comdr. F. L. Santoz, of the Forest Hills Citizens Association; officers of the Friendship Citizens Association, and Miss Bertie Backus, principal of the new school. Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, member of the Board of Education, presided.

Mr. Eliot spoke of the new school as another step toward the contemplated development of school and park centers throughout the city. He told of similar developments planned for the sections south of Massachusetts avenue, east of Connecticut avenue, and south of Tilden street, with the objective of supplying recreational facilities to both adults and children.

Dr. Ballou, who furnished the necessary impetus to launch the junior high school system in Washington, paid a high tribute to Miss Deal, who paved the way for this unit of public school education. Miss Deal entered the local public school service in 1908 as a teacher of mathematics at McKinley High School. She left the school service for a period to engage in war service and returned in 1919. She was appointed principal of the Columbia Junior High School, Washington's first junior high school. She died in March of 1928.

Construction Details.

Giving more details on the present school construction program, Dr. Ballou revealed that 133 additional elementary school classrooms are to be supplied by next year, 91 of which are in the Chevy Chase section, representing an expenditure of $2,450,000 and accommodating 5,320 extra children. The new junior high school buildings will accommodate 4,195 additional children at a cost of $3,370,000 for the construction work. Additions to the high schools will be represented by the Roosevelt High School replacing Business High being erected at a cost of $1,250,000 minus equipment, the superintendent showed. Despite these additions, Dr. Ballou has already pointed out that by the beginning of 1933, the elementary schools will be short 124 classrooms, the junior high schools will lack accommodations for 3,361 pupils and the senior high schools will be short of needs for 2,166 pupils.

Songs were given at the exercises by former members of the Columbia Junior high school Glee Club. This school was abandoned as a junior high school last September and the pupils are now scattered in other junior high schools throughout the city. The Glee Club members gathered together last night as a tribute to the first principal of their former school whose name now lives in the new junior high school. Miss Hannah Bonell directed the singing.

Deanwood School Addition Dedicated

Four-Room Annex and Assembly Hall Are Presented.

Dedicatory exercises were held last night in the new auditorium of the Deanwood School, under auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association and the Citizens Association for the presentation to the Board of Education of a four-room addition and assembly hall by F. D. Walsh, representing the office of the Engineer Commissioner, and acceptance on the part of the Board of Education by Mrs. M. A. McNeill. John C. Bruce, supervising principal, presided.

The invocation was said by the Rev. R. E. Broadus. Brief addresses of historical and inspirational character, were made by P. E. Tolliver, president of the Deanwood Citizens Association; S. M. Sanderson, president of the Parent-Teacher Association; Garnet C. Wilkinson, assistant superintendent of schools; Fannie S. Bruce, former principal, and Berenice Brown, present principal of the Deanwood building. The benediction was said by the Rev. C. M. Tilden.

Musical numbers were furnished by Levington Smith, Jewel Jennifer, Ethel Gibbs and the Community Center's Band, under direction of J. E. Miller.

Skyviews of Washington, No. 13

Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc.

THE Dupont Circle area, for many years the stronghold of Washington society, now yielding in spots to the uptown encroachments of business, is shown in the above air photo.

Connecticut avenue may be seen running diagonally into the circle. The tall, flatiron-shaped building just above is the new Dupont Circle Apartments, and the small corner building on the opposite side of the avenue houses a branch of the Federal-American National Bank.

The Riggs National Bank also is represented with a branch on the circle. Its roof may be seen on the lower side of the grove of trees where Connecticut avenue and Massachusetts avenue, running at right angles, intersect. On the opposite side of Connecticut avenue is Small's flower shop.

33 ARE QUESTIONED, 4 ARRESTED IN RAID

Vice Squad Descends Upon Reputed Gambling House in I Street.

Four men were booked on charges of permitting gaming and 33 men were held temporarily for questioning after a warrantless foray by members of the headquarters vice squad yesterday afternoon on a purported gambling house at 713 I street northwest.

Those arrested on the gaming charges were Abe Huit, 29, 920 Farragut street northwest; Lawrence Butt, 21 years old, 633 Franklin street northeast; Thomas Simon, 28 years old, 1220 N street northwest, and Joseph H. Linkins, 28 years old, 3609 O street northwest.

All of the 33 men taken in the raid besides the alleged principals were released after being given summons to appear in court against the latter.

The raid was conducted by Sergt. N. O. Holmes, assisted by Privates T. M. McVearry and R. S. Bryant. Admittance was gained easily, Sergt. Holmes said, the place apparently being "wide open." All paraphernalia for the conduct of a race betting establishment was found, Sergt. Holmes said, including a radio, telephones, betting slips. Tables obviously rigged up for other forms of gambling were found by the raiders, but they said no games were in progress at the time except the race betting.

Razing in Triangle Is Moving Forward

Congress May Deal With Fight Over Ousting of Traction Company.

Clearance of the property in the Government triangle building area is moving steadily forward with three buildings on the site of the Postoffice Department scheduled to be razed next week.

The terminal of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway, however, will be left standing as the company has entered court action which now prohibits the Government from tearing up the tracks during the next 60 days.

An appeal in the matter is now pending with the Court of Appeals and should the Government be further held up in ousting the company from the area it is understood that Congress will be requested to pass legislation which will force the railway to abandon the property.

Police Hold Driver In Crash With Hearse

A collision between a hearse and an automobile at First street and Florida avenue northwest yesterday resulted in the arrest of the driver of the automobile.

Police said Roy Gordon Dickinson, 20 years old, of 1112 Owen place northeast, driving east on Florida avenue, attempted to break through a funeral procession and struck the hearse of the Schofield & Sayer Co., driven by H. J. Taltavull, of 436 Seventh street southwest. The funeral procession was delayed for about 10 minutes, but neither machine was badly damaged. Dickinson posted $5 collateral.

Crane Squawks, Like Mules In War Zone, to Be Silenced

Complaint That Senator Costigan's Sleep Is Disturbed by Powerful Blasts in Tuneful Moments Bears Fruit; Tonsils to Be Cut.

The cranes at the Zoo are going to have their tonsils out.

That seems to be the only method thus far devised by Director William M. Mann and Curator Blackburn to answer the deluge of complaints from senators and others living near the National Zoological Park that boisterous cranes were disturbing their early-morning slumbers.

After Senator Edward Costigan, of Colorado, has started the protestations with a complaint that the plaintive love calls of the cranes gossipping over the back fences of their stalls near the birdhouse, Dr. Mann and Mr. Blackburn came to the conclusion that perhaps something ought to be done about it.

In its more tuneful moments, the vocal efforts of a crane sounds something like a concrete mixer with the heaves dropping through the roof of a Department of Agriculture greenhouse. When a crane really gets its pipes limbered up and functioning 100 per cent, the result can not be described without mortal injury to every linotype machine in the composing room.

Maxim silencers, muzzles and various types of mufflers have been tried, but in each case the result was the same: There was no result. There seems to be some quality about a crane's voice that simply defies all mechanical attempts at modulation.

Extensive research by Curator Blackburn, however, revealed the news that it is possible by a delicate tonsil operation to curtail the volume of a crane's broadcasting equipment.

On the other hand, Mr. Blackburn has been cautioned that unless the operation is a complete success it will have the effect of reorganizing the crane's vocal apparatus to create a crescendo diapason effect which would be just too bad for any eardrums within two miles of the crane.

And anyway, after sitting up all night for the past four nights and doing some heavy sleuthing, Dr. Mann and Curator Blackburn have discovered that it wasn't the cranes anyway that made all the noise; it was a couple of other birds down in the water-fowl pen.

Nellie's Bold Burly Burglar Mystery Solved by Mother

The masked burglar who climbed through the third-floor window of her home at 617 Twenty-first street northwest last night was a huge, rough fellow, Nellie Seewald, 11 years old, told police. She dropped the book she was reading—it was Stevenson's "Kidnaped"—as he entered the room and demanded "all the money in the house."

The little girl said she told the intruder that she had no money, but the man searched the room thoroughly and then made a tour of the house, escaping by the front door.

Private E. Fillmore, of the Third Precinct, who answered her frantic telephone call for aid, found Nellie huddled in the front porch swing. She gave him her story and a detailed description of the burglar, and Private Fillmore wrote every clew down in his pad, starting the wheels of justice moving on a quest for the second-story man.

Private Fillmore, however, found that all the windows in the house were shut tightly, and locked, but Nellie told him she had not put them down after the man left.

The city-wide search for the bold intruder was well under way when it was suddenly called off. The little girl's mother called the station and said that Nellie had finally told her that the burglar was a figment of her imagination, aroused by Stevenson's vivid book.

Diplomat's Pet Dog Missing.

Senor Juan Mendoza, secretary of the Peruvian Legation here, asked police aid yesterday in locating a 14-month-old fox terrier which strayed away from the home of the diplomat at 2737 Devonshire place northwest.

4 Attempt 'Fun' Holdup; But to Police It's Serious

Police doubted the story of four men that their alleged attempts to hold up a taxi driver were just a "joke" and held them all for investigation. The men were brought to the line-up at headquarters last night and then transferred back to the Second Precinct.

George Thomas Hawkins, colored taxi driver, of 1106 North Capitol street, told police that he had two passengers in his cab when at Massachusetts avenue and L street northwest, a coupe bearing Ohio tags pulled up beside him and a man flashed a light in his face, and then ordered him to pull into the curb.

Instead of complying he sped to the police station to report the affair. When he came out with police, his passengers had disappeared.

Police later picked up the coupe, they said, and found the taxi driver's former passengers in it with two other men. The quartet gave their names as Thomas L. Stubbs, 38 years old, of 3953 Twenty-ninth street northeast; Joseph T. Henry, alias James Stetson, 27, of 415 R street northwest; Robert B. Talbutt, 28, of 4441 Greenwich Parkway northwest, and James A. Graham, 29, of 807 I street northwest.

ARMED MAN BEATS WOMAN IN GARAGE

Robber Attacks Victim With Fists and Makes Escape With $9.30.

A woman was brutally beaten by a colored robber last night who trapped her by a ruse in a fourteen-car garage at the Senate Court Apartments, 120 C street northeast. The thug was frightened away by the woman's screams, but managed to take her pocketbook, containing $9.30 and valuable papers, before aid reached her.

Mrs. Amelia Shields, 51 years old, had just put away her car and was going through the garage to her apartment upstairs when she was halted by someone knocking on the door. In response to her query a male voice answered:

"Open the door, I want to put my car away."

When she started to open the door the man put his foot in the aperture, and then shoved his way in, drawing a gun as he did so. "Put 'em up," he said, "I've got you."

Mrs. Shields ran almost the length of the garage, but before she could gain the stairs she fell. The man pounced upon her, and they struggled for several minutes. Mrs. Shields suffered severe bruises in the melee. Her cries attracted the janitor and Mrs. Shield's brother-in-law, but the man fled before they arrived. Mrs. Shields was treated for her injuries and shock by a private physician.

Jack Ahern Freed On Liquor Charge

Club Proprietor and Four Others Are Acquitted in Police Court.

Jack Ahern and four other defendants were acquitted yesterday by a Police Court jury on a charge of maintaining a nuisance and second offense possession of whisky, in connection with cases made about two months ago on the Club Continental at 815 Vermont avenue northwest.

A special employe of the Prohibition Bureau made eight visits to the place during August and September, the Government said, and introduced an informer who testified that on four occasions he bought whisky at the club and drank it before leaving. Four pints of alleged gin, said to have been purchased there by the informer, were exhibited as evidence.

Ahern and the other four defendants, however, termed the place a social "eating club," and pointed out that several police officers had been in the place to inspect it. They denied that liquor was sold. The other defendants were John S. Peyton, H. S. Simmons, Harry W. Wood and Joseph H. Hall, colored. Ahern was defended by Attorney Harry Whelan.

Large Southwest Barn And House Razed by Fire

Fanned by a high wind, a stubborn fire which, despite the efforts of firemen, continued to blaze for more than an hour last night destroyed a large barn and part of a two-story frame house at 1919 One-half street southwest.

ENGINEER RAPIDLY COMPLETING WORK ON KLINGLE BRIDGE

New $500,000 Structure Is Expected to Be Ready by First of Year.

BOTH SPANS PRESENT STRIKING CONTRASTS

Building Has Caused Little Interruption to Flow of Traffic.

With but little interruption to the steady flow of traffic over Connecticut avenue, the new $500,000 Klingle Valley Bridge is rapidly replacing the 40-year-old structure that was erected in what was then the countryside surrounding the National Capital.

Already a month ahead of schedule, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the Highway Department, hopes to have the new bridge completed by the first of the year. Work was started about May 1, and the contract called for completion within nine months.

Striking Contrast.

The old and new spans, the one gradually disappearing as the other appears, present striking contrasts in modern and obsolete bridge construction. The new structure has only one arch, 250 feet between buttons, and has a loading capacity of 20 tons as compared to the six tons of the old bridge. The new span has a 60-foot roadway, capable of being expanded to 80 feet, as against the 35 feet of the old.

By building the bridge in three sections, the contractor kept a lane for traffic open at all times. Hardly before passing motorists realized what was going on the old structure had been replaced by the new, and now the weight of passing vehicles is carried entirely on the steel arch.

The shift was made none too soon because one of the piers holding up the old floor, which had been raised six feet several years ago, was found to have cracked a short time ago. A special watch was maintained to see that the crack did not become dangerous.

Was Built in 1891.

The old Klingle Valley Bridge was built in 1891 by the Rock Creek Railway, forerunner of the Capital Traction Co., and was turned over to the District Commissioners July 20 of that year. The cost of $35,000 was borne by the street railway. Since the District assumed control, its maintenance has cost $60,000.

The bridge will have stone face abutments when completed and, because of the single long arch, will interfere in no way with a view of Klingle Valley.

Police Seek Rum Car Driver After Accident

Police last night were still seeking for the driver of the rum car with which Private George W. Cook, of the Traffic Bureau, collided as he chased the machine on his motorcycle early yesterday. Cook sustained a fractured right foot, ankle and a severe shake-up.

License plates on the car were found to be "dead," but a second set of tags found in a sidepocket along with a registration card were hoped to be reliable clews to the identity of the driver who escaped on foot after abandoning the machine. Three hundred and thirty-six quarts of liquor were discovered in the car. It was equipped with a smoke screen.

Fess to Introduce Bill on Memorial

Ohio Senator Favors Shaft of Light to Be Erected at Hains Point.

A bill, to be introduced in the coming Congress by Senator Fess, of Ohio, will provide a site at Hains Point for the proposed Edison National Memorial. Senator Fess agreed to introduce the bill following a conference with the Fine Arts Commission and the District Edison National Memorial committee.

The bill will ask that the beacon light, which under present plans will soon be erected at Hains Point, be mounted on a suitable base as a lasting memorial to the great inventor.

"The idea of a light, which was Mr. Edison's gift to the world," Senator Fess said, "is a beautiful thought and I am heartily in favor of it."

Scientists to Outline Effects of Drought

The effects of drought upon plant and animal life will be discussed by a number of scientists before the Biological Society of Washington tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Cosmos Club. After the talks there will be an open forum discussion of the subject.

The scientists are M. B. Waite, Bureau of Plant Industry; C. R. Lucas, of the Bureau of Fisheries; W. W. Bell, U. S. Biological Survey; James A. Hyslop, Bureau of Entomology, and M. K. Brady.

Woman Hurt by Missile.

A woman passenger aboard a Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car was injured slightly yesterday when she was struck in the eye by a clod of dirt thrown by a group of small boys who had gathered on the wall at McKinley High School. The woman, Mrs. Louise Matheny, 25 years old, of 2205 Newton street northwest, was treated at Sibley Hospital. The boys escaped.

Boo! Beware! It's Friday, Black 13th

Without the slightest idea of tossing wet blankets, this is merely by way of reminding readers—casual, constant, et al—that today is Friday, the 13th.

Not only that, but it's the third Friday, the 13th, this year. And how are all your folks, now that Christmas is only 35 shopping days away?

But seriously (the occasion really calls for seriousness, don't you think?) isn't this Friday-the-13th stuff largely baloney? Of course, it seems to be the root of all evil—now that money seems to have been abolished, or whatever they did to money to cause it to disappear—but after all, the world has been struggling along for several years now and every one who reads this is still alive.

Ever since way back in what we laughingly call the "good old days," Friday, the 13th, has been regarded as a hoodoo date. Friday alone was bad enough, or an unaccompanied 13th, but combine the two, and it's supposed to be just too bad.

Friday, the 13th, is supposed, for instance, to be a most unlucky day on which to begin a jail sentence, pass a red light, or rubber check, or invite Mr. Woodcock to a wine-brick party.

If the author of this blurb can manage to elude his 13 creditors today, he'll defy any one to convince him it was an unlucky day.

PHYSICIAN IS HELD AFTER GIRL'S DEATH

Operation Leads to Charge of Coroner's Jury Against Dr. B. H. Smart.

Dr. Benjamin Horace Smart, of 237 Rhode Island avenue northwest, was ordered held for grand jury action on a murder charge by a coroner's jury yesterday after it heard evidence in the death of Hortense Gregon, 17 years old, of Weedonsville, Va., at Sibley Hospital Sunday night.

Robert Clift, 17 years old, also of Weedonsville, who testified he brought the girl there and that he paid the doctor for performing an operation, was not held for the grand jury, but will appear as a Government witness.

A verdict of accidental death was handed in by the panel in the fatal injury of Aloysius O'Connor, 30-year-old mechanic at the Greyhound Bus Garage, on Monday. Dewell Futrell, 30-year-old fellow employe of the dead man, testified that a huge bus lurched forward instead of backward, as he had intended, while he was backing it off a grease pit, crushing O'Connor.

Death by natural causes was the decision of the jury in the death of Joseph Sherer, 69 years old, of 1109 Four-and-a-Half street northwest. It was thought at first that Sherer might have died as the result of an accident he figured in some time ago, but an autopsy revealed a stomach ailment brought about his death.

Traffic on Bridge Halted by Crash

15-Minute Delay Is Caused by Collision of Truck and Three Autos.

Traffic on Highway Bridge was at a standstill for more than 15 minutes last night, following a collision between a huge oil truck and three other machines.

According to police, the truck, operated by Levi S. Long of 1539 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, was traveling north on the wrong side of the bridge. After crossing more than half the bridge, the truck was finally stopped by irate motorists, who summoned police. Although no one was injured, another truck and two machines were badly damaged.

Those who lodged complaints against Long were William F. Posey, of 934 Fourth street northeast Theodore Nelson of 902 B street southwest and John E. Posey of Alexandria, Va. A preliminary hearing will be held in Police Court tomorrow morning.

140 Young Women To Sell Tickets

Benefit Day Performance for Unemployment Set Next Wednesday.

Approximately 140 young women of the various organizations of the city will be stationed in the lobbies of the various hotels, department stores and theaters to sell tickets for the D. C. Motion Picture Benefit Day Performances for the unemployed.

The matinee tickets sold in the lobbies will be recognized by any neighborhood moving picture theater in town. A matinee will be held in every house, except the downtown theaters, on next Wednesday afternoon. The tickets are selling for 25 cents each.

The monies derived from this benefit day will be turned over to the District of Columbia committee on employment for unemployment relief in this city.

Rabbi Wise to Be Guest.

The Rev. Dr. Jonah B. Wise, Rabbi of the Central Synagogue of New York City, will preach this evening at the Eighth Street Temple. He will discuss the "modern Jewish problems." The services will start at 8 o'clock.

EDITH RILEY'S AUNT TO ASK HER CUSTODY AFTER SHE IS WELL

Mrs. Louise Hall Desires to Raise Closet Victim, She Announces.

PLANS TO ASK COURT TO MAKE HER GUARDIAN

Woman Denies Abnormality of Little Girl After Observation.

As soon as Edith Riley has recovered from the effects of her alleged four-year imprisonment in a closet, her aunt, Mrs. Louise Hall, will make application for her custody, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Hall now has in her care, Francis Riley, the 15-year-old brother of Edith.

"I want Edith at the end of the six-month period she is to spend as a ward of the Welfare Board," Mrs. Hall said. "When this time has elapsed I will go into court and ask that Edith be given into my care."

Mrs. Hall, the sister of the children's mother, took Francis Riley on shopping tour yesterday and bought him a new outfit of clothes. Francis will be sent back to his classes at the Langley Junior High School on Monday.

"I have been with Edith for two afternoons," Mrs. Hall said, "and neither I nor her nurses noticed any of the bad habits which her stepmother said she has. She seems to me to be just a little baby girl. But she can take care of herself like a normal child."

Nurses at the children's ward at Gallinger Hospital say Edith is gaining weight rapidly, at the rate of a pound a day. Her legs and body are taking on flesh.

Her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Riley, are at liberty on $2,500 bond on a charge of cruelty to children.

Taxi Firm Official And Aid Are Married

Judge Robert Mattingly, of the District Police Court, officiated yesterday at the marriage of Andrew W. Magner, secretary and treasurer of the Diamond Cab Co., and Miss Mary Deery, office manager of the same company. The couple was married in Judge Mattingly's office.

The wedding culminated an office romance. The pair met while working for the taxicab company and a hasty courtship followed. After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Magner will make their home at 824 Tewskbury place northwest.

Mather Estate Cash Sent Employes Here

Under the will of the late Stephen Mather, former director of the National Parks Service, which bequeathed $10,000 to loyal members of the staff which served under him, approximately 30 employes of the Washington office of the service yesterday received checks from the Mather estate.

There were only minor differences in the sums Mr. Mather left the employes, many of whom have been with the office ever since it was inaugurated. Mr. Mather, as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, was instrumental in bringing about establishment of the service.

Firemen Stop Garage Fire Before It Damages House

Thomas W. Schaeffer, of 3312 Holmead place northwest, last night ran his light coupe into his garage beside his higher priced sedan and, after locking the door, prepared to forget about them for the night.

He had hardly gotten inside his house, however, before he was forcibly reminded of both cars. Hearing a frenzied cry of "Fire!" he dashed out to find his garage ablaze. Firemen managed to confine the fire to the garage, but that structure and both automobiles were badly damaged.

The Schaeffer garage is attached to the rear porch of his two-story residence, and is one of a long row of structures reaching for almost a block. Firemen prevented a spread of the flames. They said the fire started through a short circuit in the coupe's wiring.
